GGA Holds Meeting To Draw Rules More Palatable

VIRGINIA BEACH—An unpublicized meeting at the Pine Tree Inn reportedly attended by about 20 persons was held recently by the new group known as the "Good Government Association", according to one of its listed directors, F. Red Ervin.

Ervin said that the group met and considered changes in its articles of incorporation, initial by-laws and constitution. He added that the by-laws and constitution would probably be adopted sometime in November.

The original articles of incorporation stated that the incorporation members of Good Government Fund, Inc., would be made up of those who made a financial pledge, but that the members would not have the right to vote on corporation matters.

Another article in the incorporation papers stated that the original incorporators would be the initial Board of Directors, and that the initial directors would serve for life. Another article stated that the number of directors would remain constant until increased by unanimous vote of the existing board.

The original directors were identified as Beverly P. Middleton, Daniel J. Arris, J. Frank Milburn, F. Red Ervin and Rhae Adams. Adams was to serve as president. In addition the names of members of the Association were not to be divulged even though a financial contribution was made.

Reportedly the Association and Fund were having difficulty getting financial pledges and members because of the strict rule of a few and lack of active participation.

Ervin noted that amendments to the fund setup were discussed, including the election of directors at intervals and membership voting rights. He also said it was decided that no elected public official or candidate for office would be eligible to serve as an officer director, if the constitution under consideration is passed.

The membership of the group has still not been made public, and it is doubtful that the secret rolls will be made available.

The stated purpose of the Association is to "promote good representative government at the Federal, State and Local levels to the best interest of the citizens of the City of Virginia Beach, Virginia". Further amplification of these principles have not been forthcoming, and the Association's stand on present government officials has not been released.

It is believed that the Association has been formed as an "anti" group, much like the Roger Meece group of the 50's, against the present dominant organization governing Virginia Beach, however no criticisms of anything have been leveled so far. Two of the directors, Ervin and Adams, have been unsuccessful anti-Organization candidates in the past. There is still no word available whether City Treasurer and long-time Organization supporter V. A. Etheridge has accepted or will accept a position on a key committee of GGA, reportedly offered to him.

INTER-CITY RADIO HOOKUP

Police Install New System

By Jack Moore

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Virginia Beach Police Department has become the first Tidewater community to install its portion of the new police inter-city communications system.

The new innovation in crime fighting was the brainchild of the Tidewater Crime Clinic, which is headed by Virginia Beach's Chief of Safety, Reeves E. Johnson.

This new radio network allows the various Tidewater communities to communicate with each other more rapidly than ever. Previously, all communities were carried either by the state police teletype or by telephone. Now with the push of a button any one department can broadcast emergency information to any or all of the other departments in the area.

The new system, according to the Crime Clinic, will cost each police department approximately $2,000, a cheap price for the increased effectiveness in the fight against crime.

All the Tidewater cities, with the exception of Portsmouth, have begun taking steps towards installing their portions of the system. Portsmouth, however, is expected to follow suit quickly.

The system involves one long-coded channel of ultra-high frequency. In layman's terms, the system works this way: when a department begins a broadcast its transmitter emits a tone which in turn triggers the other transmitters of the system.

This move by Virginia Beach, in being first to install its portion of the system, is part of the department's continuing effort to increase its efficiency through communications.

Only recently the Virginia Beach Police Department installed a new master control panel at Princess Anne Court House. The Beach force was the first Tidewater department to equip its boat patrolmen with "walkie-talkies". The borough policemen were equipped with the hand sets three years ago. Twenty such sets are seeing action on the beach this summer. The little two-watt radio can relay its transmission through the 300-watt transmitter at Princess Anne Court House, thereby giving the boat patrolmen and any other department that uses it unlimited mobility.

The police department has 16 of these hand sets in addition to their other units. Those other units include 75 vehicles—cars, trucks, jeeps and boats.

The new master control panel was installed last September and features many safety and emergency features not before provided. At present, the department is using one radio channel, but has applied for and has received approval for a second.

The dispatcher now has the controls for all the emergency and backup systems at his fingertips. The new emergency system includes a power generator in the event of a power failure, so that police communications can continue uninterrupted.

The "radio room" at police headquarters is staffed by a number of men, any of whom can operate the master controls. Ten people are ready to take over the duties of the dispatcher, should the need arise. They are familiar with all phases of the operation—from answering the phone, to taking complaints, to operating the teletype machines.

Prior to the department's move to increase its communications effectiveness, there was no tele-service between the First Precinct and the Second Precinct. Now the department has installed a teletype system for just precinct communication. This was done in advance of the construction of the Third Precinct in Bayside.

All the radio communications installation work was done by C. L. Hinkle and L. L. Puffin of Tidewater Electronics Company.

The firm not only installed the equipment for the department but also services it as well.

The communications department of the Virginia Beach Police Department is commanded by Lt. R. J. Hadley, who hopes to increase the effectiveness of his department even more in the future.

Seaside To Close

VA. BEACH—Seaside Park in Virginia Beach Borough will close Monday night, after a successful season climaxing on Labor Day.

Center On Wheels To Be Built

V.A. BEACH—Another shopping center will be built in Virginia Beach, but this one will be unique on the East Coast, according to Thomas Kvas, of Laras in Realty Company, who announced the center Wednesday afternoon.

The Center is to be known as the Center on Wheels and will consist of two automobile agencies, and the sale and service of anything on wheels. The center is already under construction on Virginia Beach Boulevard in Lynnhaven Borough one mile east of Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center. RK Chevrolet and Enrhae Ford will anchor the two ends of the center, and it is projected for the rest of the retail and service outlets to be located between the two.

Although no firm leases have been signed as yet, the transportation center is designed to serve the needs of the city in all automotive needs. There will be many "wheel" related firms, such as an auto-mobile financing and insurance firm, two service stations, a car rental agency, a car wash, tire shop, muffler shop, glass shop, trim and upholstery shop, glass and radiator shop and even a display of private places for purchase or rental.

In addition, there will be a surf board shop, bike and motorcycle shop, boat sales store, self-service laundry, barber shop, beauty shop, and restaurant.

The center will be built at a cost of over $3 million. There will be parking for over 400 cars in the center. The entire center is expected to do a gross business of about $18 million.

Completion of the entire center is expected in the spring of 1967. Rental is being handled by Larasan & Kellam & Eaton.

Investigation Continues Into Shooting, Gun Battle, Suicide

VIRGINIA BEACH—Police are continuing their investigation into the shooting-suicide Sunday night, which began at the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club and ended near five hours later in a cottage on Virginia Beach Boulevard.

After shooting a stranger, engaging in a fierce gun battle with Virginia Beach police, narrowly missing several people and causing considerable property damage with an arsenal of guns, John Wesley Murphy, 49, of 125 Virginia Beach Boulevard, apparently shot and killed himself.

Friends and neighbors have described the late trailer court operator as a quiet person devoted to his wife and two children. He added, however, that he sometimes drank too much but had never been known to cause a serious problem during those periods. He was apparently well-liked by all who knew him.

Close acquaintances also said he was extremely distraught about the death of his mother about two weeks ago. They said the two had been very close. In addition, friends said he was upset concerning the condition of his daughter Kitchie, 16, whom they said had been hospitalized "about a week ago".

There was speculation that Murphy went "berserk" Sunday evening. Police said that they were called to the Murphy home by his wife, Arnette. She had reportedly told police her husband had pointed a gun at her and "clicked it", thus doing the same to other relatives in the house.

Mrs. Murphy left the house and spent the night with friends, although she was brought back to the house during the shooting incident by police but did not leave the car. She said her husband had been drinking. Police left the house when they thought Murphy had gone to bed.

Shortly after 10 p.m. Murphy called a cab and asked the driver, L. M. Potter, to take him to a house on 5th Street, then to the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club. Murphy reportedly told Potter he was looking for his daughter.

Once inside the club he pulled out a gun and a knife, and a bystander, Carl Wayne King, 22, of Durham, North Carolina, attempted to stop him. King allegedly hit Murphy and Murphy shot him at the front door of the club in clear view of the cab driver who alerted police.

Murphy told Potter he would not hurt him and to take him home. The cab driver complied. Moments later police and the cab driver parked nearby and their cars were riddled with bullets. Six police vehicles and the cab were struck by bullets from all types of guns, according to police.

Several people, including police and some of Murphy's relatives, as well as innocent motorists and neighbors in the trailer court were pinned down by bullet fire which narrowly missed at least three persons. Two policemen were nearly hit, according to police reports.

The gun battle ended shortly after midnight, but police did not try to enter the house until three hours later after firing tear gas in the windows. When they entered they found Murphy dead on the sofa, apparently the victim of a self-inflicted head wound. A small pistol was reportedly found at his side.

Also in the house, police found to be worth thousands of dollars, about 15 weapons in all, including an elephant gun which had been used in the gun battle. Murphy was an expert shot, an avid hunter and a gun collector.

It was also reported that Murphy thought the young man responsible for his daughter's being in the hospital where she reportedly was suffering from some sort of nervous disorder. Although police would not confirm or deny the reports, it was rumored that Murphy believed the man had been killing for a man who had been out with his 16-year-old daughter. Police confirmed that they had

Wesleyan Next For Ruth

She's laughing admitted to being "addicted to reading." "I read everything I can. As a child I read all the books with a flashlight under the covers! I've read by candlelight, while walking while cooking (I do with one hand and hold a book in the other), while eating, while waiting. I couldn't exist without my reading."

Ruth is very pleased with the opportunity of teaching at Virginia Wesleyan. "With it being a new college we will make our own traditions. There are no founders to emulate; no ivy walls to review. We are starting as a new intimate family in a new school. Here we will know our pupils, and our students will know us."

Knowing Ruth Sherman will be a delight to both students and faculty members. She was born in Massachusetts, attended schools in Boston and Paris, Zurich and Charlotte, N. C. where she finished high school. She furthered her education at such educational institutions as Southern Seminary (Berea Vista), University of California (Berkeley) and University of Rhode Island (Kingston). She received her AB and MA degrees at URI in English Literature.

She is currently of a leave of absence from the George Washington University (Washington, D.C.) where she is enrolled in the doctoral program in English Literature. Member of the Graduate Council there, and has completed all courses for her PhD.

Recently she was a graduate teaching assistant in the Department of English at the University of Rhode Island, and an Instructor, part time, in the Department of Freshman English at the George Washington University.

And in a couple of weeks she will be at Virginia Wesleyan as an Instructor in English together with Joseph H. Harkey who has taught at North Georgia College, the Adirondack Community College in New York, and has been Dean of Men at Fredrick College.

The study of English will take on new life at Virginia Wesleyan when Ruth Sherman brings her enthusiasm and vigor and vast store of knowledge to the freshman class at Wesleyan College.

Mrs. Sherman, a stylish and youthful appearing Brunette with blue-green eyes, went straight to the point regarding her career and women who work in general. "I believe a woman should be qualified to hold a job, in case she wants to, and in case she needs to. If she wants to work at her profession, she should have that privilege. If she must work, she should have some kind of skill and knowledge so she may work toward her own independence and happiness."

Miss Judy Laramee, of Buffalo, N.Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Laramee, formerly of Virginia Beach, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rosen of Chesapeake Colony.

A Pretty American

By Douglas Barnes

A very popular book entitled "The Ugly American" was a novel on the Best Seller list a year or so ago. As a representative of the American way of life and as a foreign diplomat, the hero was distinctly "ugly" in character and his image created the wrong impression of America as a whole.

The analysis of this impression will be given to the pupils and friends of Mary Ann ("Tessie") Ganzel, a former teacher and librarian in the Virginia Beach school system, who left last week for Naples, where she will be a Librarian at the Forest Sherman Elementary School for Naval Dependents in this Italian metropolis.

Last year she was in Greece on the staff of an Air Force School. Before taking up her duties, she will join friends to visit Madrid,

City Demos Back Spong, Byrd, Downing

VIRGINIA BEACH — The City Democratic Committee has named its chairmen and vice-chairmen, as co-chairmen of the Virginia Beach campaign for U. S. Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr. and State Senator William B. Spong, Jr. in the Senatorial races and for First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing, who is unopposed.

John V. Fenster and R. R. (Buddy) McChesney will be the campaign managers in the November general election.

Fenster noted that the City Democratic Committee plans to wage an organized campaign for the two Senate seats and the congressional seat. He said, "We will not just give lip service to the campaigns."

Fenster and McChesney had both backed Robertson against Spong in the July primary. Fenster said, "That's over now."

He added that the aim of the Committee now is the election of Democrats in November. Byrd and Spong are the Democratic nominees for the U. S. Senate, opposed by Republicans and Conservatives.

In addition the Committee approved a resolution to hold over all unused campaigning funds for a "war chest", and another to expand the committee by 12 members.

Lions Sponsor Essay Contest

The youth of Virginia Beach have been given a challenge to develop a plan for world peace by their local Lions Club — a challenge that could earn one of them $25,000 educational and/or career assistance grant.

The Thalia Lions Club, together with Lions Clubs throughout the world, is sponsoring a world-wide essay contest for the world's youth on the most important world subject today — Peace. The contest offers $30,000 in total awards, including the $25,000 first prize, eight semi-final world regional awards of $1,000 each and travel expenses for the eight winners to Chicago, Illinois, July 19, 1967.

At that time the first prize winner will be chosen from the eight. Also, more than 20,000 local, district and multiple district awards will be made.

"We want to alert our youth to the need for world peace and focus attention on that important goal," said.

In announcing the contest internationally, President Lindsey said that Lions International, the world's largest service club organization is well qualified to sponsor such a contest.

He said the world-wide representation of Lions, the attention given to international relations and friendship between different nationalities and their participation in international programs were their credentials for the patronage of the contest.

Contestants should submit their entry in essay form, not to exceed 5,000 words. "Judging will fall in four categories: 75 per cent of the essay's points will be devoted to content, ten per cent to style, and five per cent to mechanics,"

Thomas said. "The mechanics segment will be used to appraise the grammatical construction of the essay." Three judges will be appointed to evaluate the entries submitted to our club," Thomas said.

"If our winner can advance through the judging stages up to the world finals he will receive an expense paid trip to Chicago to attend the Lions International 50th Annual Convention for the final judging of his essay in addition to the $1,000 award."

The contest sponsored by more than 20,000 Lions Clubs in the world.

"If our winner can advance through the judging stages up to the world finals he will receive an expense paid trip to Chicago to attend the Lions International 50th Annual Convention for the final judging of his essay in addition to the $1,000 award."

The contest sponsored by more than 20,000 Lions Clubs in the world.

There's always something special about a fashion show, and there's always something very special about a little girl growing up and becoming clothes conscious. She may not be a Conover or a Powers model, but at a fashion show, present, at the Cavalier Beach and Cabana Club Sunday night, the second of Shirley Fenster's and Nellie Bryant's Beauty and Charm Camp students gave a near professional performance of modeling.

The show culminated in a sumptuous Sunday night buffet, attended by about 150 members and guests, and was served in the Captain's Table, hosted by a royal blue corduroy Haymeyer suit. The Captain's Table, hosted by a royal blue corduroy Haymeyer suit.

A "Mr. Pans" suit of checked pants and high necked hunter's green sweater made Laura Early ready for Fall, while Martha Kellam looked as if she had stepped from the cover of Mademoiselle. Martha modeled a black and white checked suit with short circular skirt; the buttoned jacket almost hung to her waist.

Suzanne Murden and Patty Garrison were "Mr. Pans" sport ensembles; Debbie Pritchard modeled a black and white corduroy Haymeyer suit. Mary Snyder Baker, selected as one of First Colonial High's cheerleaders, and fresh from competition in the Surfing Carnival, was a beauty in a short Empire pink chiffon, with frontal bow. She exuded good health and her very long brown hair glistened to enhance her outdoor peach complexion.

Popular and witty Holly Ward, a junior at First Colonial, a honey blonde with green-blue eyes, wore a high-waisted white winter wool with boat neckline, caught in front with a large pink satin bow. Watch out, fellows!

Others modeling were Anna Peterson, Jennifer Hieffner, Ewing Fears, (watched critically by her 2 small brothers, Larry and Alan) seated sedately on steps leading to the patio) Jeanine Elmire, Beverly Goodman, Chee Chee Robbins, Sally Venner, Linda Miller, Roma Emanuel, Anne Buffington, Linda Murphy, Diane Brothers, Carol Preston, Carol Adriance, Terry Dee, Denise Bailey, Peggy Tugman, Candy Casey, and Pam Zorn, and Mary Hillegeen.

Wesleyan Next For Ruth

She's laughing admitted to being "addicted to reading." "I read everything I can. As a child I read all the books with a flashlight under the covers! I've read by candlelight, while walking while cooking (I do with one hand and hold a book in the other), while eating, while waiting. I couldn't exist without my reading."

Ruth is very pleased with the opportunity of teaching at Virginia Wesleyan. "With it being a new college we will make our own traditions. There are no founders to emulate; no ivy walls to review. We are starting as a new intimate family in a new school. Here we will know our pupils, and our students will know us."

Knowing Ruth Sherman will be a delight to both students and faculty members. She was born in Massachusetts, attended schools in Boston and Paris, Zurich and Charlotte, N. C. where she finished high school. She furthered her education at such educational institutions as Southern Seminary (Berea Vista), University of California (Berkeley) and University of Rhode Island (Kingston). She received her AB and MA degrees at URI in English Literature.

She is currently of a leave of absence from the George Washington University (Washington, D.C.) where she is enrolled in the doctoral program in English Literature. Member of the Graduate Council there, and has completed all courses for her PhD.

Recently she was a graduate teaching assistant in the Department of English at the University of Rhode Island, and an Instructor, part time, in the Department of Freshman English at the George Washington University.

And in a couple of weeks she will be at Virginia Wesleyan as an Instructor in English together with Joseph H. Harkey who has taught at North Georgia College, the Adirondack Community College in New York, and has been Dean of Men at Fredrick College.

The study of English will take on new life at Virginia Wesleyan when Ruth Sherman brings her enthusiasm and vigor and vast store of knowledge to the freshman class at Wesleyan College.

Mrs. Sherman, a stylish and youthful appearing Brunette with blue-green eyes, went straight to the point regarding her career and women who work in general. "I believe a woman should be qualified to hold a job, in case she wants to, and in case she needs to. If she wants to work at her profession, she should have that privilege. If she must work, she should have some kind of skill and knowledge so she may work toward her own independence and happiness."

Miss Judy Laramee, of Buffalo, N.Y., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Laramee, formerly of Virginia Beach, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rosen of Chesapeake Colony.

A Pretty American

By Douglas Barnes

A very popular book entitled "The Ugly American" was a novel on the Best Seller list a year or so ago. As a representative of the American way of life and as a foreign diplomat, the hero was distinctly "ugly" in character and his image created the wrong impression of America as a whole.

The analysis of this impression will be given to the pupils and friends of Mary Ann ("Tessie") Ganzel, a former teacher and librarian in the Virginia Beach school system, who left last week for Naples, where she will be a Librarian at the Forest Sherman Elementary School for Naval Dependents in this Italian metropolis.

Last year she was in Greece on the staff of an Air Force School. Before taking up her duties, she will join friends to visit Madrid,

City Demos Back Spong, Byrd, Downing

VIRGINIA BEACH — The City Democratic Committee has named its chairmen and vice-chairmen, as co-chairmen of the Virginia Beach campaign for U. S. Senator Harry F. Byrd, Jr. and State Senator William B. Spong, Jr. in the Senatorial races and for First District Congressman Thomas N. Downing, who is unopposed.

John V. Fenster and R. R. (Buddy) McChesney will be the campaign managers in the November general election.

Fenster noted that the City Democratic Committee plans to wage an organized campaign for the two Senate seats and the congressional seat. He said, "We will not just give lip service to the campaigns."

Fenster and McChesney had both backed Robertson against Spong in the July primary. Fenster said, "That's over now."

He added that the aim of the Committee now is the election of Democrats in November. Byrd and Spong are the Democratic nominees for the U. S. Senate, opposed by Republicans and Conservatives.

In addition the Committee approved a resolution to hold over all unused campaigning funds for a "war chest", and another to expand the committee by 12 members.

The youth of Virginia Beach have been given a challenge to develop a plan for world peace by their local Lions Club — a challenge that could earn one of them $25,000 educational and/or career assistance grant.

The Thalia Lions Club, together with Lions Clubs throughout the world, is sponsoring a world-wide essay contest for the world's youth on the most important world subject today — Peace. The contest offers $30,000 in total awards, including the $25,000 first prize, eight semi-final world regional awards of $1,000 each and travel expenses for the eight winners to Chicago, Illinois, July 19, 1967.

At that time the first prize winner will be chosen from the eight. Also, more than 20,000 local, district and multiple district awards will be made.

"We are people who will win this world-wide prestige award," President Thomas said. "The mechanics segment will be formal and her ready smile indicated pride in the applause for her pupils.

Space will not allow a description of each lovely and her outfit. Outstanding was Tyler Murek's midnight blue fireman's rainwear, and carrying a white translucent umbrella with large yellow daisies attached, she was ready for those than 130 countries in the free world, will be the largest Peace Essay Contest in the world today.

The purpose of the contest is to develop a formula for world peace because we feel peace is attainable," President Thomas said.

"We want to alert our youth to the need for world peace and focus attention on that important goal," said.

In announcing the contest internationally, President Lindsey said that Lions International, the world's largest service club organization is well qualified to sponsor such a contest.

He said the world-wide representation of Lions, the attention given to international relations and friendship between different nationalities and their participation in international programs were their credentials for the patronage of the contest.

Contestants should submit their entry in essay form, not to exceed 5,000 words. "Judging will fall in four categories: 75 per cent of the essay's points will be devoted to content, ten per cent to style, and five per cent to mechanics,"

LET'S TALK FASHION

By ALICE BREWER WHITE

CATCH-ME-IF-YOU-CAN—Positively blooming with come hither is this flirtatious chapeau of Columbian grey felt. The perfect spectator hat for important football weekends, especially when worn with a grey suit as shown here and designed by Mr. John. Flattering contour and special accessories—also designed by the "Emperor of Fashion" (Mr. J.)—are intensely individualistic to complete the portrait that is YOU! MISS LYNN PRANGLEY, the new Miss Virginia Beach of 1966, made her first official appearance at the Naval Air Station for the Old Timer's Reunion on Aug. 12. Here in her court attire of formal gown and crown, she and the Honorable Thomas N. Downing, Congressman of Virginia, prepare to lead the dancing to the music of the Navy Show Band.

Have you noticed the stripes in the Fall Collections of fashions for outerwear as well as lingerie pretties? They're sure to make a gal look more slim than she is with the broad swing stripes, and the needs-thin pinstripes running horizontally? Some stripes winding around the body resemble the corkscrew and then there are the single bars on the sleeves, sides or center front of some of the Fall dresses. Kathy Larkins, Manhattan newsgirl, suggests that home sewers use stripes patchwork quilt fashion on just sections of a coat or dress and we agree. You'll be seeing the Fall dress stripes barred like a prison cage. Some solid-color coats show a midriff of stripes. Rudi Gernreich, always unpredictable, recently showed Fashion Press girls a halter-neck wool dress with the simple up-down lines in black and white. It had a bare cocktail top and with it were up-and-down striped black and white stockings! Some designers have used white stripes for the coat and black wider stripes on white for the dress underneath the ewebrow-raising costume!

GIFT GOODIES—

Text & Photos by Douglas Barnes

PRINCESS ANNE — We had noted in "Kellam's Old Houses in Princess Anne" a short reference to a home which belonged to H. C. Moore and that it had been built around 1665 by John Weblin. On a hot Sunday afternoon last week we telephoned to beg permission from the family to get a picture from outside the house originally, since Sunday is usually a private family day.

The hospitality of the Moore family upon having three strangers call on them was exceeded only by the interest of the owners in discussing the history of the house, now a home.

We followed the implicit instructions of Mr. Moore, Sr. to "come down the Boulevard and turn right at Devil's Corner on Old Town Road; then turn right at Moore's Pond Road and go to the end of the line. I'll be in the fields but you can take pictures".

An enormous dairy farm as modern as the house is antique with herds of cattle feeding contentedly in a setting reminiscent of great English estates, greeted us. Various persons were unhurriedly getting in and out of cars as a handsome gentleman, H. C. Moore, Jr., descended from his tractor to greet us. He said that his mother would be delighted to have us visit her inside the house.

When we complimented the dairy, Mr. Moore stated that they used the latest modern equipment, all diesel powered for outstanding technical management.

Situated on the 150 remaining acres of an original King's grant "Weblin" is possibly the oldest inhabited house in America. The beautiful brick Colonial was surrounded by modern cottages in which other members of the family lived. Old red brick houses such as Thorowgood and Adam Keeling are not occupied. Three centuries after "Weblin" was built, the old house still rings with the laughter of the Moore's great grandchildren.

Most of the features of the original structure are in evidence, though a kitchen wing has been built on to the old house. A typical Colonial roof has been replaced by a Princess Anne gambrel two asymmetrical side chimneys mark the ends of the building. The brickwork is in English bond on the north wall and in Flemish bond on the south. A large T-shaped chimney separates the two areas and, according to Mr. Moore: "The glazed header brick" glister like stars. These were used as a decorative accent to the original framing of the A roof line.

There is a large depressed-front seven-paneled doorway of oak opening into the commodious common (living room) which during colonial days was a gathering place—a meeting and eating place for the family. The original arches were framed by a later Adam mantel. Luther C. Wells, artist and colonial architectural authority says: "This original A-roof of the Weblin house was covered with handcut cypress shingles and the collage may have been whitewashed at one time."

A smaller doorway in the rear of the home opens on a large Friendship Garden where, Mrs. Moore explained there was no particular planning or landscaping because friends had contributed everything in it from time to time and that she had simply planted the gift upon arrival. The garden, abloom with color, testifies to her many friends and outgoing personality.

A heterogeneous sweet confusion of color and landscaping abounded. Golden and green willows waved their graceful fronds; large red and pink crepe myrtle bloomed gloriously; boxwoods, magnolia, gardenia and rose bushes guarded dainty mimosa; varicolored petunias, delicate Ageratum, spicy nasturtiums and dainty Lily-of-the-valley abound with bushels buttons and victorious chrysanthemums. State-by-state stood sentinel-like amongst other flower friends.

Inside the house all was modern, spick and span and livable. The kitchen was modern electric. A short winding stairway led to the second floor, separated by a large hallway. Twin beds, modern furniture and bath brought us back to the present day.

Mrs. Moore called attention to an oil portrait of Mr. Moore, Sr. and his brother, two tiny boys with long curly hair. A bowl and pitcher of white porcelain decorated with small pink rosebuds on an old washstand were collectors' items.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

School Is Open Again

Many a parent in Virginia Beach is breathing a heavy sigh of relief as his youngster once again goes to school. Many children have been straining at the gate for some time waiting to get back to school, and a few would rather forget the whole thing.

Nevertheless, schools in Virginia Beach open again the day after Labor Day. Preparations for the day the students return have been going on since the students left in June. This year there are 35,000 school children in Virginia Beach schools. Teachers had to be found, both new ones for new schools and additional ones to replace those who had left. New administrative personnel has to be found and hired. New curricula and plans had to be formed. New facilities and materials had to be chosen and secured. All this is done, and school is ready for the students.

We are proud of the excellent school system in Virginia Beach and take pride in welcoming new students and parents to a system dedicated to the best education possible by the best personnel possible.

There are always a few problems that need calling attention to when school opens. The major one is traffic. Virginia Beach Police urge motorists to be on the lookout for school children on the way to school or on the way home. They also ask motorists to be careful around school buses and watch for their signals. In addition, motorists are urged to use extreme caution in school areas where they have been used to increased speed limits during the summer.

Virginia Beach has an excellent safety record where school children are concerned, and we would like to see it remain that way. That will take the cooperation of everyone, children, parents and motorists alike.

So with the opening of school there are always little problems to iron out, like traffic, getting up a little earlier, scheduling, going to bed a little earlier, school buses, studying homework, and a few more. In just a few weeks though, all the problems will be forgotten and the regular routine of another school year in Virginia Beach will be in full swing, and parents, students and school personnel will all be looking forward to next year's summer vacation.

Don't Fool With The Phones

Recently a Virginia Beach man was convicted for illegal use of the telephone. He was charged with making nuisance and obscene calls. This was not his first offense. He was caught; he was convicted; and he was sentenced.

This is not an isolated case, thankfully. More and more telephone offenders are being apprehended and punished. Few among us have not received some type of illegal phone call, made by practical jesters, obscene callers or downright criminals. But the calls should be few and far between in time to come.

For years police and telephone company officials have had to deal with this problem. Now new electronic equipment has been developed that has finally made it a little easier for the criminal to be caught. New laws have been passed setting sterner punishments for offenders.

When anyone receives objectionable or obscene calls often, he should note the pattern and report all the facts to Virginia Beach Police. The telephone company is powerless in such matters unless asked to investigate and attach equipment by the police. Virginia Beach police, on the other hand, will begin investigation immediately and take whatever steps may be necessary in apprehending the offender.

Pranksters use telephones too often to satisfy their own particular brand of "kicks." New efforts by law enforcement agencies in co-operation with telephone companies nationwide are lessening the number of these cases.

Most of the obscene callers are mentally ill or disturbed and the calls should be reported. Hopefully they can be apprehended before they cause some harm to themselves or others. All of these calls should not be ignored. New remedies are still to come in combating these offensive, annoying or even frightening calls.

For The Information Of All

Friday night the Schwarz-Philbrick Anti-Communist Rally will be held at the Alan B. Shepard Civic Center in Virginia Beach. It should be a must for all to attend. The purpose of the rally is to inform all of us what communism really is and how it operates, not who it is or to cause panic or fear. The rally non-sectarian and non-partisan, and we urge the attendance of all public-spirited Virginia Beach residents interested in knowledge.

There has been some criticism of the rally from some that we find unjustified. The rally's mentors are not "extremists" or "rightists". They are merely dedicated to informing the public concerning the dangers and pitfalls of communism and how it breeds on ignorance and complacency.

Herbert Philbrick, ex-FBI counterespionage, certainly knows the way communism operates in America. He lived the story he tells and knows how to combat communism before it gets a foothold. Dr. Schwarz, an Australian, has written several books and pamphlets on the subject of communism, and his testimony before the House Un-American Activities Committee received wide acclaim and acceptance.

These two men are probably as well versed on communism and its operation as any two men in the world. They deserve your encouragement and attendance at the rally Friday night.

Communism can only survive while we let it. Communists in this country are not seeking to overthrow the government by force and violence. They seek undermine groups and organizations and infiltrate legitimate endeavors. Too often the general public is unaware this is happening. The Friday rally should help make all of us painfully aware of such matters and help us have the courage and initiative to fight its poison. Join the distinguished list of sponsors and attend the rally.

LABOR DAY

High School Football Time

For the past two weeks or so an ambitious group of Virginia Beach high school students has been toiling away in the summer heat, both on the field and off the field, preparing for the fans, of Virginia Beach, another great scholastic football season.

Probably the greatest handicaps so far have been faced by the new First Colonial Patriots. Until recently they did not have a name, uniforms, a practice field or equipment. They still don't have a stadium and their practice field for a young and inexperienced team has been unbelievably muddy and messy. Nevertheless these plucky boys have been there every day, twice a day, building a team for the school and for the fans.

All the other schools are doing the same thing. The boys are working hard in the fine spirit of sportsmanship. Now they need one more thing to make them successful. They need the approval of the community.

That approval and encouragement

The New City Symbol

When the old lighthouse at Cape Henry was finally chosen the symbol of the City of Virginia Beach, we were quite pleased. We said then and still do say that nothing could be more fitting than this fine old historic monument within our city limits.

The new symbol is rapidly replacing the "Freedom 7 Capsule" on official letterheads, papers, tie clasps and the like, soon the new symbol will be ready to represent us officially.

We visited this National Landmark and City Symbol the other day, along with some visitors of our city. They were appalled at the condition of the grounds surrounding it and at the building itself, defaced in so many ways by vandals. Large, heavy vines grow almost over the steps leading up to the old lighthouse. The hilltop and its lack of beauty is atrocious.

The outside of the old lighthouse has been marred and cut away in many places. Initials are carved in the old stone. Inside is even worse, and at the top of the winding steps and ladders the odor is unbelievably bad.

We realize that the lighthouse is physically within Fort Story on Federal property, and that it is a National Landmark, but it is also open to the public and is our Virginia Beach symbol, visited by thousands of tourists each year.

Something must be done about both the inside and the outside of the place if we are to be proud of it. We suggest that the Beautification Commission get to work on this problem. Perhaps that strong group can prod the Federal government and others into doing something about the state of our own Landmark and City symbol. We feel certain our City fathers would be willing to help in every way also.

Labor Day means different things to different people, to paraphrase the popular song. It was actually set aside as a day to salute the working man and to praise him for his achievements throughout the rest of the year. Now, with the exception of a few speeches by union officials and labor leaders across the country, the actual significance is forgotten or at least pushed far into the background.

Now Labor Day signals the unofficial end of the summer season at Virginia Beach. Although the weather will be near perfect for another month or so, the tourist business is on the wane after Labor Day when the children go back to school.

Labor Day also marks the last holiday of the summer season, one in which too many people traditionally try to cram too much activity into too short a period or try to travel too far. Last Labor Day 15 people were killed in Virginia in a three-day period, a near-record. Nationwide, 765 persons were killed, a new record. Hurrying, excessive drinking, carelessness and over exertion were blamed as the biggest killers. All we can recommend this year is care and consideration on the roads, especially in our fair city.

Labor Day also marks the unofficial date for the beginning of a political campaign. This year in Virginia a hot Senatorial campaign is in store for us, as we continue to endorse the Democratic nominees, Harry F. Byrd, Jr. and William B. Spong, Jr. Incidentally, we find it significant that it has been recommended that Senator Byrd be endorsed by organized labor so close to this Labor Day.

In most ways we hate to see Labor Day come every year because it means the summer is really just about over, but in one way we are always glad. Once again we can hope to find a parking place in Virginia Beach Borough.

THE BEACH THIS WEEK

The Law Department has moved into new and larger offices. The new law offices are located at 2518 Courthouse Drive.

Dr. Ira Lionel Hancock was recently elected chairman of the State Hospital Board. It is the policy-making body for the Old Dominion's mental hospitals and related institutions. Hancock is a resident of Virginia Beach.

Mrs. James L. Holloway of Virginia Beach has been selected as the sponsor of the nuclear attack submarine Pargo, which will be launched at Groton, Conn., Sept. 17. Her husband is a retired admiral, her son is astronaut Walter M. Schirra, and her daughter is the commanding officer of the nuclear carrier Enterprise.

The city school administration is following a Department of Health, Education and Welfare directive and is integrating the teaching staffs of four predominantly Negro schools and several predominantly white schools. The move involves 16 Negro teachers and seven white teachers. Two white teachers will be assigned to Union Kempville High School.

A real estate firm from Norfolk is preparing plans for a 4,000-unit residential development north of Green Run Farm city park. It will possibly be the largest single development of its type in the city. It will be located on a 900-acre tract known as the Sawyer Farm. The firm who is behind the development is Goodman-Segar-Hagan.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

Dear Sir:

The fact that Virginia Beach is the finest seacoast resort on the East Coast is proven by the remarkable growth in the tourist industry as well as tremendous increase in our regular population of year round citizens. A small village of summer squatters has developed, to the envy and admiration of competitive areas, into a great city which will soon approach one-quarter million people. Careful planning by men of foresight has helped bring this about.

Certain small park areas such as Seashore State Park have been preserved for the enjoyment and cultural benefit of present and future generations. We are fortunate to have, just now, a wonderful opportunity to preserve an undeveloped area stretching along miles of ocean front to the North Carolina line. Thousands of acres of dunes, beach, feeding and breeding areas for wildfowl and plant life can be saved for the benefit and betterment of all people for all time.

It is my sincere hope that the general public will be interested enough in the future of our city to offer every assistance to acquire and preserve this area, designated by the BEMISS COMMISSION, for a future STATE PARK. If this last untouched area is not preserved, future generations shall look back with contempt on us for our folly.

W. Clyde Simpson, Jr.

Dear Sir:

In the interest of our local population, the preservation of this area as a Federal and State Park, is a necessity.

for the betterment of our city. It would mean a longer tourist season and therefore, more tax money for the betterment of our city. It is estimated that within two years after the park is opened, there will be an additional FOUR MILLION visitors to the area, with Virginia Beach becoming a main North-South artery.

We are fortunate to have this opportunity and we must not let it pass us by.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Leary

Dear Sir:

I was approached by one of the directors of the new group, calling themselves "Good Government Association". He wanted money weekly from me to be a member, and told me that I would give the money to a director, without my name being divulged. He also told me that under no circumstances would my name be revealed as a member.

I told the director I did not wish to join, that I would not contribute any money, and that I would never join any organization which was not good government.

Furthermore I would not join anything that would not allow me to vote on business of the organization.

The purpose of the new group is supposed to be "good government". They do not say what is wrong with the good government we have now. And if it's good government they are looking for, they have a funny way of showing it by speaking around.

Because I am a businessman, I ask that my name be withheld.

An interested citizen.

Dear Mrs. Barnes:

It is always a great pleasure to have a meeting at The Cavalier. The genuine interest of the area media editors is of a high order. On behalf of our friends in the Bright Belt Waterhouse Association, I want to thank you and The Virginia Beach Sun for your operation and understanding.

Very truly yours,

William H. W. Anderson

Secretary-Treasurer

Tobacco Growers Information Committee, Inc.

Dear Sir:

Just what is Mr. Rhee Adams trying to prove? He has been a most successful businessman in the city of Virginia Beach for some time. It looks to me like he has been that successful party being.

All Stars Honored Mon. Nite

VIRGINIA BEACH — Two outstanding young Virginia Beach baseball players received trophies Monday night at Princess Anne High School for their All-Star participation last season.

For the fifth year in a row, Gus Riganto feted the Pony League and Little League All-Stars and their dads to a banquet at which State Sen. William P. Kellam was principal speaker. Riganto also presented the awards.

Two other gentlemen, well versed in youth activities, Judge Philip Russo of the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court and former professional baseball player Hank Foiles, addressed the group, prior to the presentation of the trophies.

Other guests at the banquet included Councilmen James Darden and James Ferrell and Al Malches of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce. Malches was recognized for his work with the teams in acquiring uniforms.

Kenneth Patton, 12, who played for the Orioles received the Dill Times Award for his outstanding All-Star participation. Ken is a student at Kings Grant Elementary School.

The Jim Simmons award, for the outstanding Pony League All-Star was presented to Tommy Atkinson, a student at First Colonial High School.

VA. BEACH—Virginia Wesleyan College will not have a formal intercollegiate athletic program for the present time but school officials have already chosen a nickname and colors for the new educational institution.

The nickname for the school's future teams will be the Blue Marlins and the colors will be silver and blue.

Virginia Wesleyan will have a freshman class of about 75 to begin orientation at the new school on September 12. The physical facilities are included in a new $1.5 million academic village on a 300-acre campus astride the Norfolk-Virginia Beach line.

Swim Team Coach

VIRGINIA BEACH—The swim team at the Capes is composed of children, ages 6 to 14, who know how to swim and have learned how to swim competitively against other swim teams of other clubs.

Only three years old and not yet champions, the Capes Swim Team, non-the-less, is making points all along the circuit. And the main reason for its success goes to its young volunteer swim coach, Nelson Workman.

Nelson, now 18 years old, came to the Capes three summers ago as the pool lifeguard. When interest in forming a swim team was expressed, the lifeguard volunteered his services, though he must commute from Norfolk where he lives with his widowed mother, Mrs. Guy H. Workman.

Nelson dismisses his unselfish use of his spare time for he feels it is most important that children know how to swim. "And competitive swimming makes it fun for them."

However, mothers of his pupils are not reticent with their praise. Polly Brown says, "Papa could write about him! He's so patient and so qualified. He has made the pool a special joy for all of us this summer."

Diving is also part of the swim team's sport and it is coached by John Small. Nelson and John are a winning combination in turning out future swimming and diving champions.

This summer the Capes competed with the teams of Princess Anne Country Club, Norfolk Yacht Club, Mallory Country Club, and the Churland, Swim and Racquet Club.

"We came in fourth," said their proud swimming coach, "but there were only a few points separating us from the winners. We just ran out of swimmers." By that, Nelson means many of the regulars on the Capes team were on vacation and out of town when the meets were held.

Nelson is a graduate of Granby High where he was on the school's swimming team, and in a few weeks he will be leaving for the University of Virginia where he will continue his education and be a member of the college's swim team.

He is well named—all members at the Capes know and respect their young lifeguard, who is a real Workman.

Anti-Commie

Rally Nears

VIRGINIA BEACH—Tidewater's first large-scale anti-Communist rally will be held at the Virginia Beach Dome Friday night and will feature two outstanding speakers on Communism.

These two men are Dr. Fred C. Schwarz, M.D., president of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade and Herbert A. Philbrick, author of "I Led Three Lives" and former FBI counterespionage agent.

The rally is a test to see how Tidewater residents respond to the issue of Anti-Communism. The Schwarz-Philbrick rally has drawn large crowds on the west coast and many college campuses across the nation.

Schwarz is a native Australian and became involved in the conflict with Communism while a student at the University of Queensland, in Australia during 1940, because its atheistic nature conflicted with his Christian faith.

Philbrick, a private citizen, helped form a youth organization, "The Cambridge Young Council," but later found it to be Communist dominated. From that Philbrick went on to join the Communist party itself, not as a Communist, but as an undercover agent for the FBI. He kept tabs on the movement for nine years before leaders of the party were brought to trial—where he broke down the Communist defense as a federal witness.

The program will also feature Miss Janet Greene, music director for the Crusade.

Her voice and guitar blend to produce satirical folk-type tunes attacking Communism, beatnick demonstrations and the Castro regime in Cuba. She left promising television career to take up the fight against Communism.

Schwarz spoke last night at an informal session at First Colonial Baptist Church. Following his talk, he and Miss Green attended a reception for young people.

New Council Takes Over

VIRGINIA BEACH—The new 11-man City Council elected in June takes over Thursday, September 1. A brief meeting, called to re-constitute the Council, was expected to rename Frank Dusch as Mayor and S. Paul Brown as vice-Mayor.

Seven members are incumbents, having served on Council since merger of Virginia Beach City and Princess Anne County in 1963. The new members are Dewey Simmons, Murray Maloy, Robert Cromwell and George Ferrall.

The Councilmen were elected for four-year terms, although this could be subject to change, pending the outcome of a long and involved reportionment case still against the City and an appeal by the City. The appeal was filed last week.

Navy Pilot Awarded DFC

NORFOLK—A Virginia Beach Navy jet pilot has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross for heroism during an air strike over North Vietnam.

Lt. Cmdr. John E. Paganelli was given the award by Rear Adm. Francis E. Nussele, Commander Fleet Air Norfolk.

He is the husband of the former Rose Marie Pasqualichio of Pennsylvania. They presently reside with their four children in the 4900 block of Olive Grove Lane at Virginia Beach.

BOBBY E. BREATHWAITE

Airman Bobby E. Breathwaite, son of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Breathwaite of Rt. 1, has been selected for technical training at Chanute AFB, Ill., as a U. S. Air Force aircraft maintenance specialist.

A-6 Intruder Is The Best: Small

OCEANA—The A-6 Intruder jets in the hangar roared out their hot blasts of noisy heat, each outdoing the other in making it impossible to hear anything else. Mechanics, hardly aware of the noise level, worked on their planes.

Meanwhile, Commander William Small, the squadron's new commanding officer watched from his office high up in the hangar. Here, the noise was muffled by closed windows, but the heat, rising from the jet exhausts, made the lack of air conditioning doubly noticeable.

"I came from an A-4 squadron with the idea that I was flying a wonderful airplane," related the commander as he eyed the aircraft in the hangar, "but this A-6 is a tremendously fantastic airplane—the best one I've ever flown."

With that, he launched into a review of his acquaintance with the airplane that has become the center of his career since he became the commanding officer of Attack

Squadron 42 (VA-42), the Navy's first training squadron in this new weapons system.

Small was introduced to the Navy's new A-6 Intruder aircraft when he reported to VA-42 as a replacement pilot in July 1964. The training squadron was marked as an intermediate station for him, with his final destination being Attack Squadron 65 (VA-65).

"Sixty-five was on Operation Sea Orbit above the Enterprise," explained the commander. "They were flying 'gads' as an A-1 squadron at the time."

While waiting for his own squadron, Small completed the training syllabus in the Intruder, and graduated as a checked-out pilot in the new weapons system.

"I had completed transition in the A-6 before my squadron returned," explained Small, "and I went over and relieved the commanding officer of VA-65 in November. Then the whole squadron came over here and went into transition."

While serving as commanding officer of the squadron, Small also became the commanding officer of the Intruder History Association. He was elected to the position in 1965, and has since served as president.

"I think command of VA-65 was perhaps the highlight of my career to this point," mused the commander. "The opportunity to start with a squadron when it first started training in the airplane, and to stay with it until we got into combat was a real challenge and a real thrill."

Throughout the command of VA-65 and into his present command, Small has found a growing admiration for the plane with which his daily routine is concerned.

"I believe that although the capability has been claimed for other aircraft, the A-6 is the first one that actually has an all-weather conventional delivery capability," said Cmdr. Small.

He pointed out several instances from the news of the past few weeks where Intruders were the only planes capable of making strikes in the heavy monsoon weather of Vietnam. Then he cited the instance in which Intruders struck the Uong Bi Power Plant near Haiphong when no other aircraft could make the strike.

"It's been proven many times that all the A-6 squadrons," explained Small, "that we could deliver bombs accurately in any weather on just about any type of target."

Small, according to the commander, is an excellent showcase of the Intruder's virtues. He spoke freely of the proficiency with which the plane—equipped with the DIANE (digital inertial airborne navigation equipment) system—attack its targets, and of the accuracy that made the aircraft a deadly weapon.

"I know of no other airplanes that have comparable systems," smiled Small, his pride in his aircraft shining in his face. Then he recited his exchange duty with the Air Force and his days as a A-4 Skyhawk pilot, and added, "The accuracies and various backup systems and displays are nowhere near the quality we have in the A-6."

Explaining the grounds for his confidence in the aircraft, Small pointed out that most of the modern planes today have inertial navigation systems and radars which pick out targets to be bombed, but that no other aircraft can do the job with the accuracy and versatility of the Intruder.

"You're not going to find a guy on a bicycle carrying a bag of rice," grinned Small—adding that that's something necessary in Vietnam, "but where you have enemy vehicles moving, the A-6 not only has the ability to find them, but of making a good attack."

Small also talked about the Russian-built Surface to Air (SAM) missiles being used by the enemy in Vietnam. "Paving down over Vietnam himself on actual combat missions, the authority with which he spoke about the deadly-subject was faced with a matter-of-fact attitude that you would expect from someone discussing last night's boxing match or football game."

"Our people are flying over missile sites with the realization that the airplanes are good enough and our training is good enough so that we're capable of contending with the missiles," explained the commander. "I think the biggest important thing for our planes and our people over there is that we've got confidence in our equipment and in our tactics, and we have enough knowledge so that we're not afraid of the unknown."

Cmdr. Small noticed that it was 2:30 p.m., and commented that he'd had an appointment in Florida at 4 p.m. He said, however, that there was still plenty of time—"af'er all," he joked, "I do fly an A-6."

Turning back to the subject at hand, Small commented on the rumors that circulated early in the Intruder's history about Secretary of Defense McNamara's consideration of scrapping the A-6. Pointing out that he suspected the matter to be based only on rumor, he philosophized:

"I'm sure he was concerned as to whether or not we were getting our money's worth. Until the Intruders got into action over in Vietnam, nobody ever knew what return the government or the country was getting for the investment."

He attributed the change of thought about the plane to the performance of VA-65 and now VA-62 in the Vietnam combat area.

Small thought it significant that Oceana Naval Air Station has been made the East Coast home of the A-6 Intruder and the F-4 Phantom II. This move was begun over a year ago under the "Navy's" "Base-loading" program.

"It's interesting that here at Oceana, we have A-6s and F-4s," noted Small, "because A-6 and F-4 loaded with weapons have identical performance characteristics and make an outstanding attack team."

"This combination is being used everyday in Vietnam," informed Cmdr. Small. "The A-6 carries the bombs and the F-4 goes along for flack suppression and combat air patrol."

He smiled as he said "works real well."

Cmdr. Small is a native of Little Rock, Arkansas, where he was born on Feb. 22, 1927. He graduated from the Naval Academy in 1948, and received his Naval Aviator's wings in 1949 upon graduation from flight training.

Serving with the Navy as an instructor, an admiral's aide, and an air operations officer, he was ordered to duty with the Air Force as an exchange officer in 1956. He served with that branch of service until 1961, flying the Air Force's F-101, F-102, and F-104 aircraft. A tour at the Naval War College at the headquarters of the Commander in Chief of the Atlantic Fleet preceded the orders which brought Small to VA-65 and the A-6 Intruder program.

In looking at the future of the airplane which has come to be a great part of his career, Small is quite confident. "I do not think there is any other system in the world, but is there one right around the corner," concluded the commander, "that has the capability or the potential that the A-6 has."

Small also talked about the Russian-built Surface to Air (SAM) missiles being used by the enemy in Vietnam. "Paving down over Vietnam himself on actual combat missions, the authority with which he spoke about the deadly-subject was faced with a matter-of-fact attitude that you would expect of a person who has been serving on the Game Commission's Trojan and Pocahontas Waterfowl Management Areas at Back Bay since 1961. According to Supervising Game Biologist C. P. Gilchrist, Up to 3,000 birds can be accommodated at each blind. A $3 blind fee on Trojan gives hunters with their own boats and decoys use of the assigned blind for one day. On the Pocahontas area a $3 daily fee includes boat, guide and decoys.

These areas will be open for duck and goose hunting every day except Sundays from November 14 through January 7. Hunters without advance blind reservations will have to take their chance on openings for any given day. Choice of dates will be decided by a drawing October 17. Applications received after that date will be assigned to vacant blinds on a first-come first-served basis. Application forms are available from the Commission's office in Richmond.

DIFFERENT AIRPLANE

VF-11 To Get F4B Aircraft Again

OCEANA—Strange as it may seem, one of the Navy's oldest and most colorful fighter squadrons is preparing to transition to the F4B aircraft for the second time.

Fighter Squadron Eleven, better known as "The World Famous Red Rippers" flew the Boeing F4B airplane from 1929 until 1942. And now squadron personnel are starting to train to prepare themselves to receive the F4B again. Except this time the squad will be flying the supersonic McDonnell F4D Phantom II jet fighter-interceptor.

The old Boeing F4B of 1929 was the first single-seat fighter-bomber that the U.S. Navy had that was converted for use as a dive bomber. This sturdy old biplane carried a machine gun and had the capability of carrying one 500 pound bomb.

The McDonnell F4B Phantom II of 1956 is a two-seat, multi-purpose fighter that carries a crew of two. The pilot and a radar intercept officer. The aircraft is incorporated with the Aero 1A Missile Control System providing radar target tracking and signals for missile guidance. The Phantom II can carry up to six Sparrow III air-to-air missiles or four Sidewinder infrared air-to-air missiles. In addition, the aircraft can be equipped with a variety of bombs, homing glide weapons or napalm tanks. The Red Rippers were originally commissioned as Fighter Squadron Five on February 1, 1927 at Hampton Roads, Virginia. The original Red Rippers insignia was adopted in late 1927 or early 1928. The squadron was redesignated many times, has flown many different aircraft, and has had many distinguished officers and men as its members; but the Red Rippers name, insignia and traditions that have existed since 1927 have never changed.

The Red Rippers originally flew the Curtis F6C-3 Hawk from 1927 until they F6C-3 to the Boeing F4B in late 1928. The Red Rippers were the first Navy squadron to receive the Boeing F4B-1 aircraft; they received their first F4B-1 on August 9, 1929 and flew this aircraft (plus the later F4B-2 model) until early in 1942. The Red Rippers were assigned to the old USS Lexington during these years and were home-based at San Diego, Calif. The Squadron operated with approximately 18 aircraft.

During the Second World War, the Red Rippers, operating from the flight deck of the USS Ranger supported the Allied invasion of Africa and later conducted the first American naval air strike on German forces in Norway. In 1942, the squadron was sent to the Pacific Theatre and on board the USS Bunker Hill and the USS Essex won two Red Fleet Unit Citations for combat. During the late 1940s, the squadron was stationed on the coasts of the United States and in 1948, sailed around the world on board the USS Tarawa. In 1952, the Red Rippers deployed to the Korean Conflict on board the USS Yorktown. In the late 1950s the squadron was directly involved in flight training under the tutelage of VF-101 at NAS Key West, Florida and VF-101 Detachment Oceana at NAS Oceana, Virginia Beach. The Red Rippers hope to receive their first new F4B Phantom II's in September. The squadron is presently scheduled to deploy next on board the USS Forrestal early in 1967.

The Red Rippers recently completed their ninth peace-time deployment to the Mediterranean on board the USS F. D. Roosevelt. The squadron has been flying the Vought F4B-1 Corsair since September 1965.

Cdr. Arthur C. Derrick is present as commanding officer of the Red Rippers. He lives with his wife and family in Virginia Beach.

The new building, scheduled for completion by the summer of 1967, will provide service headquarters for VECO's electric and gas operating departments, an Electric Living Center with modern kitchen equipment for display and demonstration, and offices for the sales, engineering and accounting departments, including the present service building located at 18th Street and Arctic Avenue. The new headquarters will be larger, more modernly equipped, and centrally located to better serve the rapidly expanding area.

The building will be constructed on a 5.42 acre lot on First Colonial Road near Laskin Road immediately adjacent to the Norfolk-Virginia Beach 101 road. It will be a one-story all-electric building covering 21,000 square feet, including store rooms and three loading platforms. The total cost of the project, including land and equipment, will be over $600,000.

The building will be constructed of brick facing on block walls with stone trim around the windows. Special recessed fluorescent lighting, asphalt tile floor, suspended acoustic tile ceiling, and floodlights for night lighting will all be features of the new building.

In keeping with VECO's constant effort to improve the appearance of its facilities, appropriate landscaping will be included to make the site attractive and to screen the storage area.

Popkin To Speak

Howard Popkin, past president of the Council of Civic Leagues of Norfolk, and at present serving as chairman of that Council's planning committee, will speak at the meeting of the Council of Civic Leagues of Virginia Beach Wednesday, September 14, 1966 at 7:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the VECO Building, 319, 18th Street, Virginia Beach Boro.

Member organizations of the Virginia Beach Council requested that their first meeting that a study be made of the mild situation, and Mr. Popkin has been asked to attend the next meeting to share information he has on the subject.

Those planning to attend should call one of the following so that necessary arrangements may be made for their accommodation: Mrs. Herbert Dugree, 497-2124; Mrs. H. R. Whitehurst, 420-2246; Mrs. M. A. Graham, 464-1818.

The new committee will work closely with the Committee for Dales, a northern Virginia group concerned with the promotion of the airport.

During the past few months, many of the pilots and men who fly and work on the Crusaders have been ordered out and a large number of new men have reported in.

In July 1965, Fighter Squadron Eleven changed its home port from NAS Cecil Field in Jacksonville, Florida, to NAS Oceana, Virginia Beach, Virginia. The duty station change was necessary to allow squadron personnel to receive the vigorous training needed to prepare them for the F4B. The Red Rippers deployed to the Korean Conflict on board the USS Yorktown. In the late 1950s the squadron was directly involved in flight training under the tutelage of VF-101 at NAS Key West, Florida and VF-101 Detachment Oceana at NAS Oceana, Virginia Beach. The Red Rippers hope to receive their first new F4B Phantom II's in September. The squadron is presently scheduled to deploy next on board the USS Forrestal early in 1967.

Cdr. Arthur C. Derrick is present as commanding officer of the Red Rippers. He lives with his wife and family in Virginia Beach.

Peace Corp. To Give Test

VIRGINIA BEACH - Residents interested in putting their skills to use in developing nations around the world are invited to take the Peace Corps placement test at 9 a.m. on Saturday, September 10, at Room 3A, Post Office Building, York and Granby Streets, Norfolk, Virginia.

The Peace Corps uses the placement test to determine how an applicant can best be utilized overseas. The test measures general aptitude and the ability to learn a language, not education or achievement. If test scores indicate a limited language-learning ability, for example, the Peace Corps tries to place the applicant in an English-speaking country. The placement test requires no preparation and is non-competitive; an applicant can neither pass nor fail.

The application form, not the placement test, is the most important factor in the selection of Volunteers. Persons interested in serving in the Peace Corps must fill out an application, if they have not already done so, and present it to the tester before taking the test. Applications may be obtained from local post offices or from the Peace Corps, Washington, D. C. 20525.

The placement test takes about an hour and a half.

Hissss The Villain At Summer Sands

VIRGINIA BEACH — Want to see a play that was (reportedly) banned in Boston? (in 1944!) What was high-powered drama more than a hundred years ago, turned out to be "camp" in its funniest form, and a night of hilarity at the Summer Sands Playhouse.

A daring expose of the evils of drink, "The Drunkard" will show how a good man can be ruined when he is led astray by unsavory characters and he becomes a victim of "demon rum". But the villain of the piece, is first of all, greed. However, in the end, virtue triumphs.

Allan Quatermain as Lawyer Cribs is the villain, and what a villain! Complete with top hat, black cloak, cane, and stiffly waxed, ed hand-beard mustache, he stalks and stamps around and on and off the stage to a chorus of hisses and catcalls as he plans and executes his dastardly deeds in the name of revenge and greed.

The target of his evil-doings is weak Edward Middleton (Bob Williams), husband of sweet and gentle Mary (Susan Epstein) and dear father of sympathetic Julia.

Jumping into action as the protector is the hero, William Downton vigorously played by Edward Blount III. There is also William's poor demented sister Agnes (Kay Gore) to be pitied; and hypocritical Miss Spindle (Sue Ferguson) to despise. And in the latter scenes, a gallant rescuer appears on the scene with portentous dignity and flowery speeches in the person of Mr. Renclaw himself.

The exaggerated acting mannerisms and babbling dialogue tickles the funnybone and the entire cast puts forth great effort in making this American classic come alive once more.

Opening night did not have the planned tavern-like atmosphere but it is expected at future performances. There was the entertainment segment between acts in which the audience participated by self-consciously trying to sing along with such "new" songs as "Dear Old Gal", "Bill Bailey", "Sweet Adeline" etc. And both Michael Mehrings and Sue Ferguson's sole renditions of the popular songs of the day were seriously excellent.

Others in the vital fabric of this moral play are Alice Dubois, Mark Grant, Christopher Blount, Stephen Lamm, Chris Bourbon, Steve Innishawn, Mark Hostel, and Franklin Dubois.

"The Drunkard" is produced by Madame Alicia Dubois, and directed by Arden Renclaw, alias Harry Lamber, alias Ed Blount.

It will play through September 5 in the tent playhouse on 19th street, across the street from the dome. Tickets may be purchased at the box office until curtain at 8:30 P.M.

NANCY AND RITA, two teen-age members of the Tidewater Dance Guild, Inc.

Dancers Perform For Cancer Society

VIRGINIA BEACH — There were a few empty seats in the Civic Center last Friday night when "Music in Motion Summer '66" was presented by The Tidewater Dance Guild which may have dismayed the dancers somewhat, for the show was for the benefit of the American Cancer Society. But it affected their dancing not a bit: As our 8-year old critic said, "They are having fun up there, aren't they!"

It was fun for everyone—visual enjoyment for the audience and performing joy for the talented dancers.

The show began with "Walk Come To a Hootenanny", a rollicking high spirited production number of favorite folk songs put to dance and music. The traditional ballet number was next, "Beautiful Galathes" with Nancy Thiesen as "Galathes" assisted by the Corps de Ballet. Judy Hatchet, Pam Luttrell, Chris Hollis, Rita Keating, Cam Justice, and Jeannie West.

"Clair de Lune" was the solo dance by Barbara Thiesen in flowing costume and boneless grace. Barbara is the founder and artistic director of TDG.

Rita Tackenberg starred in the role of Marie in "The Lotus Tree", an original play by Anthony Vickery with musical score adapted by Thomas Rice. The tragic fantasy of a crippled girl who is rejected by human friends and who seeks refuge in the forest is poignantly portrayed by Rita. Her "bird" friend, Nancy Thiesen, 13-year old daughter of Barbara, was fantastically good. Imaginative costuming in this story-dance production was created by Mary Duckworth, Pam Luttrell, Mrs. Daniels and Mrs. Hatchet.

The final production was a history of the best "Jazz 1" and was the best of all (according to our 8-year old critic). Though specifically numbers were performed by Chris Hollis and Cam Justice, Hugh R. Copeland, Roy "Skin" Newton, Val Luttrell, and Nancy McClellan, the entire ensemble (Alvin Wallace, Jack Cross, Judy Hatchet, Jeannie West, Linda Wallace, Nancy Thiesen, Rita Keating, Patty Moody, Brenda Moore, Susie Duckworth, Ken Huston, Rita Tackenberg, Lynn Baldwin, Jan Fiebeck and Mike Taylor) were "with it" all the way from the jungle drum beat of the witch doctor to the "Go Go Girls" at the finale.

It would be hard to single out any particular performer for special accolades as the dance company is a unit which complements each other, and while one may be a star in one number, he or she is also a member of the ensemble in another. And they are all talented and professional and marvelous.

Cavalier Sets Next 3 Plays

NORFOLK — Cavalier Dinner Playhouse has set its schedule for the next three productions, according to Director Timothy L. Jones. Following the current successful production of "Sunday in New York" will be the comedy "Never Too Late".

"Sunday in New York", which has been playing to capacity audiences since the week of its opening, closes on Sunday, September 4. Only a few seats are available for the closing performances. "Never Too Late" opens on Wednesday, September 7.

The October production will be another hilarious comedy, not seen locally for some time, "The Fifth Season".

In November, Cavalier will present its first musical under "Jones" direction. The show chosen is "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum". The production originally starred Zero Mostel in New York and kept Broadway audiences in stitches for a long run. Wherever it has been done in amateur-professional theatre or in summer stock since, the story has been the same.

The satirical comedy has some of the funniest characters ever drawn, and the music is extremely catchy, though little of it ever became popular.

Jones confided that he is "really looking forward to getting started on this one". He has no date for casting or rehearsals, but says that there are many extremely demanding roles which must be filled.

Navy Commander Lawrence P. Treadwell, USN, son of Mrs. Lawrence Treadwell of 7220 Atlantic ave., has participated in this year's annual Sea Fair at Seattle, Wash., as a crewmember of the guided missile light cruiser, USS Providence. Upon completion of the Fair, the Providence and other units of the force rejoined the fleet on patrol in the Pacific.

Midshipman 2/c Peter J. Atherton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Atherton of 432 Kinswood place, a student at the University of Virginia, is attending a three week aviation field trip at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station, Tex.

Safety Patrol Help Sought

Mr. Frank W. Cox, Director Tidewater Automobile Association pleaded today for the cooperation and support of the adult community in sparking the School Safety Patrol program. As part of its monthly contribution to the schools' traffic safety education program, the Club has sent copies of this month's award winning traffic safety poster, "Help Your Safety Patrol," by Marilyn Halstead, age 18, of Collingwood High School, Cleveland, Ohio, to all elementary and junior high schools throughout the area.

Mr. Cox pointed out that School Safety Patrols have been a tremendous force in school traffic safety education. Since the organization of the program in the early 20's, the traffic death rate of school-age pedestrians has been cut in half.

"This tremendous record can be maintained, and improved, with your enthusiastic support," said Mr. Cox.

"Adult cooperation," he continued, "can be best displayed through respect for Safety Patrols whenever you come into contact with them at their posts. Expressing your admiration for the great job they are doing is good for their morale. The glamour and prestige of a Patrol and a student leader soon wears thin when hands and feet become frostbitten or rain-soaked. The adult community, whose judgment and approval are so highly valued by these young stars, can contribute a great deal to the continued effectiveness of the Patrol program by encouraging and helping Patrols keep their high spirits and by recognizing the important and essential job they are doing."

Clifton Beale - Artist

Text and photo by Douglas Barnes In Winston, S.C., a teacher at the C. S. Brown High School—an art major in college—has succeeded in giving to her pupils the joy of painting and sketching and the creativity which expresses itself in all of their work. She's been teaching art for many years.

She said: "she 'bootlegged' her instruction in art," because it was not in the curriculum—There was no money enough for her to have time for her gifted students.

One of them, Clifton Beale, is planning to exhibit in next year's Art Show at the Beach. In Ahoskie, N.C., Clifton Beale, 23, has set up shop in the downtown section where Rev. James Felton of Winston, S.C., is operating the Bureau of Information on Housing. Here Clifton paints and sells sketches, oil paintings, pastels and crayons. He has rare talent.

We interviewed Clifton last week as he, with his family, mother, brother, sister and sister-in-law passed through Virginia Beach to a gathering of Jehovah's Witnesses in Baltimore where Mrs. Beale will be a delegate. The Beale family had stopped to see Jesse Beale who works at Galilee Episcopal Church. He had brought some paintings with him.

After at least an hour's visit with this interesting family, we got a snapshot of them as they rested before going on through the Chesapeake Bridge-Tunnel to Baltimore. We also asked if we might see his work.

One of the most interesting was "Head of a Girl"—"Jacqueline" . . . at first glance it looked like Another brother, Sergeant William M. Beale, has just returned from active duty in Viet Nam and is on his way to permanent duty at Fort Belvoir in Virginia. William was driving the family to the convention. A sister-in-law Linda, accompanied the Beales and 15-year-old Sylvan was also along.

Mrs. Calenger Beale, a lady with a strong sweet countenance, is a delegate to the convention. Upon her flowered blouse we noted a name tag with the inscription: "What has God's Kingdom been doing since 1914?"

When we apologized for being late, Mrs. Beale replied, "We appreciate you coming at all and we, in Jehovah's Witnesses are taught patience." Everyone of her children respects her and we thought of the work and care she had put into their upbringing.

Inquiring of Sergeant Bill if his religious faith had been shaken by his active duty in Viet Nam, (what a question!) he replied: (with a hearty laugh) "I believe you'd better quote me as 'No Comment!'" "Now, Son!" said his mother. (Son . . . is 31)

We trust Clifton Beale will bring his work to the 1967 Art Show next July. All of his paintings are for sale. A quiet reserved young man seems to know what he wants to do in life.

Seaman Recruit Joseph C. Hadlock, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Haddock of 1045 Josphine Crescent, has been graduated from nine weeks of Navy basic training at the Naval Training Center, Great Lakes, Ill.

Annual Cystic Fibrosis Fund Campaign Set

The annual door-to-door campaign of the Tidewater Area Chapter of the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation will be held Sunday, September 11th. Mrs. C. P. Andrew, Chapter President, announced today [8-23-66].

She said that more than 8,000 volunteers will make a house-to-house appeal to raise funds for Cystic Fibrosis. The following breakdown by city was reported: Norfolk, 3800; Hampton, 980; New Ports, 1050; Portsmouth, 1,280; Va. Beach, 670; Chesapeake, 500.

Funds raised through the annual appeal help support a network of 38 Regional Cystic Fibrosis Care, Research and Teaching Centers throughout the United States. These Centers have been established with Foundation assistance. They are in teaching hospitals affiliated with leading medical schools.

In addition, contributions help finance a new coordinated Basic Research Program which was recently initiated by the Foundation. This program encourages eminent investigators in various basic science disciplines to pursue studies which may offer clues to the underlying cause of the disease.

Such fields of basic science include molecular biology, genetics, pharmacology and mucoprotein chemistry. Because of this program, many medical authorities are hopeful of a control for cystic fibrosis being developed before many more years have passed—perhaps, even within the next decade.

After the announcement of the winners—the Juniors by Mr. Keen and the Seniors by Miss Carter—Mounie addressed them, saying: "We are glad that no one selected had to be dropped because of grades. You are the 'male counterpart' of the football and other teams; wherever you go with our boys, you will represent our school and upon your school spirit, your appearance, and your behaviour, the image of our new school will be enhanced. The Senior Varsity uniforms and transportation to the games away from home will be paid for by the school. Miss Carter, who comes to us from North Carolina, and who will teach French, will be your sponsor. From now until school's opening you will practice diligently and decide amongst yourselves the cut and style of your uniforms. Your uniforms will have the new colors of First Colonial—blue, gold and white. We want you to help our boys and our school fight for victory and I know the judges have chosen the right girls. Our first football game is with Princess Anne High School."

We had heard rumors that the First Colonial would not be ready for the opening on time and we asked Mr. Mounie for a statement. His confident and decisive reply was: "WE WILL open on time!"

The selected cheer leaders are: Juniors Varsity: Debra Bailey, Mary Snyder Baker, Sharon Boudreux, Beverly Chancy, Harriet DeVita, Carol Etheridge, Debbie Gimmon, Patty Lakeman, Rebecca Martin and Kathryn Mercer.

Seniors Varsity: Diane Allen, Margaret Denning, Sharon Farmer, Betsy Harschutz, Peggy Jensen, Connie Jones, Merle Preston, Debbie Postok, Nancy Rydell and Kitty Wyche.

VIRGINIA BEACH—No one is quite sure of the name of the citizen panel formed last year for the PTA Council by Rev. Clayton E. Crigger, Chairman of Character and Spiritual Education. It has become known as the Panel. The Panel's Panel, Panel on Ethics, Character Development Panel, to list a few, but what has made it popular is that it has dealt with real problems, in real life, in an honest, open way. Last year the Panel appeared before approximately 150 persons at PTA meetings in the Elementary Schools.

During the past year's experience the Panel members concluded that "individual example" plays the biggest part in proper development of young people. Moral and spiritual values not sprung up by accident. They have to be nurtured with care. Our standard of values calls for character that will enable the citizens of a democracy to live well with themselves and their fellow members. Parents & teachers are primarily responsible for developing this kind of character in children. When these two groups carry out their responsibilities to the fullest extent in the home and in the school, the community itself will be a better place for children to grow up spiritually courageous and confident.

The Panel consists of Dr. Robert Kelly, Director of Elementary Education for the City; Mr. Lawrence A. Scancilio, realtor; the Rev. Herbert G. Hobbs, Minister of Plaza Methodist Church; Dr. W. A. Dickinson, cardiologist; and Mr. Philip G. Denham, attorney; and Rev. Clayton E. Crigger, Vicar of St. Francis Episcopal Church.

Pvt. Everett F. Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Horton, 1673 Indiana Ave., has completed an ammunition storage course at the Army Missile and Munitions school, Redstone Arsenal, Ala.

Pvt. Albert F. Helm, Jr., whose father lives at 975 Oak Tree Drive, has completed a radio course at the Army Training Center, Fort Knox, Ky.

AT HOSPITALITY HOUSE

Burgers Don't Last Long

VIRGINIA BEACH—Three area banks footed the bill during the Labor Day weekend and treated area servicemen to 1,000 hamburgers.

Aly Cohen, of the Servicemen's Hospitality House at 25th Street and Artic Ave., said First & Merchants National Bank, Seaboard Citizens National Bank and Virginia

National Bank contributed the necessary funds for the barbecue.

The cook-out also provided the servicemen with punch, coffee and cookies.

According to Cohen, however, the hamburgers didn't last long. He reported that more than 1,000 servicemen used the new facility over the weekend.

Busses brought men from Fort Lee, Langley Air Force Base, the Navy "Y" and other installations throughout Tidewater.

Each weekend some organization will donate money to provide the servicemen with food and drink in an effort to make their short visit to Virginia Beach as pleasant as possible. Until a better time of obtaining revenue is discovered, Cohen said, the Hospitality House will continue to operate on a week-to-week basis.

According to several persons associated with the Hospitality House, the new facility has gone over big with servicemen, not only from Tidewater, but from across the state as well.

The Virginia Beach Sun received a letter from a soldier in Vietnam expressing his thanks for such an organization. PFC Douglas Porter wrote "It sure was a nice feeling to be able to come down and have some where to go. I sure did appreciate it." Porter is stationed about 20 miles out of Saigon.

LABOR DAY WAS SLACK

Resort City Ends Largest Summer Ever On Record

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Labor

open year-round. Day Weekend brought to a close the best Virginia Beach tourist season on record. Those hotels and motels still open, however, said nothing could really be done until the tight money situation is relieved.

Many persons along the beachfront are quick to point out that the nationwide airline strike had much to do with the success of the season in the world's largest resort city. Virginia Beach is within a one-day drive of some of the largest cities in the United States.

Stan String, President of the Virginia Beach Innkeepers Association reported that most of the beach hotels and motels were full all the time despite the addition of 350 units after last year's season.

During the summer families were turned away daily from Seashore State Park. J. C. Killinger, Superintendent of the park, said it got so bad that his people had to turn away as many as 100 families a day away from the park. Killinger added that 230 additional campsites will be added for next year's season and it will remain open year-round.

Sterling said several plans are before the City Planning Commission to help make next summer even more successful, but said nothing could really be done until the tight money situation is relieved.

He pointed out that a road connecting Virginia Beach with the North Carolina Outer Banks would make the tourist trade a year-round business.

Although too early to compute the amount of business done in Virginia Beach during August, July showed a 14% per cent increase over last year.

Many of the resort city motel owners are preparing themselves for a busy fall season as well. Many convention are booked at the Cavalier Hotel and the Virginia Beach Civic Center.

The summer season ended, however, with crowds below normal for the Labor Day weekend. Cloudy skies and the threat of rain had a lot to do with keeping the sunbathers at home.

Several motel owners thought the possibility of a hurricane moving into the area had a lot to do with dulling the turnout.

More than a few of the tourists left early Monday for that long trip back home.

Sunday was reported to be the busiest day on the beach since the Fourth of July. Thousands flocked for one last fling in the surf and on the sand before school started again.

There was a noted drop in people and cars Tuesday. Atlantic Avenue was once more a clear street.

As Tuesday rolled around, the lifeguard staff was cut in half and the beach umbrellas, chairs and air mattresses were stored away for another year.

The only thing the end of the tourist season didn't effect was the surfing areas. They were, as usual, packed to capacity by beach students who were playing "hockey" while the surf was up.

Faith Brings Lots Of Sand

VIRGINIA BEACH—Hurricane Faith never even caused the slight stir in Virginia Beach. At no time was the sixth hurricane of the season a threat to Virginia Beach. She did not keep tourists away over the Labor Day weekend, as did one of her older sisters a year ago.

Faith did affect Virginia Beach however, and much of the east coast of Virginia and North Carolina. She churned up the waters of the Atlantic enough to push a great deal of sand seaward, depositing it close to shore. Unfortunately the distribution of sand is not even, and there are many holes. Bathers at Virginia Beach reported an uneven bottom and numerous large-sized sand bars.

Just what effect these sand bars and new sand will have on Virginia Beach is still unknown. There was speculation that the bottom sands would redistribute shortly and the situation would return largely to normal. Others thought it a blessing in disguise since new sand was brought in and eroded away.

Park And Smile

VIRGINIA BEACH—The day after Labor Day, Mrs. Laura Lambe, head of the Laura Lambe Advertising Agency, which handles the advertising and publicity of the City of Virginia Beach, was seen with a big smile on her face.

"It's for the good season we had," she said. ". . . And I was able to find a parking place this morning."

The Canadian National Exhibit featured as the largest exposition in the Americas, is not the only show the Chamber will attend this year. Each year, representatives from the Chamber travel all over the United States and Canada to promote tourism here.

Mailles said Virginia Beach always receives a warm welcome at the CNE, but this year was outstanding. Thousands of persons flocked to the Virginia Beach booth during the show. Mailles said.

Virginia Beach was not only afforded a booth at the Exhibit. Mailles said they also had a display window on one of the main streets of Toronto and representatives from the "World's Largest Resort City" appeared on a Canadian television show and were asked to discuss the city.

All retired officers are invited to attend.

HAPPINESS IS a first day at school for Brenda Bell. Many youngsters in Virginia Beach faced the same joy Tuesday when school opened. There was, however, another side to the story, as pointed out by Nickie Smith. Nickie doesn't seem too happy about the abrupt end of summer and the return to reading, writing, and the like. bring the 365 new teachers at the Princess Anne High School Cafeteria.

A delightful Indian summer morning at 8 a.m. last Friday, cars whizzed up the driveway, depositing young, pretty girls, good-to-look-upon well-groomed men and a scattering of retiring army and navy officers, embarking on yet another career—all teaching for the first time in the Virginia Beach schools.

Jerry Bullock, rushing to get her car started, was king enough to let us ride with her, and as we adjusted hat and makeup, discovered that we lived in the same apartment house. Jerry will teach art in Bayside High School. In the long line waiting to be served as we separated, whom should we spot but our last year's classmate at Fort Story, Commander John Haines (Ret.) who made an A on our graduate Education course. He will teach at Union Kempsville High School. With him was Frank Collier, an addition to P.A.H.S. wearing a closely cropped mustache.

Seated at the head of the Pi shaped table were the School Board members, the Administrative Staff, the Advisory Board and other educational V.I.P.s. School Supt. Frank W. Cox introduced all 19 school administrators to the teachers, welcoming them to the area and to the school system, after Board member Spencer Lett had given the invocation.

"This is the fastest growing section in the state, and the majority of the people who reside here are economically advantaged, and will not tolerate poor education," said Cox. "Last year in one school, we had teachers from 44 states. People seem to like to live at the Beach and to rear their families here. This is the 34th annual party and the 31st Board Breakfast. It's nice to have you with us."

Among the brief speakers were Charles Arnette, president of the National Education of Classroom Teachers, George Ferrell, outgoing schoolboard chairman, Philip Meekins, Assistant Administrator, J. J. Owens, Assistant Administrator, Ann Davis, Director of Visual Education, Robert DeFord, George Lyons, Mrs. Paul Cousins, Mrs. Lee Kelberg, E. Bruce McGuire, Director of Elementary Instruction, Dr. Charles Fletcher, and others.

Meeting Planned

VIRGINIA BEACH — A semi-annual circuit assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses, sponsored by the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society of New York, is scheduled September 23-25 at the Hayden High School in Franklin, Virginia.

Convention officials announced that 150 delegates representing 19 congregations in Southeastern Virginia will attend the session. The group's ministerial activity of the last six months will be reviewed.

Convention officials announced that 150 delegates representing 19 congregations in Southeastern Virginia will attend the session. The group's ministerial activity of the last six months will be reviewed.

On the run, we caught sight of Phyllis Ludford, Nancy Rollins will be at Hermitage Elementary, and Susan Hathaway at Aragon Elementary. Sherry Witt in a sleeveless pink-striped gingham and Gaynelle Richardson, wearing an Indian print, will be newcomers as English instructors.

On the run, we caught sight of Principals Carroll, Helmer, and Byxkin, Supervisor Elmer Tarrall, Horse Selbert (who will be the only male on his faculty), Sylvia Wilson, Dr. Robert Kelly, Stephen Chippock and Harold Whitehurst.

Summer begins to be boring and even frustrating to students without scholastic and athletic endeavors. And to these 350 molders of young minds, it was fun and fellowship, pride and anticipation of rewarding work, as they ate a full breakfast of juices, scrambled eggs, sausage and raisin buns, the invited guests of their employees. It was a real Party Line! These teachers are ready!

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Little Island Park

The City of Virginia Beach made a fine move when it purchased the large tract of land at Sandbridge for recreational purposes. The Little Island facility, what little there was of it there this summer, proved to be most successful and well accepted by tourists and permanent residents alike.

Plans are not complete at this time concerning future development of the Park, but if this summer was any indication, whatever facilities are added, there is a promise of a bright future.

We would like to see this magnificent ocean and bay site developed to its capacity with all types of recreational facilities, and we feel certain that is what the city has in mind. We suggest no compromising on this project. We would like to see excellent permanent facilities, not a collection of temporary buildings. We realize this will take time, but we also feel we have the time to see this park developed correctly. Unless times change considerably, this area should prove to be densely populated within a few years, and the park will be invaluable.

The prospect of reversing the amount

A Successful Tourist Season

Just because Labor Day has come and gone, motel, hotel and restaurant operators in Virginia Beach do not like to consider the tourist season really over. Although the activity has already slowed down noticeably they are looking forward to many conventions and conferences and a good fall season.

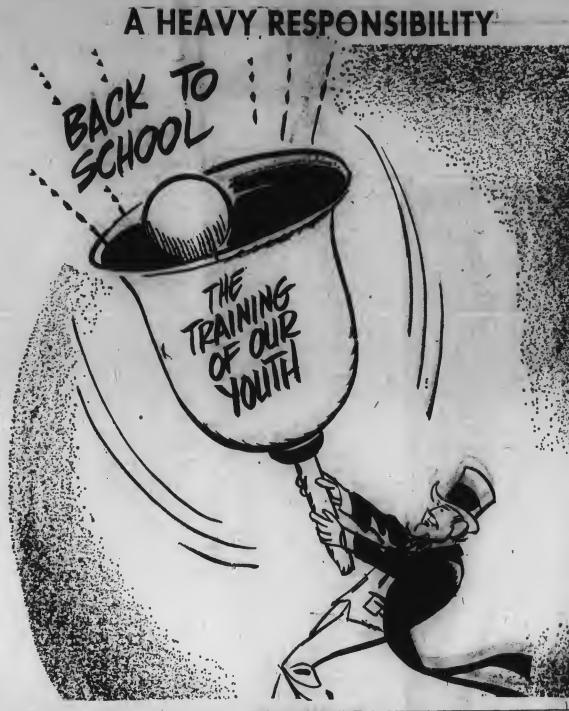

The tourist season just ended set all types of new records. More people spent more money in less time in all parts of Virginia Beach than ever before. The tourist-oriented businesses operated at capacity or near capacity all summer long. The prospects look good for next summer already.

More new hotels, motels and restaurants will be built here by next summer, it is hoped. At present one of the deterrents to more building is the "tight money situation". There are several new motels here this summer, and still rooms were hard to find. We are definitely experiencing continued growth in the tourist industry.

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel definitely brought more people here this year, although that "wonder of the world" is having its own problems. The completion of Interstate 95 from Washington southward, less than excellent roads north and south of the complex in Maryland and Virginia on the Eastern Shore and in North Carolina to the south caused many woes, although the complex set new records in July for toll collection. The toll is also a problem. New "commuter" tolls are under consideration and possibly an overhaul of the toll setup is in the making. Although we do not consider the toll too high for what one gets, the amount has been a problem. Perhaps something can be done.

Camping was operated at capacity in Virginia Beach this summer and next year, the number of campsites will be doubled. More boats and camping trailers were sold here this year than ever before. Everything "recreational" showed a gain.

In short it was a highly-successful summer season for Virginia Beach. We look forward to even greater heights next year and every year in the future.

The 'Cohen Operated' Hospitality House

The Hospitality House set up this summer in the basement of the old General Hospital of Virginia Beach has been successful beyond the fondest dreams of anyone. . . . anyone that is, except possibly Algy Cohen, the one man most responsible for keeping it all going so smoothly. Many people are involved in the project, including ministers, hostesses, city officials, hospital board of director members and many others, but Algy Cohen has been the driving force behind a fine summer of operation.

Now the fate of the hospitality house would seem to be up to the board of directors of the hospital. It is hoped that they will find some way to continue to make the building available for the use of servicemen on a year-round basis. Money, the commodity so necessary to the operation of the center, has been hard to come by, but the bankers have provided money, the United Fund has provided money and will continue to do so, the Ministerial Association has provided money, and private citizens have provided money and time. In short the center has operated well on the generosity of others and can continue to do so. We hope it will.

With all the young servicemen in this area, we feel that such a hospitality house in Virginia Beach all year is an excellent idea. The interest was great all summer, and we feel the operation must be given a chance on a twelve-month basis to find out how much interest there is during the winter. We will venture a guess that the interest will be great and that attendance will be more than ever anticipated.

Virginia Beach has come of age. It does not "close up" on Labor Day. We need such a facility here. We urge the support of everyone for this project.

The Wide City Street

The completion of the Virginia Beach-Norfolk Expressway will come in late 1967 and it obviously will be none too soon. Each day Virginia Beach Boulevard becomes more of a city street and less of a connecting artery.

Within the next few weeks the erection of a system of dual street lights will be turned on in the median strip of the Boulevard from Kellam Road to Thalnia Creek. In the evening hours this should light the area like the "Great White Way" it is becoming. At that point there is as much concentration of business and professional activity as in many other areas put together. With the completion of Independence Boulevard (the first segment in December) and additional development of unused land in the area, this location will be a major crossroads.

The same thing is happening all along Virginia Beach Boulevard, from the city limits on the west to the ocean-front. The entire area is destined to become a mecca of business in just a few short years. Virginia Beach Boulevard, once a narrow country road from Norfolk, through Princess Anne County to the Atlantic, will then be a heavily traveled four-lane city street, densely populated.

We doubt seriously that the new expressway will even make a dent in the amount of traffic, since the Boulevard is so rapidly changing its physical complexion and gaining new traffic. But at least it will be a more controlled and less hectic form of traffic. The residents of Virginia Beach will be glad a couple of years from now to have such a fine city street cutting directly through the heart of the city, and they will be more than glad to have a high speed expressway to be used for through traffic and for the tourists. The two together should take care of all our needs for a few years at least.

The summer police and the Beach Patrol have contributed greatly to the smooth operation in the resort areas of Virginia Beach this summer. Both organizations have done an excellent job and deserve much credit as they close down their operations for another year.

The summer police force, composed of law students from a number of large colleges and universities, served along with the regular police force to enforce the law here and to handle problems, both criminal and traffic. We have long favored the idea of the summer police force, since there must be additional law enforcement officers in the resort areas to cope with the influx of tourists and beachgoers. The idea of hiring law students to do the job is in our opinion the best way possible of dealing with the situation.

In all cases the law student-police officers have worked out well and they have performed their jobs conscientiously. They have gained the respect of tourists and permanent residents alike.

The Beach Patrol, responsible for providing beach umbrellas, floats and other beach equipment, also has a far greater responsibility. Its members, mostly young high school and college age boys are the lifeguards along the public beach and many is the time this year and in the past that they have been called upon to use their life-saving and first aid skills. Without these outstanding teenagers the resort areas of Virginia Beach simply would not be safe. With them, our tourists and natives have a feeling of confidence.

The two groups have contributed to the smooth operation of the resort this summer. We congratulate them on jobs well done. Many of the individual members will come back next year and we will be glad to welcome them back. To the others we thank them for helping at Virginia Beach.

THE BEACH THIS WEEK

The Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel reached a new high in revenues and traffic during July. A total of 161,881 vehicles traveled over and under Chesapeake Bay on the two-year-old facility, bringing in $1,043,800 in revenues.

The special tax administrator for the city of Virginia Beach recently reported that special taxes on food, lodging, admissions and beach equipment is running nearly $80,000 ahead of its estimate for the year.

Virginia Beach's City Summer Playground reported on August 10 a record 11,332 registrations and 174,864 visitations.

The City Planning Commission will hear applications for 208 apartment units near Pocahontas Village and a camping trailer parking area in Aragona Village at its Sept. 14 meeting. It will also hear a city application to operate its new marina at Long Creek.

The Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce's Industrial Development Committee has almost completed work on a city industrial brochure. The brochure, which will be the first of its kind, p.m. Aug. 27.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

Dear Sir:

We are indeed fortunate that the Virginia Commission on Outdoor Recreation considers the proposed Sandbridge Park one of "the most pressing in terms of value to the State." In my opinion, this will be the final opportunity for our generation to preserve a magnificent seashore area for the people of Virginia, a shrine maintained for all Americans to visit. To endorse a million dollar investment in our City, with an economic impact so great, one can only imagine its magnitude, would attest the wisdom of City officials.

over. They don't care.

I tried to give a small birthday party for my sister in June. Smartly gave the party, but no one will fight the traffic from Norfolk here. "Haven't been to bumper this summer," my sister-in-law said. This bumper to bumper driving gets one home at ten o'clock at night. No street, sorry, but we go to Sandbridge for a swim. (I ought to buy a lot or two there, really.)

Also furnished from other parts gang up in our poorer sections, and raise the dicker. I am told by a young lawyer here, that there are so many "cuttings" (straight razor blades, the popular weapon) that there aren't enough jails to hold them; except for one night. Umph!

Now that's a painful circumstance, it seems to my feminine and untutored mind. Doesn't seem to add up, does it? Will that decrease said "cuttings", or not? What's your opinion, Mr. Editor? We poor ignorant females like to get the masculine slant. I like a man's judgment, I always say.

Well, maybe the city is making so much "touristizing", we'll be able to get along with less taxes; build more jails; fewer MOTELS and buy property in old Princess Anne for recreation spots to lure the tourists way from our beautiful beaches; to a boxing match, or baseball; or SOMETHING. Lord help us to stay alive thru Labor DAY!

Saddly yours,

Margaret Boykin

P. S. I just stay at home to be safe.

Dear Sir:

We would like to express our sincere thanks to all the City officials, especially to Mayor Dusch for Signing the Proclamation for Forget-Me-Not Day.

And, of course, to the News and TV media for their wonderful participation, as well as other organizations, such as "Jobs Daughters," Boy Scouts and other workers.

James M. Ramsey, Commander Chapter #10, DAV Va. Beach, Va.

Dear Sir:

Last night I heard the new political group known as the Good Government Association called the "cowab group" by a man who lives in my neighborhood. He was quite concerned and told him so. He added that he did not like to see any group of "vigilantes of government" set up with secret membership.

I am certainly in favor of good government, which I think we have now in Virginia Beach, and I am certainly not against any group that favors good government, although I must agree with my neighbor whose secret membership is concerned.

As was pointed out in your paper recently, Mr. Rhee Adams (president of the group ED.) has been a successful Virginia Beach businessman. I would like to believe that his group is actually set up for its avowed purpose of watching over government and insuring the same, but that is the only reason, why most the membership be secret. I would not like to believe that Mr. Adams would associate himself with a group for any other purpose.

Forget-Me-Not Days For DAV

VIRGINIA BEACH—The annual Forget-Me-Not Drive for Disabled American Veterans was held all over the country on Sept. 2, 3, and 5, when workers stationed at various places of business throughout the city, accepted offerings for this worthy cause, and proudly gave the "small blue flowers of remembrance" in return.

Another gesture of the appreciation of the members of Chapter 20, D.A.V., for community projects was, on Sept. 1, to the General Hospital of Virginia Beach, the presentation of a combination wheel chair and stretcher and a check to defray the maintenance of the appliance. Commander James M. Rampy stated that the chair might mean "the difference between life and death of a loved one."

At an impressive ceremony, held in the reception hall of the Hospital, Roy D. Cope, wearing his veteran's cap as Vice-Commander for the Virginia Beach group, sat in the chair, flanked by the American flag and the D.A.V. flag, (the figure of Columbia conferring knighthood upon a kneeling soldier) indicating that "the wearer was wounded, gassed, injured, or disabled, while serving in the armed forces during time of war."

According to Ramsey, John Barringer, president of Tidewater D.A.V., was unable to attend, being confined to a hospital, but other dignitaries and city officials were present to witness Samuel Feazell, Assistant Administrator of the hospital, receive the chair and the check.

Mrs. Lula Ellison, president of the Ladies Auxiliary, and a former W.A.A.C. (forerunner of W.A.C.); Chief E. B. (Bubba) Bayne of the city's fire department; State Senator William P. Kellam, and Albin R. Mailhes, Executive Vice-Pres. of the Chamber of Commerce also stood near, thinking, perhaps, of General Douglas MacArthur's remark, as he said: "Membership in no group in the world carries greater honor than in the Disabled American Veterans."

Football Film At Nike Site

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Virginia Beach Department of Parks & Recreation would like to announce to all of its Community League Coaches and Athletic Area Chairmen, that a training film dealing with the various rules and infractions of such, will be shown September 13, at 7:30 P.M. at the Activity Center, 4400 Nike Site Road.

The title of the film is "Know Your Football". This film has been used extensively across the state in connection with the pre-season training of many who are connected with the sport. "Know Your Football" is very informative and entertaining film. The Parks & Recreation urges all of its coaches and chairmen to avail themselves to the opportunity that this showing presents.

New '67 Renault Restyled

NORFOLK — According to S. Frank Blocker, Jr., president of Eastern Auto Dist., Inc., Renault's 1967 economy car line-up will feature a new, dramatically restyled "luxury economy" model, the Renault 10.

The new four-door, four-passenger sedan is nearly a foot longer than last year's Renault 6, has 25% more trunk space and is equipped with over 50 advanced safety features including four-wheel disc brakes, impact-absorbing front end, padded interior, fold-down seats, which are included as standard equipment.

Despite its "big-car" roominess and ride, comfort and convenience features and sports car performance, the Renault 10 still gets over 35 miles per gallon. And is available in all new colors for 1967.

The new '67 Renault 10, along with the '67 versions of the Dauphine and Caravelle convertible/hardtop, will be on display at Eastern Auto in Norfolk, Virginia on September 9th.

Film Offered

NORFOLK—As a result of last year's successful promotion, Virginia National Bank has purchased the second in a series of football films produced by the NFL. The new movie, "Key Plays of Pro Football," will be made available free of charge to civic, business, sports and youth clubs and other organizations by the bank. A "double-feature" program can be arranged by using last year's film, "How to Watch Pro Football," along with the new one. Both films are 16mm, sound, color and 30 minutes in duration.

A Royal Cup For Ron

VIRGINIA BEACH—There are over 60 Oceanfront lifeguards working during the summer months for the pleasure, comfort, and convenience of the people who swim and sun in and by the great Atlantic. The Umbrella and Chair concession extending from 4th to 22nd Streets, is a highly organized business owned and operated by G. H. (Dusty) Hinnant and Hugh Kitchin. These gentlemen give great thought to the hiring of these young men. Generally college students, they are assisted by younger apprentices, and each year Kitchin and Hinnant, (this year Kenneth Hinnant was part of the judging team) also select one lifeguard to receive a gold cup as the outstanding guard, and his runner-up. A helpful scholarship is also awarded.

Before the Norwegian Lady last week, Ron Bugaj, from Wheeling, W. Va., a college sophomore at West Virginia University, and Carl Shelton of Virginia Beach, 16, accepted, respectively, cash awards and a handsome gold and silver cup as first and second winning men from the Virginia Beach Lifeguard Patrol. Both boys are crack swimmers and performed meritorious service during the summer.

100 Gave... 17 Years Ago

By Doris Padrick

They're needing it more, but getting it less... blood donors, that is. Mrs. Lois Nelson, regional director of the American Red Cross Bloodmobile, discovered some startling facts while examining the files of past contributors to the blood donor program.

On October 21, 1949, when Virginia Beach was a small seashore town with a population to match, 100 townfolk donated blood at the first official visit of the Bloodmobile. Last month, the August visit of the Bloodmobile received a mere 25 pints from a population whose numbers and needs have increased a thousand-fold.

In observance of the Tidewater Regional Red Cross Blood Center's 17th birthday being celebrated this month, the Bloodmobile will be at the General Hospital of Virginia Beach on Friday, September 9, from noon to 6 p.m. It is hoped that the many who can will bring their gifts of blood during that visit.

On the list of the "original hundred" are many well-known names, and during the past 17 years have been consistent donors, some having received or soon will receive their 9 and 10 gallon pins.

Those who came and gave their blood nearly 17 years ago were Richard Tayloe Munford, Harold B. Kellam, Ragan Bradshaw Pulley, James Albert Perkins, Olivia Mae Manson, William Clinton Everett, Robert Preston Midgett, Al Baum Midgett, Russell Dawson Taylor, J. Peter Holland.

VIRGINIA BEACH — First Colonial High School faces a tough schedule this year with a team that lacks experience but just might make up for it in spunk.

The Patriots, under the guidance of head coach Lew Breedlove, have only six seniors returning this year and the loss of John Romano, Jerry Whitehurst, and Ronnie Armworth will be felt.

Their schedule includes such teams as Princess Anne, Oscar Smith, and Churchland.

Their 1965 record as the Virginia Beach "Seahawks" was anything less than impressive. They were forced to forfeit all ten games.

This beach school will have one extra week to iron out the sore spots. Breedlove and his coaching staff, as well as the boys, have their work cut out for them. This weekend we find the following beach teams in action: Cox and Bayide at Cox; Princess Anne at Great Bridge; Kellam at Oscar Smith. First Colonial and Union Kempville are idle.

SUPPORT URGED

School Time - PTA Time

When the children start off to school, it's prime time to join the PTA.

And in this school year, PTA's throughout the country are moving forward on programs that seek to involve all parents—and other adults interested in children's welfare—in ever better education, health and opportunity for all children.

"Never in its history has the PTA been more necessary to the well-being of children and our nation," says Mrs. Jennelle Moorhead of Eugene, Ore., National PTA president. "Never have we had so rich an opportunity to move the nation to great decisions, for ideas that the PTA has promoted for years have come into their own."

Its goal of making preschool education available to all children, for example, is winning broad acceptance. Increasingly, too, educators realize the importance of involving parents in their children's education, something long advocated by the PTA.

This year, the PTA plans to experiment with new methods of reaching the non-participating parents—the working mother, the parent-without-partner, the residents of urban slums or depressed rural areas. New programs, too, will deal with children's health, safety and education.

One such project, undertaken in cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service, will attempt to discourage 7th and 8th graders from starting to smoke cigarettes.

On other subjects, as well, the PTA has a full schedule of critical issues" ripe for action.

Membership in the PTA, of course, is open to any parent or teacher or school administrator —indeed, to all who are interested in children and willing to uphold the Objects of the PTA. Membership dues vary among local units and state branches of the National PTA, but only ten cents of each membership fee goes to the National Office, in Chicago, for maintaining the organization and providing the services that enable PTA's to function effectively and serve children best.

The PTA Magazine, official publication of the organization, has scheduled three continuing series of articles dealing with school education, family life, and community services and intended to foster "better lives for all children."

"Your Own Project Head Start" is one subject in the pre-school series, of interest primarily to parents of young children. The common blocks of learning in elementary school are scheduled for discussion in another article; and experts will also survey, for PTA Magazine readers, the problem areas of sex education and teenage drinking and use of drugs.

For every parent, Mrs. Moorhead emphasized, "the PTA has an ideal assignment—to work with men and women who share your concern for children and youth, to plan and initiate new projects, to enjoy a better understanding of yourself and your family, to take pride in working in an organization of national renown and international reputation."

Membership enrollment continues throughout the school year.

do pennies make a difference in your food bill?

You bet they do.

And we should know.

We built our business by saving pennies for generations of folks like you.

For instance, take our policy on multiple-priced items.

If an item is priced 3 for 25¢, the price for one is obviously 9¢.

But what happens if you want two?

Do you pay 2 times 9¢ or 18¢?

Not at A&P.

We sell it at 2 for 17¢.

That's the fair way—the A&P way.

Yes, in the food business...

in food budgeting, pennies make a difference.

We watch them for you and for us.

Is this a good reason for shopping A&P? It's one of many.

AS WE WALKED up Atlantic Ave. near the Thunderbird on Labor Day, these green and white striped suits came toward us. "If you pose for us, we'll try and get 2 girls to stand with you," we begged. Let's walk down on the Beach." "We're in the Navy, and we guess the Skipper won't mind us in the paper. But where will we find girls and why is everyone staring?" These suits are all they go in California, where our ship's been docked." Luck was with the candid camera, since two girls, sisters from Newport News, came walking toward us, before we had reached the water's edge. This picture of contrast is the result. The girls went their way, and we asked the two sailors to rest with us at a nearby pool. Arriving, they began diving and swimming like professionals not even taking time to remove their tops. We settled back in a chair and dozed for a moment. When we awoke ten minutes, they had silently slipped away, we hope to the Hospitality House for Service Personnel, but probably, to find another bikini! (Photo by Cassandra)

Phyllis Sofield is a lighting consultant. What's that? A lighting consultant is one who plans specific lighting to be co-ordinated and incorporated into the design and furnishings of a home or business. Mrs. Sofield is believed to be the only lighting expert specifically trained for this new concept of harmonious decor in the city of Virginia Beach.

Wife of Robert T. Sofield who owns & operates Southern Electric Co., she became interested in decorative lighting when her husband, with Fred Huette, was designing the lighting effects for the Norfolk Botanical Garden.

Phyllis has taken instruction from the General Electric School, now Cleveland, and opened her new shop at 2324 Virginia Beach Blvd. (London Bridge) in March of this year. The response to her service has been overwhelming.

Advances in the lighting industry in regard to decorating with effective illumination has made the selection of a lamp "because it is pretty", or an outside spotlight merely for protection, obsolete. All fixtures should have important relationship with the environment and should be the basic part of any successful decorative scheme.

"Using light where it is most effective is the aim of a lighting consultant. Where do you need light? . . . Where do you have light? . . . Where do you want light? Think how you could brighten the work area in the kitchen, cast a romantic spell in the dining room, put a glow in conversational areas, caress a fine painting with soft light, control light around the patio and swimming pool, accent garden beauty spots, add nighttime drama to a fountain. Lighting is too often taken for granted; its uses are endless, and can be wonderful!"

At the Decorative Lighting Show, you may order from a quality line of unusual fixtures. Many are on display and there are catalogues from which to select the different size or color for your personal decor. From chandelier to patio lamps, from spots to lanterns, every type of lighting for practical and decorative illumination is at the fingertips of your lighting consultant.

Phyllis began by helping home owners. Then her trained eye noted that many of the motels and other business establishments were not as effectively lighted as they should be. She contacted some of the business men with ways they might make their establishments more attractive through proper lighting. She has found them most receptive to her "illuminating" ideas.

She has recently returned from a trip to New York where she studied the markets on holiday decorating. And though it may seem a little premature to be thinking about those lines, she will be ready for you with all kinds of ways to make your holiday lighting the best ever. If you hope to do more this year than string lights on a Christmas tree or put flickering candles in the windows, see Phyllis.

The Sofields came from New Jersey eleven years ago, and liked the area so much they decided to stay. They and their five children reside at 3rd and Crystal Lake.

Recreation Com. Meeting

By Douglas Barnes

PRINCESS ANNE—The August meeting of the Parks, Recreation and Physical Education Commission was "short and snappy", and members were in a relaxed mood since so much had been accomplished during the summer months.

The Commission meets on the fourth Tuesday at 3 p.m. in the Administration Building of Education at Princess Anne Courthouse.

Maury Riganto, chairman, announced that the commission was pleased that in all the summer forums, the discussions and proposed changes in the 20-year Master Plan were amenable to the City Council, and that the progress of recreational facilities and their use this summer had been phenomenal.

The offices of the Physical Education Department will move to the Nike Site shortly," said Riganto, "so that our equipment and administration offices will all be together."

Stanley Rigant spoke of the increase in surfing interest, and suggested that seasoned surfers and beginning "grimmers" surf in different areas in order to prevent accidents.

A committee, consisting of Gammie, Phillips and Whitehurst, was appointed by Rigant to look into the possibility of more surfing space and parking at Little Island

WAR NOT WANTED

A Soldier Does His Duty

By Jack Moore

VIRGINIA BEACH—To some of the people in the United States, the war in Viet Nam is an excuse to demonstrate against our government. To others, the conflict is a job—a way of life.

One of these people is SP4 William (Billy) T. Verdon. He is presently serving with the 25th Division near Pleiku, South Vietnam. Verdon, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Verdon live on South Side Road, Virginia Beach, is only 22 but is willing to fight and perhaps die for his country and its principles.

Young Verdon wanted to enlist in the Army, but was called by the traditional "greetings" last year before he had a chance to do so. He received his basic training at Ft. Gordon, Georgia, and his jungle warfare training at Ft. Jackson. Verdon received his final training in Hawaii. At Ft. Jackson he qualified as an expert on his machine gun test.

When he first went to South Vietnam last January he was assigned to operate the M-60 light machine gun. He has since given the M-60 up for a 12-gauge shotgun. Since his introduction to war nine months ago, Verdon has been on many different operations and has been on more than 30 ground-to-air assault missions, qualifying him for the Assault Medal. He is presently on operation Paul Revere II.

In a recent letter home, Verdon told about a visit to his group by the Army commander in South Vietnam. "General Westmoreland said we are in the field more, training harder, and with more results than any other battalion in the country," he said.

Verdon is presently serving with the Headquarters Communications unit for the "Tropic Lightning" Division. He has had three commanding officers since he has been "over there". The first two were wounded in action. One of them received a silver star for actions in the war that is not a war.

His mother told this reporter that "he never complains" about the conditions on the battlefield and that his "morale is wonderful." The Verdons have a close friend who is also serving in South Vietnam who keeps tabs on their son and lets them know about him from time to time.

Verdon doesn't profess a love for war, but he does feel it is his duty to be there to defend freedom.

Dentists To Meet

NORFOLK—The 37th Annual meeting of the Virginia State Dental Association will be held in Norfolk at the Golden Triangle Hotel, Sept. 18th and 19th. Over 800 dentists are expected to register for the four day meeting, featuring dental scientists, who will speak on dental education (the way teeth move).

Dr. Richard B. Barrick of Petersburg, President of the Association, will conduct his final meeting as Dr. Charles R. Cross, of Roanoke, will be inducted as President. A unique feature of the meeting will be a co-operative physical examination of the dentists on Tuesday, Sept. 18th. In cooperation with a group of physicians, the dentist will undergo a series of physical tests including a chest x-ray, electrocardiogram, and blood tests.

Dr. T. Ray Jarrett, Jr., Virginia Beach, chairman of the local arrangements told that since dentists perform their services in an extremely close relationship to patients, the examination was planned to emphasize the importance of a complete annual physical examination for their own protection and their patients' safety.

Dental assistants and other auxiliaries to the dental profession will conduct their meetings at the same time. Total registration for the meeting is expected to reach 1000.

Anyone who is skilled in an area, or has a hobby which they feel others might enjoy is asked to call the Department for further information.

FOR FIRST CLASS

Orientation Begins Monday At VWC

VIRGINIA BEACH—Virginia's newest college will open for its first academic session on September 12 with a new president, new faculty members, a pioneer freshman class and a unique educational complex located on 300 acres astride Norfolk-Virginia Beach, Virginia.

The small opening class begins its period of orientation on Monday, September 12, at Virginia Wesleyan.

Wesleyan's new president is Lambuth M. Clarke, vice president for development for eight years at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, Methodist's oldest college.

Clarke holds a Master's degree from Johns Hopkins and taught at Randolph-Macon in the English department for three years before joining the administrative staff at R-MC as assistant to the president in 1951. He has 18 years of college experience.

Directing Virginia Wesleyan's new academic program will be Dr. Robert C. Provine, an experienced educator who is a former faculty member and registrar at Vanderbilt University and holds graduate degrees from Vanderbilt, Harvard and Brown Universities.

Virginia Wesleyan will offer the basic freshman liberal arts program this first year in English, mathematics, foreign languages, science and social studies. The college will have a very favorable student-faculty ratio. Two additional administrative officers have been appointed.

"Personalized, high quality education is what we offer," says Judge Jerry G. Bray, Jr., chairman of the Board of Trustees at Virginia Wesleyan. "The student will live, study, eat and play under the roof of the compact, self-contained academic village."

The academic village was designed by Philip Brothman of Perkins and Will, a Chicago architectural firm recognized as a national leader in educational design.

The local-authorized architectural firm is Shriver and Holland of Norfolk. The contracting firm for the first village now under construction is W. H. Belanga and Associates of Norfolk.

This present complex is the first of our academic villages projected for the new college.

The projected long-range maximum enrollment for the college of 1200 students will carefully maintain its status as a small college.

No decision has been made at this time as the definite plan of increase in enrollment each year.

The second academic village is scheduled to be added in 1968.

These two villages would provide facilities for a total of 600 students.

A center complex of auditorium, student union, library, science building and other general facilities to serve the four villages planned to be added as the needs arise and as funds are available over the next five to ten years.

President Clarke indicates the enrollment will be kept small the first year.

"Most of the students have been well qualified," says Donald E. Davis, Director of Admissions.

"We want to keep our standards high from the very beginning," says Davis.

Admissions Director Davis reports that qualifications for qualified students continue to come in and are being considered.

Virginia Wesleyan

Open House

NORFOLK—A general Open House at Virginia Wesleyan College will be held on Sunday, September 18 from 3-5 P.M.

Tours will be conducted of the college's new $1.5 million academic village.

Virginia Wesleyan opens for its first academic session September 12 with 75 freshmen and a faculty of 15.

The new, coeducational, church-related, liberal arts college is located astride the Norfolk-Virginia Beach line near the Lansdale Traffic Circle.

CHARLES DEAN, JR., 305 Cardinal Road, Virginia Beach, (right) talks with the Rev. Gerard J. Campbell, S.J., president of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., during a visit to the campus last weekend. Dean is vice-chairman for Norfolk of Georgetown's current $25 million Progress Fund program, designed to assist GU to meet its academic needs and to requirements for additional physical facilities.

Va. Tax Table Drawn By IRS

RICHMOND—James P. Boyle, District Director of Internal Revenue for the State of Virginia, today announced that the income tax instruction booklet for the preparation of 1966 individual incoming tax returns will contain a state sales tax table for Virginia. The sales tax table reflects amounts which may be used to determine the general sales tax based on income shown on Line 9, Page 1, Form 1040 and the number of persons in the taxpayer's family. These amounts are applicable for the period September 1 through December 31, 1966.

INCOME	Family Size
Line 9, Page 1	1 2 3 & 4
$ 10,000—$ 4,660	$12 $13 $17
$10,000—$10,999	$16 $23 $27
$20,000—over	$27 $36 $40

The District Director explained that only those taxpayers who itemize their deductions on Form 1040 may deduct the sales tax in determining taxable income.

Local sales taxes are not included in the tax table. Taxpayers paying the local sales tax after September 1, 1966, may add 50 percent to the table amount. If other local sales taxes are paid they may also be added.

Mr. Boyle said that taxpayers who do not elect to use the sales tax table should be prepared to substantiate the deduction.

CHESAPEAKE—The Twiford Colonial Chapel at Great Bridge, has added to its staff a Virginia Beach man, Richard Underdown of 5307 Wairhaway Road, Virginia Beach has become a full time member of the staff. This announcement was made this week by Sidney M. Oman, director and pastor of the Funeral Home.

Underdown, who completed his studies at the Old Dominion College this summer is a resident of Kempsville and is a graduate of the Grandy High School in Norfolk. Active in the Boy Scout Program of the Elizabeth River District since becoming an Eagle Scout as a youngster.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Underdown.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH was built in 1741 on a plot provided for it in William Byrd's original plan of Richmond. St. John's was the scene of the Virginia Convention of 1775 when Patrick Henry spoke from a pew below the pulpit the ringing words of his "liberty or death" speech.

Virginia's Annual Autumn Pilgrimage

Tidewater Virginia again plays host to guests for the sixth Annual Autumn Pilgrimage, scheduled this year for the week-ends of October 7, 8 and 9 and October 14, 15 and 16.

Sponsored by a rotating group of early churches, all located in parishes that date back to the early days of the Colony, the Pilgrimage offers an unique privilege. A visit to historic homes, not usually open to the public, beautifully restored and furnished with priceless antiques, a view of gardens and lawns sloping down to the Rivers that finger Virginia's peninsulas, and a look backward to a way of life that is almost forgotten.

October's bright blue weather, an Indian Summer when flowers still bloom in the old gardens with their boxwood and holly hedges, is a perfect time to travel in Virginia. On this year's Pilgrimage, guests will have an opportunity not only to visit the countryside where old churches at the cross-roads sleep away the centuries in the shade of oaks and elms, but also to enjoy Richmond's old Church Hill. St. John's Church is participating in Virginia's Annual Autumn Pilgrimage for the first time, and ante-bellum houses, newly reclaimed by the Historic Richmond Foundation, are being graciously opened by their occupants.

Six old churches are included in this year's Pilgrimage: St. George's Church in Fredericksburg, the boyhood church of George Washington, Brandon Church in the parish of Martins-Brandon, one of the earliest in Virginia, Merchants Hope Church, named for the ship that brought early settlers to the Colony, Vauters Church in Essex, saved for posterity by chance when it was about to be demolished right after the Revolution by vandals. Grace Church in Yorktown, used by Cornwallis as a powder magazine, and old St. John's where Patrick Henry voiced his moving phrases for liberty or death when the Convention was meeting there just prior to the Revolution.

Because this is a church-oriented program parishioners welcome tourists to their beautiful estates, and from all over America guests have come year after year to tour Virginia's countryside when the leaves are just turning and each shady highway is a golden arch dappled with shadow.

At lunch time on Friday and Saturday of each week-end, you will be able to enjoy famous old Virginia delicacies served by the of the two week-ends features a specific area. For a brochure and further information, write Virginia's Annual Autumn Pilgrimage, 5 Westham Parkway, Richmond, Virginia.

FT. EUSTIS, VA.—The Ft. Eustis Civilian Personnel Office has announced that a total of 435 jobs remain open at the installation.

Of these vacancies, 143 are positions which were converted from military jobs to civilian jobs as part of the civilianization program. This program is the result of a directive from the Department of the Army stating that where possible civilian will replace military personnel, in order to free the servicemen for other assignments.

The remaining 292 vacant positions occurred through regular procedures such as merit promotion, retirement, and lateral transfer.

Many of the vacancies result from difficulty in locating qualified personnel. Hard-to-fill jobs still open include such positions as model equipment repairer, industrial engineer, cryptographic equipment installer, training instructor (synthetic), TV equipment installer and repairer and museum technician.

The Civilian Personnel Office also plans to supplement the regular work force by employing personnel on a part-time basis. Qualified personnel will be placed in part-time positions such as personnel staffing specialists, sales store workers and cashiers. They will be employed for less than 40 hours a week and will receive pay according to experience and training.

Temporary clerks are also needed at Ft. Eustis. The roster is adequate at the present time.

'Sing Out' Group Forming At Beach

VIRGINIA BEACH — After the highly entertaining and successful "Sing Out South" which brought 1000 people to their feet in applause and patriotic acknowledgement of America's youth at the Civic Center recently, those who are doing something constructive for their home, city, state, nation, Ricky Hanger of Virginia Beach received over 50 names of people interested in forming a group here. These people are creating an image for their friends and those around them by practicing in their daily lives goodness and kindness, and changing for the better in any situation. And they are telling the world about it in song.

The 1st rehearsal of Va. Beach group had a "good thing going" and were singing with zest, enthusiasm and contagious sincerity, when we arrived at Calilee Episcopal Church last week to see and hear them practicing such songs as "Up, Up, People", "Freedom Isn't Free", "Don't Stand Still", "Which Way, America?", "What Color Is God's Skin", "Can't You Hear America Singing?" and others.

Miraculously, and hoping that the Beach will receive this concept of normal college and high school students who sing for freedom and call to everybody thru song to travel the right road, these Beach believers were learning songs, gestures, and lyrics, under the expert tutelage of Mrs. Robert Hornsby, and her Williamsburg branch. As expert pianists and was that Gene Krupa on drums? Our own Sandy Dillon, a graduate of V.B.H.S. who at Xmas time will be entering the Coast Guard certainly "rolled them" and assisted by Baxter Carr and Ricky, as song directors, were better than the Beatles, the Stones, or the long-haired members of pessimism and doom.

This group from Williamsburg was entertained for a sumptuous lunch prepared by interested families and friends, and after their hard rehearsal work, there was time for a swim. Integrated, ambitious, and unprejudiced, they had seen the light, had heard the call, and wanted others to "Sing Out", with them. Ricky Hanger is a rising senior at Norfolk Academy. His telephone is 428-5182. He is establishing the group here at the Beach.

Admission will be by season membership only. Other productions for the 65-67 season which will be seen at the Newport News High School are "Mary, Mary", "You Can't Take It With You", "The Crucible" and "Barefoot in the Park". For ticket information call Newport News 244-1411.

"THAT'S MY WIFE, YOU SCOUNDREL!" Paul Iddings, as Richard Sherman, teases while Paul Christensen flirts with his wife, played by Arden Staroba. All three are appearing in the Wedgewood Dinner-Theatre production of "The Seven Year Itch." This uproarious comedy will play Tuesday through Saturday until September 17.

'Itch' Has Much Appeal

TOANO — "The Seven Year Itch" by George Axelrod, has become a successful seller for Wedgewood Dinner Theatre, Williamsburg. In choosing a play consideration is given to what appeal it will have for audiences. Wedgewood chose "Itch" as a light summer comedy aimed at adult audiences.

When author Axelrod gave Richard Sherman, played by Paul Iddings, a non-stop appearance on stage and almost half the dialogue, he challenged any actor's imagination. Sherman is a character many audiences identify with. He's been married seven years, has one child, a job with a publishing house, his doctors have advised him he smokes too much and should switch from alcoholic to raspberry flavored diet drinks. When this typically American male is left in his New York apartment while the wife and child leave for a beach summer, and the apartment upstairs houses an "actress type," the comedy begins.

Contrary to the sophisticated lovers in many plays, Richard is nervous, unsure of what he wants to do, and awkward about doing it. Bringing even more humor to this situation, is the girl, played by Fran Derk, who though an actress, and beautiful, is really rather an innocent female living in the big city for only a year. Put the two characters in Richard's apartment and the inevitable is bound to happen.

Director Frank Staroba hasn't missed a chance to give "Itch" as much audience appeal as possible. Richard throws his doctor's advice out the window, but he never lights a cigarette nor pours a drink without thinking of his variety. First Lieutenant Gordon L. Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Merritt Jr., 425 John Alden road, has completed a helicopter Airman 3/c Raymond E. Nethercutt Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Nethercutt of 4009 S. Oliver drive, has been graduated with honors at Amarillo AFB, Tex., from the training course for U.S. Air Force aircraft mechanics.

ARTMOBILE III from the Virginia Museum will tour the Commonwealth this fall following a dedication ceremony September 12 in Richmond outside Miller and Rhoads Department Store, donor of the 60-foot long traveling museum. Webster S. Rhoads, Jr., store president, will officially present the Artmobile to president of the Museum, Walter S. Robertson.

Artmobile To Be Dedicated

RICHMOND — A new $75,000 Artmobile, recently delivered to the Virginia Museum, will be dedicated at a public ceremony on Sixth Street Monday, September 12.

The ceremony will take place outside Miller and Rhoads Department Store, the donor of the 60-foot long traveling museum. One lane of Sixth Street will be closed to southbound traffic from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. to enable the mammoth truck to pass next to the store.

Webster S. Rhoads, Jr., Miller and Rhoads, President, will present the gift to Walter S. Robertson, president of the Museum. Horace H. Edwards, president of the Virginia Municipal League, will accept the vehicle on behalf of the cities to which the Artmobile will travel, and Mrs. E. Parker Brown, president of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs, will make a brief dedication speech.

Following the 15-minute ceremony, the museum-on-wheels will be opened to the public and will remain open until 9 p.m. On board will be "Treasures from the Gumpenheim Museum," a special exhibition of contemporary art.

Watch Out For Children

VA. BEACH — "Child safety in traffic is a three-way proposition", Reeves E. Johnson said today. Johnson, who is Chief of the Virginia Beach Safety Bureau, was speaking in connection with the child traffic safety program which the Safety Bureau is sponsoring this month in Virginia Beach in cooperation with the Governor's Highway Safety Committee.

"The safety of children on the streets and highways of our nation is dependent on the traffic attitudes and actions of three groups—parents, motorists and children themselves," he said. Schools are doing a fine job of teaching safety in the classrooms, from kindergarten on up, Johnson pointed out, and in many cases, also, are conducting driver education courses which give high school students practical experience behind the wheel.

"But if the program to save our children from injury and death in motor vehicle crashes is to be really effective, he said, "it must be carried beyond the classroom." Parents must set a good example to children in their traffic habits, Chief Johnson explained, and must use the authority and discipline of the home to instill the rules they have learned at home and in school, Johnson said.

Today Tomorrow Last Weigh-In Days

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation would again remind all Community League Football coaches that today September 8th and Friday, September 9th are the last two days that teams will be allowed to "weigh-in" prior to the beginning of the season.

Parents must set a good example to children in their traffic habits, Chief Johnson explained, and must use the authority and discipline of the home to instill the rules they have learned at home and in school, Johnson said.

KOKIE KIDNAPPER Frank Gorshin looks on as his more ominous cohort, Neville Brand, gives a few words of advice to Grayson Hall. This dire situation is the springboard of sustained hilarity in Walt Disney's suspense-comedy, "That Darn Cat," starring Hayley Mills, Dean Jones, Dorothy Provine and Roddy McDowall. Starts Wednesday at the Beach Theater.

new and finely-wrought designs. The continued popularity of fine 18 karat gold insures a "sunshiny" look. Elegant "expressionist" motifs in 18 karat gold pins, earrings and bracelets—all feather-light and airy—bathe this year's gold jewelry fashions in a glorious golden glow.

The most exciting innovation in gold jewelry this year, according to the Jewelry Industry Council, is "green gold". It's a new color in 14 karat gold, a very rich yellow-green and it adapts itself beautifully to all the finishes and textures women so love in karat gold—matt, brush, and Florentine as well as the new textures of lovely bark and mine. No one can complain that the 1966 gold jewelry lacks variety in either texture or design. It features plenty of both.

FASHION FLASH

"Clothing with a personal touch" is the slogan chosen by "Butch" Clark for his Clothing Chest and it couldn't be a better slogan. Mrs. Morgan Rucker loves the Highlight fashions and will be entertaining her house guests in an Oleg Cassini hostess and pants costume, long overblous and in colors to harmonize with the decor of her home!

SUNNY AND BRIGHT

Gold jewelry continues to be a big fashion favorite and the season outlook on gold jewelry is sunny and bright, with the new designs featuring an appearance of lightness. Detailed intricacy and third dimension make gold jewelry seem light in both weight and color. Textures and depth contribute high and low overtones of light, and the sparkle individually-set precious and semi-precious stones adds a bright airiness to WOOL KNIT, BUT OF COURSE! The important wool knit coat costume by Kimberly for Fall 1966 combines a slightly A-lined dress with a matching coat. Welt seaming detail in the dress collar and yoke is repeated in the coat front. The jaunty little tie-on collar is by Archie Eason.

By Alice Brewer White
Notes from the smart fashion brochure just received from the great Neiman-Marcus store in Dallas tell us that there are exciting new changes in the Fall-Winter fashion picture with a few ideas so good they're held over. Three encouraging ideas are first, that you're going to be pretty. Not tough chic, not off to the moon but pretty. Clothes are seen, not sold. Seams needed, not welded. Soft, feminine even strict tailoring remembers a woman will wear it. Secondly, the demands of The Total Look. The suit demanding certain shoe, demanding certain hose, demanding certain glove. The Total Look. The third thought is that the ageless age is here. Science, medicine, diet and dress all on a woman's side. Look young. Stay young. Your hemline? Well, it's up to you. The knee cap is a good leg line and again young. Not ridiculous and yours can be the most interesting legs in the world. Stockings can be fishnet, crocheted, see-through and textured. Matching a costume, a shoe head-on; picking up a dominant color. Shimmering by night!

Text and Photo by Cassandra VIRGINIA BEACH—The Virginia Beach Branch of the American Association of University Women entertained prospective members at a coffee held at the home of Mrs. Donald H. Rhodes, 621 Heron Point Circle last Saturday. She was assisted by Mrs. C. Bradley Arnett, Sr., Mrs. James G. Kellogg, Mrs. Joseph Sader, and Mrs. F. Ray Shield, Jr.

The lovely Rhodes home, situated among tall trees, a brick colonial, exuded peace and good family living, as the 30 or more girls chatted in groups about their various colleges, universities, native states, husbands, children, vocations and avocations.

As dainty party food was being served, we wandered into the paneled den and noted a vocation tribute of Anna's which reads "Anna Margaret Young Rhodes—Masters of Education from the University of Virginia".

Donald, a lawyer, was not present, but on the back lawn, the

The first meeting will be held Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Eastern Shore Chapel. Mrs. C. Bernard Brown is the program chairman for the year and she has secured a film on China for the meeting.

KIT LYNN PATTERNA of "Beau Monde"

First Model Agency Here

By Doris Padrick, Women's Editor "Beau Monde" means Beautiful World which is the name of the new model agency which has opened in the Stroud Building across from Princess Anne Plaza. The name was picked by its director, Mrs. Jo Ann Ingalls, who feels lovely ladies from 6 to 60 or more can add much to the world. "Beau Monde" is also a charm school where miss or madam may uncover her own personal beauty. Many hide their natural beauty beneath a self-conscious manner, a negative approach to their own worth, and ignorance of fashion. To those who wish to develop their "beautiful self", Mrs. Ingalls offers a variety of personal services.

"Beau Monde" has complete classes in self improvement and modeling for a professional career. And specific problems such as makeup, wardrobe, poise, figure control, hair styling, and social graces can be licked by Jo Ann's help. She will conduct classes or give private instruction for pretenses, teens, models, mothers, grandmothers, and even great-grandmothers. "A girl should act like and be a 'lady' at any age" believes this mother of seven who looks like a teen-ager! Rather than be called a charm school, she feels it falls more into the category of a fine finishing school.

"Beau Monde" is a dream come true for Mrs. Ingalls who was the former Jo Ann DiSandro of Norfolk. She is a graduate of Maury High school and is married to Ldr. F. G. Ingalls who is from New York and now stationed at CINCLANTFLT. Jo Ann is a graduate of The Models Guild Inc. of Washington, D. C. and had been a professional model for more than 10 years. She also taught modeling for about three years, and trained girl scouts and other ladies in leadership.

Tiny, slim and blonde Jo Ann is the mother of Rebecca, 19; Carol, 17; Joyce, 16; Fred, 14; Edward, 11; LeAnn, 4; and Kathy, 2. She is living proof that being a wife and mother is no excuse for not being beautiful. All it takes is know-how and determination. She can provide the know-how if you have the determination.

Any girl whether she is a hostess to a swanky dinner party or a waitress in a diner, or a door-to-door saleswoman, or a salesgirl in a department store, or a receptionist, or 'just a housewife' who wants her family to be proud of her, can be more successful with self-confidence. When you feel pretty, you are pretty. When you feel right, you are right.

Vows Exchanged

MRS. THOMAS FRANKLYN WHITE

WHITE—ETHERIDGE Bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Ann Johnson of Richmond, Miss Sara Malinda Womack of Virginia Beach, and Miss Marjorie Gayle Flora of Virginia Beach. Miss Laura Pool of Portsmouth served as mistress of ceremonies. Flower girl was Miss Karen Ann Moscovitz of Virginia Beach, and ring bearer was Master James Ellis, III.

Mr. James Ellis White, Sr. served as best man for his son. Ushers were James Ellis White, Jr., Michael Alan White, Glen Patterson Michael, Jr. of Baltimore, Maryland; and Daniel Harrel Phlegar of Harrisonburg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of white peau de soie and chantilly lace with chapel train. Her illusion veil fell from her headpiece of roses and petals with lace and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of white carnation and orchids.

Among the models who are tops in their profession and well-known throughout the Tidewater area who are now with "Beau Monde" are Bert Harper, Debbie Hogan, and Pat Gamage. A new model who has moved here from Florida where he had been very successful is Ruthie Hill. And Mrs. Ingalls has recently signed up two children models who have moved to Virginia Beach. They are sisters.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Development Of Our State Park

We strongly support the improvements to be made in State Seashore Park this winter, as they are stated on Page 1. The news that the State will spend $260,000 there to add a large number of new campsites, parking lots and boating facilities, and to renovate the housekeeping cabins is indeed welcome and comes none too soon.

During this summer many campers were turned away for lack of space, and still a record number of people made use of State Seashore Park, making it the most widely used park in Virginia. Further development can only meet the growing needs of our citizens and our tourist friends.

Probably the most welcome news however is that a master plan is about to be drawn for State Seashore Park and its future development. We do not feel that the large tract of land has been used to best advantage to this time and feel that a great deal can be done to make it a fine park comparable to none.

We agree also that the undisturbed nature of the park must be taken into consideration and we are hopeful that much of the park can remain as an oasis in the asphalt and concrete jungles of the present and future in Virginia Beach.

The master plan will take into consideration the closed public beach, which was shut down many years ago to avoid desegregation. This was a bad move when it was taken and the area should have been reopened as quickly as possible. It was not, and now no one is certain what to do because of the state of disrepair of the buildings and the traffic and parking problems the opening it would create.

We urge the State of Virginia and the architect of the proposed master plan to place the reopening of that bathing area of the Chesapeake Bay high on their agenda. It is the first time the matter has been discussed in many years, and it is high time something is done to right a very bad situation.

Development of a proposed new State Park in the Sandbridge area also sounds like a good idea at this time, especially with the influx of residents and tourists to our area. We hope that the State also draws a master plan for the best possible development of that park, should it be accepted and come into being.

Friday Night High School Football

This is a matter that needs much thought. We would like to hear your opinions.

The Beautification Commission

The Virginia Beach Beautification Commission has celebrated its first birthday with no fanfare, but its effect on our city has been marked. We invite our readers to take note of the Commission's accomplishments during its first year of operation. A story of those accomplishments appears in this edition.

Perhaps the accomplishments cannot be measured altogether in tangible ways, but we feel that the influence the Beautification Commission has had on most of our residents has been a job to behold.

In the years to come, the first-year efforts made by planting crepe myrtle trees in strategic locations will be seen far better, but already our own residents have seen the beauty of these trees, and others are beginning to appear in many different neighborhoods.

During the just ended summer season we heard an untold number of tourists compliment the beautiful flowers planted by the City in several locations. They left Virginia Beach knowing that the City fathers and the citizens are working hard to make this a beautiful as well as wonderful place to visit.

A large number of business establishments have also added shrubs and flowers, aiding the overall beauty of our city. The casual observer must be aware that efforts are being made all over the city of Virginia Beach toward making this a more beautiful place to visit or to live.

If these meager efforts during the first year are any example, the Beautification Commission will have a profound influence on the community in the years to come. We certainly hope so, since we want to see Virginia Beach the most beautiful city anywhere.

Now if something can just be done about the tremendous amount of littering, perhaps that would help. What about more littering arrests? Sounds like a good idea and an eye-opener to a civic problem.

Another Little-Enforced Law

There is a law on the books which generally states that trash and garbage cans can only be on the street from 7 A.M. to 7 P.M. on the day or days of refuse collection. This law is so blatantly ignored that it is probably useless to have it on the books at all.

Occasionally it is enforced in a given neighborhood for a short period of time, but then the law again falls into oblivion. Either the law needs to be revised or enforced, or ignored. We do not know which, but we know it should not be repealed. Every once in a while a notice is passed out to all residents of the city informing them of the law, but enforcement is another thing. An arrest in such a case is rare indeed.

We realize that our policemen are busy and shorthanded and that they have more things to do than look for stray garbage cans, but an enforcement campaign could be worked out in the best interests of our city and its good looks.

The Forthcoming Bond Issue

Virginia Beach City Council has given its tentative approval to a seven million-dollar bond issue and will call upon the courts to have the matter placed before the voters of the City of Virginia Beach in November on the General Election day. The bond issue is an ambitious one, and it is a good one worthy of a growing city.

Bond issues in the past in Virginia Beach have been mostly concerned with schools, more schools and still more schools. This was necessary because of the tremendous growth of our city and the great increase in population. This is still going on, but we are beginning to catch up, and this bond issue before us now includes a number of other worthwhile items. Schools still would get a third of the money, however.

Part of the school money would go toward funds being collected for two new secondary schools which will be necessary in a few years for all the present elementary students. Part will be for additions to existing schools and part for construction of a new and much needed third school in the Princess Anne Plaza area.

Nearly three million dollars is earmarked for necessary public buildings to house rapidly growing aspects of our municipal government. At this time many of the city governmental units are housed in cramped and ancient quarters unfit for adequate use and for the efficiency of the future.

Additional funds are sought in the bond issue for increased city highway construction and for new parks and recreational facilities. All of these projects are necessary and will mean much to the city in the future. We believe City Manager Hatchett has come up with high priority projects, well thought out, for this bond issue, and we urge everyone's support.

THE BEACH THIS WEEK

The city of Virginia Beach has begun a study for a master development plan for Sandbridge and the area just to the south of it. The work will be coordinated by Charles Kilby, director of Public Works, Planning Commission, Civil Defense, and Health. Additional information will be obtained from studies being made by the U. S. Department of Conservation, the Army Corps of Engineers, and a private firm hired by the city to make a five month canal study of the area surrounding Back Bay. The study is expected to be completed in a few months.

The American Meteorological Society held a three-day conference last week at the Cavalier Hotel. The AMS meeting was the first of its kind. Weathermen from across the nation gathered to discuss and confer about Marine (Oceanic) Meteorology last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. In the past marine Meteorology has been included with other phases of weather study at AMS conferences. The ocean sciences and the subject of weather control are new aspects of the Meteorologists' Motor Lodge.

A federal grand jury in Norfolk has indicted four men accused in the Aug. 10 robbery of the Pembroke branch of the First National Bank of Norfolk. In which armed bandits made off with $16,515. Neal and Miss Peggy Evans were beaten.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

Dear Sir:
I would like to thank Doris Partrick for her fine column on the subject of surfing in Virginia Beach.

Very early in the summer, when the North area of the beach was comparatively uncrowded (the water temperature being still a bit chilly for average swimmers), I saw my thirteen year old son arrested for surfing illegally in front of his own house. He had just taken up the sport only two weeks before and was out there at 3:30 p.m. on a week day, due to a misconception on both our parts as to the legal surfing hours at that end of the beach. We are newcomers here.

At the appointed time, we spent an unnecessarily long and tedious morning in court, after which my son was fined $10.00 plus $6.40 court costs. During our short session in the Judge's chambers, I was personally insulted by the officer who arrested my son. This gentleman must have been convinced that the best defense was a good offense; I realized later that he had expected me to complain to the Judge about his treatment of the arrest, since the four or five boys who were obedient enough to come out of the water when he blew the whistle had to be given tickets while they watched at least half dozen more surfers (older and wiser ones, I found out later) continue to surf right out in front of them, unimpeded by the law. However, I accepted the uncalled for and untrue remarks made by this officer about me and did not even try to defend myself, considering the source from whence this kind of slander originates. My only complaint to the Judge was that no Mother should be expected to explain satisfactorily to her son why he could not surf in front of his own house when every day he could see dozens doing just that and getting away with it. Should not, I asked him, the law be enforced consistently for all?

The Judge advised me to call the police at any future time when I saw surfers breaking the law in front of my home between the hours of 10:00 a.m. and 6:00 p.m. All summer long I have endeavored to do so, since his Honor reminded me that it was my duty as a citizen to report lawbreakers. Yesterday, Labor Day, when the water was packed with swimmers, young and old, I reported surfers, but when the policeman arrived a short time later, he merely lectured them for a minute, after which they picked up their boards and went away. Yes, they got off free, and we saw it all. Moreover, it was not the first time this had happened.

It is no wonder that so many adults and teenagers today have so little respect for the law?

Respectfully yours,

Ruth B. Sherman

The nationwide recognition of this Park would prove to be one of the greatest advertising values for Virginia Beach and the surrounding areas.

As a gateway to the deep South the economic impact of this Park would tremendously benefit Tide water, and areas far to the North and South of our locality.

Virginia Beach should, and would, become a prime stopover point for travelers and vacationers going either North or South.

Please be assured of our support in this matter.

Harry Thermides
President—Plantation Motel

Dear Mr. Lowenthal:
Let me thank you most heartily for the splendid editorial on Virginia Wesleyan College which appeared in the Virginia Beach Sun of Thursday, September 8. Your interest and support mean much to all of the members of our staff, I can assure you.

Very sincerely,
Lambuth M. Clarke,
President

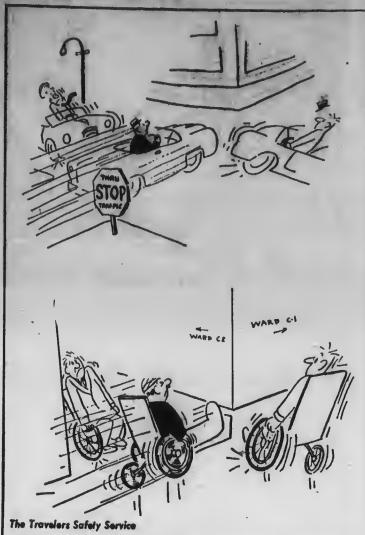

Dear Sir:
The Virginia Commission on Outdoor Recreation's recommendation for the expenditure of $1,000,000 to buy the land between the Back Bay Wildlife Refuge and the N. C. Line is the most far-reaching proposal yet to come from a state commission. It is a welcome relief to see our Outdoor Recreation Commission make a pitch for such an obvious solution of virgin seashore in the face of the proliferation of a "blocktop" heritage that we are so carelessly building for our sons and daughters to inherit. As land values steadily mount each year time is running out for us to acquire such large tracts of potentially useful recreational areas at any kind of price if we, the taxpayers, will be able to afford. Let us not delay, but use all our influence to make this wonderful proposal a reality. We may never get another chance, at least another chance we can never afford. Our children will have little respect for us as adults if they have no place to use as a getaway from the "asphalt jungles" we have been preparing for them.

The future value of this acquisition of land is immeasurable in the terms of economic benefit to all Virginia citizens, enhancement of Virginia's image as a "forward looking" state, cultural and recreational advantages to the millions of visitors to such a proposed park, and possibilities for the future realization of a physical connection to the North Carolina Outer Banks and points south all the way to Georgia and Florida.

The undersigned Innkeeper urges our Outdoor Recreation Commission and City Council to proceed posthaste with their proposed plans to acquire this land and to remember there have always been a few individuals who must be convinced to set aside their personal and private interests in order for the vast majority of the public to receive the bounty of our wonderful America.

Boating Schools

VIRGINIA BEACH — Two eight lesson Sea Boating Schools have been scheduled by the United States Coast Guard Auxiliary for the Peninsula Area.

A class will be held in NORFOLK at the YMCA on Butt Street and will start at 7:00 P.M. October 17th. In PORTSMOUTH the class will be held at the Coast Guard Base and will begin at 8:00 P.M., September 2nd.

You will receive instruction in the fundamentals of the following: various types of boats, nautical terminology, boat handling, knots and splices, marking aids to navigation, rules of the road, safe motorboat operation and legal requirements.

Todays boaters must, in his spare time learn the complexities of small boat handling that have been developed over the centuries. Professional sailors know that one of the hazards of inland navigation is the novice mariner. With boating becoming a family affair, the operator must learn his legal and moral responsibilities. He must know his abilities and the seaworthiness and limitations of his craft. Only mastering these, along with the use of common sense afloat, may he enjoy boating with pleasure and safety.

Hadley, superintendent of Colonial National Historical Park, Yorktown. He made the presentation on behalf of the two men who could not get away from Washington. The plaque was placed on the wall of the natural trail museum, located on the south side of Shore Drive.

Playgrounds Open

VIRGINIA BEACH — On September 12th, the ever expanding Ainterspace Playground program began its sixth year of operation. Mr. William Garrison, now in his 14th year as director of the program, states that this year should be the "best yet," mainly because of the addition of 5 more operating sites (for a total of 20) and because the turnover in playground personnel has been negligible.

The program is offered after school, Monday through Friday at Elementary school sites from 2:30 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. It consists of an outdoor program with only a few exceptions where gyms are available and, on inclement weather occurs the program closes down. Traditionally, team and individual sports and games are offered in competitive situations, normally utilizing those activities taught in the physical education classes during the week. However, those children not interested in the league activity will find other outlets that are not as organized. The program is geared to be administered to the elementary school age child.

Below appear the playground sites and their directors with the exception of W. T. Cooke and Malibu school where the playground directors have not been as yet named:

Western Riders Aid Hospital

Virginia Beach—The Tidewater Western Riders donated $400 to the Auxiliary to the General Hospital of Virginia — proceeds from the Virginia Beach Horse Show held at Aldo Farms, in conjunction with the Great Neck Stables. These funds will be used at the discretion of the Auxiliary, as special needs of the Hospital arise.

This gift brings together two of the most lively and upcoming groups in Virginia Beach.

The Tidewater Western Riders are now going into their fourth year. Founded to promote interest in Western horses and riding, they now have ninety members and, many of these are family memberships, about 140 people.

turn out for the monthly outings, which may be cook-outs, trail riding, all sorts of the activities of ranching in the summer.

Members learn to ride Western style, they have a chance to learn bareback riding, roping — even bulldogging. Naturally, the young sons of members come in droves,

H. Lynwood Morris.

The Auxiliary to the General

Hospital, in September, 1962, now has close to 400 members. Many of these are volunteers.

From May 1, 1965 to March 31, 1966, 250 volunteers, including 35

teen-agers, contributing 14,915 hours, working throughout the

The Auxiliary runs the Gift Shop, sponsors benefits, has a lively fund for Memorials and Special Gifts, has planned and developed the gardens and grounds, financed the landscaping, with the help of garden clubs of the area, even does such small and cheerful things as placing special favors on the patients' trays on holidays.

It's most recent gift to the Hospit was a badly needed Electrophoresis machine, which enables the laboratory to do very complicated analysis.

Bernard B. Balleman.

and an astonishing number of girls fancy themselves as Westerners, too. The headquarters for the outings is the Virginia Beach Recreation Center, at the old Nike site.

of
(Copyright, 1966 — Doris Padrick)

An intangible change comes over Virginia Beach in September which might be best described as being "a sigh of relief" . . . though residents welcome and want the out-of-town, out-of-state, and even out-of-country guests during the summer season, you must admit it is lots more peaceful when the exodus is made. Traffic lessons, parking spaces are more readily available, stores and restaurants are less crowded, isn't it nice!

With school starting its fall term, whether its for first graders or college seniors, the quiet which descends over the house is delightful to most mothers. (We know there are always a few who bemoan the emptiness when the children leave instead of enjoying the peaceful opportunity to relax . . . but they are in the minority.)

It is also a time for some rather abrupt growing up on the part of last June's high school graduates. It didn't hit them then, but those who still reside at home probably felt a strange and painful and totally unexpected nostalgia for their "good old school days" when the busses came and they could not get aboard. No matter whether they had been good students or not, whether they had enjoyed school or not, when the bus came and went without them, they knew school or not, longer be a part of that carefree crowd. That special period in their lives is over . . .

For those going on to college, it can never be the same either. A whole new world of excitement and bewilderment is opening to them. Though feeling prepared for the change and the challenge, they may find the new concept of life and living almost frightening when compared to what used to be . . .

High school graduates not going on to higher education must find employment. Some summer jobs disappeared at the end of the season; on the other hand, many positions which had been filled by the college students are now open. Many of the graduates were not 18 years old and had to lose the summer away; now they are coming of age and are looking for paying jobs.

For them and all other "unhappily unemployed" comes good news from the Virginia Employment Commission on 17th street. After a banner summer employment placement score of filling over 350 jobs during July, R. O. Rucks, manager of the local VEC, is happy to note that he has 77 positions at the moment just waiting for the right person to come along and be placed. There are jobs in the clerical to the managerial fields, laborers and skilled trades in construction, domestic and sales work, apprentices, technicians, and professionals—just about any type of work now has an opening for someone not now working (or who might like to change jobs!).

Skills learned in high school, both clerical and shop training, will help the proper person start out in the business, professional or industrial world. While better and higher education often means the better jobs, those who have learned even a beginning skill will find doors opening now. And the ambitious can use their basic skill toward greater potential.

After the good long "sigh of relief" comes the quickening of interest in the normal routine of living—kids are in school, households are back on schedule, jobs seem more interesting. The long summer of play is over; Virginia Beach belongs once more to the home-folks . . .

Gas Station Gets Award

VIRGINIA BEACH—A Certificate of Merit was presented by the Virginia Beach Beautification Commission and the Council of Garden Clubs to the new ESSO Service Station on Leckie Road and Birdneck operated by J. R. Strickland.

The award, the first this year presented by the two groups, was presented to Strickland and R. L. Bryant, Regional Director of Humble Oil Company by Mrs. Arthur Winder, a member of the Board of Directors of the Beautification Commission and Col. Joseph W. Viner, Executive Vice-President of the Commission.

The new service station was cited particularly for the planting of canna and other shrubs on the perimeter, all tending to beautify the property.

The Certificates of Merit are presented annually to Virginia Beach businesses which have made efforts to beautify their property. A survey is underway at present, and the 1966 awards will be made shortly, according to Mrs. Lawrence F. Tucker, who is a member of the Board of Directors of the Council of Garden Clubs and the Virginia Beach Beautification Commission.

The award which went to the new service station will be taken to a national meeting of Humble Oil Company, according to Bryant. It will be presented at the meeting.

Artmobile Coming

By Rita Vellines,
Bayside Correspondent

BAYSIDE—Mrs. J. F. Groome, immediate past president of the Bayside Junior Woman's Club and chairman of the Virginia Museum of Art—Artmobile visit to Virginia Beach, announces that after much letter writing and telephoning to Richmond—the Artmobile will be at Pembroke Mall Monday, September 19, through Thursday.

The Artmobile is loaded with Chinese Art from the Virginia Museum of Art in Richmond and tours the state on schedule, bringing the treasures of the museum to all the residents in the state. The museum has named this exhibit "Dragons and Dynasties."

Some of these dragons, cast on the sides of bronze sacrificial vessels, date 3,500 years into ancient Chinese history. This means they served symbolic purposes at least ten centuries before the birth of the Chinese philosopher Confucius.

Each of these vessels, like all the pieces of art in the display, is dated by the royal house which ruled China when it was made. That, explained a member of the Museum Staff, is how the exhibition received its name, for Chinese art is identified and listed by dynasties.

Jade ornaments, painted scrolls and bronze bell will be among the other objects on display.

The Artmobile will be housed inside of the Mall at Pembroke Shopping Center and the hours for visiting will be between 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the daytime and from 7:00 until 9:00 p.m. each evening. The Artmobile is free to school children and members of the Virginia Federation of Women's Clubs members. For all others there is a small 25¢ fee which is used to defray expenses.

The Bayside Juniors want to stress this fact—the visit of the Artmobile is no money making project. It is strictly for the benefit of the community. In addition to the Chinese art, the Norfolk "Renfro" will also be on display. Members of the Chesapeake Beach Woman's Club will act as NORFOLK—The appointment of LCDR Ronald M. Buffington, 32, of Emanence, Mo., to be the Officer in Charge, Buntington will conduct and supervise the three-month training classes for officer candidates selected each year. Upon satisfactory completion of the course, the candidates appointed in the ESSA commissioned corps, normally as ensigns. The classes are conducted in Norfolk, Va., at the Atlantic Marine Center of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, an ESSA agency.

During their careers, ESSA officers may serve in ESSA's various components, including the Environmental Data Service, Weather Bureau, Institutes for Environmental Research, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and National Environmental Satellite Center. They are assigned to offices, laboratories, observatories, and mobile field parties in all parts of the United States and abroad, on photogrammetric and research aircraft, and aboard hydrographic and oceanographic survey and research vessels.

Buffington was formerly Commanding Officer of the Savannah, Ga.-based USC & GSS PERICE, a 162-foot, 750-ton coastal survey ship with a normal complement of six officers and 30 crew. Since his appointment in the commissioned corps in August 1957, following receipt of his civil engineering degree from the University of Missouri, he has served aboard the USC & GSS SURVEYOR, as Executive Officer of the USC & GSS WHITING, and as Commanding Officer of the USC & GSS SCOTT.

His other assignments included service with an airport survey party, as instructor and C & GS Liaison Officer at the Naval Amphibious School, Little Creek, Va., and in the agency's Norfolk office.

A native of St. Louis, Mo., Buffington attended high school in Eminence, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin F. Buffington, reside. He is married to the former Claire Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Wilsons, of 202 West Price St., Athens, Ga.

VIRGINIA BEACH

only a major disaster will wake the conscience of the seemingly uninterested public towards the needs of other citizens. Neither anniversaries nor appeals gain much for the American Red Cross Bloodmobile.

Last Friday the Bloodmobile was observing its 17th anniversary of service to the community by setting up in the General Hospital of Virginia Beach to await for donors. They also received an appeal for A-positive blood for a seriously ill youngster undergoing surgery.

Twenty-seven pints of blood were collected, and of those, there were 10 of the original 100 who gave 17 years ago. They were Richard Tayloe Mumford, Sarah W. Tapich, and Jim L. Miller.

Five donors had the necessary A-positive blood, and they were Mrs. A. W. Baggett, Bernard Hobson, Miss Peggy Norfleet, Peter F. Dandridge, and Murford.

Other successful donors were Paul B. Maestas, Charles N. Neens, Bernard M. McMarn, Betty H. Coleman, Clinton O. Ayers, Mrs. Ruth S. Hickman, Mrs. Eva Lou Banney, Joe Hershberger, Mrs. Birds, M. Wylie, Michael Lockhart Clark, Mrs. Priscilla A. Otto, Richard D. Leah, Richard S. Davidson, Marshall H. Tallen, Cornelius D. Scully, Kenned Jard, Mrs. Louise Asworth, Wm. R. Payne, Richard R. Statewide Travel Conference To Be At Virginia Beach

VIRGINIA BEACH—Leaders of Virginia's travel fraternity will gather for the Annual Fall Travel Conference of the Virginia Travel Council at the Cavalier, on September 15 and 16, according to Jack C. Smith of Roanoke, president of the statewide travel organization.

At that time the industry will review the impact of the State's dynamic new program of travel advertising, made possible by this year's appropriation of a million dollar advertising fund. The Virginia Outdoors Plan, also passed by the legislature this year, will revolutionize recreational facilities within the state and is generally regarded by the travel industry as the most important contribution to future travel development in Virginia.

This year's program will begin on September 15 at 9:30 A.M. with the meeting of the Council's venerable Virginia Attraction Section, headed by chairman Fred W. Rawlinson of Newport News. A panel of nine speakers will address representatives of Virginia's scenic, historic and recreational structure. Featured speaker will be Mrs. William P. Low, Supervisor of H. H. Stinson Training, Colonial Williamsburg, who will address the group on the lively art of interpretation. Panel participants include Parke Rouse, Jr. of the Jamestown Festival Park, R. Garnett Hall of the Richmond Tour, Robert Lyle of the George C. Marshall Research Museum, Andrew D. Greenwell, Hampton, Mr. George Haynes of Haycox Photography; Edward J. Palmer of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel District; George F. Wright, Jr. of Colonial Williamsburg; Fred P. Brinkman of the Ocean Highway Association; Lawrence Vinberg of the Santa Maria Exhibit, and Albin Malles of Virginia Beach.

Alden Stevens, Field Director, Mobil Travel Guide, Bloomfield, New Jersey, will address the Council's membership at a 1:00 P.M. luncheon. Robert F. Nelson, Managing Director, will deliver the Annual Report to the Membership at that time.

Holt C. Makney of New Market will head a meeting of the "DISCOVER AMERICA" Committee, devised to plan ways and means to co-operate in the President's Virginia Beach Innkeepers Travel Award. Previous recipients of the Virginia Beach Innkeepers Travel Award have been Robert F. Nelson, Carlisle H. Hummel and former United States Senator Harry F. Byrd.

Brooks Named

VIRGINIA BEACH—Curtis T. Brooks, assistant executive manager of the Norfolk Chamber of Commerce, has been elected as one of the Virginia directors of the Ocean Highway Association.

The announcement was made by Jeremiah Volland, president of the non-profit association, whose headquarters are at Virginia Beach. The group was organized for the development and promotion of the north-south Ocean Highway, which connects the major cities of the state and beyond. Brooks' election follows that of James W. H. Smith, who was elected to the board in 1965. The two new directors will be joined by the three existing members: James W. H. Smith, James W. H. Smith, and James W. H. Smith.

A REVIEW

'Any Wednesday'

Any Wednesday by Muriel Reznick, Barksdale Theatre, Hampton, Virginia. Directed by Del Driver. Designed by David Kilgore with decor by Lyde Longaker. Cast includes David Kilgore, Trudi Mathes, Larry Armstrong and Blanche Robinowitz.

Barksdale Theatre delayed its opening of Any Wednesday for three nights until the fabulous production of the Peninsula Civic Theatre's West Side Story was over. This was a wise move, since the little theatre group turned out such a magnificent and finished production. The theatregoers were treated to the smash hit comedy, Any Wednesday, delightfully done by Barksdale.

The study revolves around an aging business tycoon who maintains an "executive suite" where his mistress lives. It is an entirely satisfactory arrangement until his new secretary, not knowing what the "executive suite" (tax-deductible, of course) was used for, sent a client there and also the tycoon's wife. This new twist greatly disturbs the tycoon and his mistress in their every Wednesday tryst. It also greatly disturbs his marriage and the future of all four characters in the play.

The situation comedy is hilariously funny and not at all contrived, as are many plays of this ilk. Director Del Driver moves his cast well through a fast-paced show with a hand.

David Kilgore underplays the middle-aged millionaire fairly well, coming up with a stuffy, Cary Grant style that tends to be monotonous. The millionaire never gets betrothed, even in the midst of being caught and exposed, and Trudi Mathes carries this off well.

Trudi Mathes, as the "just turned thirty" mistress, does a nice technical job and looks good in the role. Her facial expressions are excellent and her nice voice contributes to her success in the role, even if her accent is a bit too noticeable for an "apple pie" American girl. Her interpretation of the intelligent, but scatterbrained and "way out" girl is somewhat confusing, but the inconsistency does not detract terribly from her performance.

Real laurels go to Larry Armstrong, as the young and headstrong client who comes into the "executive suite" and into the girl's life. Armstrong, a newcomer to the stage, turns in a fine performance and is most convincing in every way. His reactions and facial expressions add greatly to his performance and to the entire production.

Blanche Robinowitz, as the wife, is vivacious and bitter-sweet, as she should be, and it is her comedy timing which holds much of the action together.

On opening night, the cast was troubled with many technical gaffes, but the overall production was noteworthy and totally acceptable. H.J.L.

NORFOLK—The Cinema at Janaf Shopping Center has opened with the presentation of "Dear John", a film with a definite adult theme. However, Howard Spiess, general manager of Cinema Corporation, and Allan Teicher, manager of Cinema at Janaf, both emphasize that Tidewater's newest theatre is planned to be a family theatre with entertainment for all age groups and for all interests.

"Adult only" films will be shown from time to time, but the majority of presentations will be of the type to be enjoyed by the entire family.

A REVIEW

'Never Too Late'

Never Too Late by Sumner Arthur Long, Cavalier Dinner Playhouse, Norfolk, Virginia, through October 9. Directed by Timothy L. Jones.

Costumes by Diane Liederman. Sound and Lights by Marge Quinn.

Cast includes Raymond Quinn, Jane Garrison, Elizabeth Kaye, Matthew Chait, Jean Coffey, Joe Brenner and Danny Gunn.

Never Too Late is a very funny comedy about a significant event which changes the lives of every cast member. Harry and Edith Lancaster, parents of a grown and married daughter, find themselves about to become parents again, after twenty-two years. The effect of the pregnancy on everyone is hilariously funny.

Director Jones has created a smooth production that ranks as a "must see" for theatregoers.

Much of the credit for the excellent production goes to two people, Raymond Quinn and Matthew Chait. Quinn plays Harry and Chait plays his son-in-law, Charlie.

Quinn portrays the penny-pinching, blustering lumber yard owner to perfection. His very funny confusion upon finding himself about to become a father again is nothing short of great. The event disturbs his secure and successful life tremendously and Quinn lets us know it. His facial expressions and antics in the drunk scene with his son-in-law, is worth the price of admission.

Chait portrays the intelligent but greatly overshadowed son-in-law. Charlie works for Harry, but with him, and lives under the same roof. His life is made miserable when his wife must take over when his wife must take over when the household chores due to the forthcoming event. Chait's double takes and elastic facial expressions coupled with his excellent sense of timing bring about a first rate performance, especially in the aforementioned drunk scene.

Charlie's wife, who had never "lifted a finger" before her mother becomes pregnant, is ably played by newcomer Elizabeth Kaye. Her transformation from the flighty young wife to the kitchen drudge to the squire (il demanding) wife is most pleasant to watch.

Jane Garrison, who plays Edith, turns in a nice performance, but her use of one regular voice pattern is slightly disturbing, and almost becomes annoying. It probably would if she did not interpret her role as the mother-to-be so nicely. She carries off well the characterization of a wife tired of being a kitchen slave and "breaking out". She reveals nicely her new position of getting attention.

Danny Gunn, as the Mayor who lives next door, is very funny in his every scene and is an audience favorite. Joe Brenner is most convincing as the policeman.

The current bill of fare at Cavalier Dinner Playhouse is a pleasant little comedy, and one which certainly makes the audience "feel good inside" when it is over. H.J.L.

Perry Named 'March' Head

RICHMOND—John G. Perry of Virginia Beach, has been named Virginia Beach Campaign Director for the 1967 March of Dimes, it was announced recently by Louis B. Arnow, Virginia Volunteer State Chairman for the National Foundation—March of Dimes.

Perry will lead in the organization and direction of volunteers throughout the Virginia Beach area in the traditional January campaign to raise funds to fight birth defects.

"This is a fight everyone must join," Perry said. "Birth defects are the nation's second greatest destroyer of life. Every year we lose half a million unborn babies as well as 60,000 infants, children and adults because of birth defects."

Perry is Area Sales Manager for the Hunter Publishing Company. A native of Asheville, North Carolina, he was graduated from the University of North Carolina. Perry is a member of the Virginia Beach Chapter of the National Foundation—March of Dimes and served as Campaign Director last year. He is State Director for the Virginia Beach Junior Chamber of Commerce. He is married to the former Joan Shearouse of Orlando, Florida, and they have one son, age ten months. The Perry's reside at 613 Surfside Avenue.

Perry spoke of the work of the March of Dimes Birth Defects Treatment Center at the University of Virginia Hospital in Charlottesville as "a reflection of what can be done. But you need only to talk to the medical staff to recognize that we are actually scarcely scratching the surface of the problem."

"In our state alone, each year there are an estimated 5,800 new birth defects babies. Throughout the nation, more than 250,000 birth defect children are born each year."

Costuming Her Gift To Little Theatre

By Doris Padrick, Women's Editor
Skill with a needle and a love of the theatre make Peggy MacArthur one of the most valuable members of the Virginia Beach Little Theatre. For its upcoming production of "Brigadoon", Peggy has been invaluable. She is the only true Scot in the entire company for she was born in Edinburgh, Scotland.

Not only has she put in hours of research to make the costumes authentic reproductions of that era but her first hand knowledge of Scottish customs, proper pronunciation of the lilting Scottish brogue, and historical background has contributed much to the technical aspects of the well-known musical.

Her bright auburn hair with ardent eyes to match set off her creamy complexion and make her an attractive picture of what everyone thinks a Scottish lassie should look like. That's why her American serviceman husband couldn't resist her when they met many years ago in Turkey where she was working as a civilian in the American Mission.

John L. MacArthur made her his bride and brought her to America. Now retired from the Navy, they have lived in the Tidewater area for eight years and make a home for their son, Gordon, on Rudee blvd.

All three MacArthurs share interest in theatre work and have had roles in the various presentations. Gordon, a sixth grader at W. T. Cooke school, was in "Stop The World" as was his mother. Peggy has also appeared in "Life With Father", "Sound of Music", "The Inspector Calls", "Showboat", "Rudigore", to name a few. In "Brigadoon" she is a member of the chorus and is the mother of the bridegroom, while Jim plays the father of the bride.

The secret of Peggy's talented needle came to light when she volunteered and made 15 choir robes for the Junior Choir at Eastern Shore Chapel. She loves to sew and design. "It is my pleasure", she trills with a wide smile showing her dimple. However, she refuses to sew for money. She studied tailoring and design and is a professional and could very easily use her talents for profit. "That would take the joy out of it" according to Peggy. So she sews only for the theatre.

Sewing for the theatre is a full time job which she joyfully tackles every day. Getting the costumes ready for "Brigadoon" was a monumental undertaking as the cast is large and her sense of responsibility toward making them as nearly perfect and authentic as possible filled her hours. She takes pride in making everything

A New Face and/or A New Business

By Doris Padrick, Women's Editor

Most ladies put on makeup before going to a party. Now there are special parties held for the expressed purpose of having cosmetics applied correctly from a trained beauty consultant.

The home party plan which has been so successful in bringing household products to the attention of the homemaker is also believed to be the ideal method of introducing this new line of fine cosmetics. And there is beauty in the magic number—"Fashion Two Twenty"...

Fashion Two Twenty's home office is in Aurora, Ohio, and though organized less than five years ago, it is now an international set-up with distributors in almost every state and Canada.

The newest franchised dealership to be established is in Virginia Beach and owned by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Nissen who are familiar with the area and have many friends throughout Tidewater.

Charles W. Nissen III lived in Norfolk since 1941 after coming from Georgetown, S.C., and he graduated from Norview High school in 1953. Mrs. Nissen is the former Shirley Leland who lived in East Fairmont Park all her life and also went to Norview High. They were married March 16, 1958 and now have four children.

working out of the Norfolk office but are now ready to serve Virginia Beach in association with the Nissens. They are Jean Lipscomb at 340-6770; Joan Pursell, 340-5780; and Jo Anne Clark, 340-3384.

Beauty fashion shows are held in the home with a limited guest list of from three to six people so that each guest may be given the personal attention she deserves. The hostess is generally selected as the demonstration subject while each guest applies the cosmetics to herself in order to learn the correct methods. The Hostess receives exceptional hostess gifts; guests also receive gifts as well as learning how to make themselves more attractive. Everyone has a good time.

If you find the products fascinating and the idea of having your own business intriguing, you could be stepping off to a new career which offers the chance to meet new people, build a substantial bank account, and go to parties all the time!

Though a new approach to skin care, Fashion Two Twenty has received the Good Housekeeping Seal of Approval and advertisements for the products and to introduce the idea of becoming beauty consultants are in all leading fashion magazines.

ion hepatitis, she should naturally tell her doctor immediately. She should also be cautioned against taking any drugs unless prescribed by her doctor.

In addition to prenatal course and regular visits to her physician, the young mother-to-be will want to prepare for her baby's arrival by having all the necessary equipment, such as baby clothing, diapers, a bed and a place where she can bathe and change the baby.

Once the baby arrives, the young mother should make every effort to make things as easy as possible for herself. Two of the more time consuming tasks she will have with the new baby can be simplified a great deal.

The teen-age mother who plans to feed her baby by bottle no longer needs to mix and measure to make each daily bath of formula, sterilize the bottles or heat each one before baby's meal. With the new pre-mixed, jell-sterilized formula in glass bottles, all she has to do is twist off the cap and add a standup nipple and nipple collar.
The unit needs no refrigeration and, therefore, no warming before feeding. It's certainly the most convenient method of feeding baby, and there's no worry about safety, it's impossible to mix incorrect amounts of ingredients.

The other major job, baby's laundry, needn't be a major time and energy consumer, either. A reliable diaper service will be able to take care of the bulk of the laundry, and an automatic washer and dryer will soon have baby's other clothes and bedding clean and fresh. Most of the items a very young infant wears can be smoothed and folded right out of the dryer—without any ironing.

Some of the other problems a teen-age mother is likely to have are social or emotional problems, rather than physical ones. Grandparents, no matter how helpful, may be puzzled at the changes in baby care methods since they had their own infants, and may appear to be interfering. Such instances are best handled by tact and understanding on the part of the young mother, with continued reliance on her own doctor's instructions when in doubt.

The feeling of being "jailed" by the young baby can be a problem also—for both parents. No matter how adopted they are to the child, they would be wise to ask the grandparents or another reliable person to babysit occasionally so they can go out for an evening together.
With proper instructions to the sitter, and a phone call or two to keep in touch, they can be assured that all is going well at home.

The young couple will soon find that the new baby is not as great a problem as anticipated, and that they are capable of growing a great deal themselves to meet the baby's needs.

Bringing Up Mother

It's a very short step from the carefree life of a high school student to tremendous responsibility of parenthood, as many teen-agers are discovering today. Today, more American girls marry at 18 than any other age and at 19 many have become mothers.

In addition to the problems that all new mothers face, teen brides often have some special problems of adjustment of their own. The first pregnancy brings a very definite end to the mobile life that youth permits. But many young wives and husbands must make the adjustment, for one-third of the first born children today are born to girls under the age of 20.

The young mother may feel more than usually anxious about the demands a new baby will make. Before he arrives, she may have doubts as to her ability to take care of him adequately. She may be uncertain how to feed him, and frightened at the prospect of giving him his first bath.

She knows that she will no longer be free to come and go at a moment's notice and that the social life she has with her husband may be more limited after the arrival of the baby. At some time during pregnancy, she will probably resent the bulkiness of her figure and the fatigue and seemingly clumsiness it brings.
And although she may have delightful daydreams about the new baby, at the same time she knows that he will most certainly strain the family budget.

It's important to remember, however, that many of these feelings are normally felt by mothers at sometime or another—no matter what their age. With the help of the baby's doctor, most teen-age mothers take very good care of their babies' health, although the prospect of such a responsibility may seem enormous to them at first.

Both the young husband and wife may find parental courses or conferences helpful in providing them with "how to do it" information on baby care and added confidence in their own abilities. Such courses, often held in the evening, cover simple subjects from bathing, diapering and feeding the infant to medical aspects of parental care, including ways to reduce the possibility of premature labor. Local hospitals or service organizations often sponsor such courses.

This advice—in addition to that which she gets from her own physician—should be taken quite seriously by the teen-age wife, because premature infants, or those of low birth weights, are more frequently born to teenagers than to older women. These early births frequently can be prevented with proper care. Although many of these premature babies grow to be healthy with special care and incubator treatment, mortality rates are high and congenital defects are more commonly found.

If a young mother is not yet immune to polio and influenza, her doctor may immunize her early in the pregnancy to protect the unborn child. If a mother-to-be does contract either of these diseases,
German measles or infect-

Two Receive Bronze Stars

LITTLE CREEK — Two Bronze Stars, our nation's eighth highest decoration for heroism, will be presented to two Naval Amphibious School staff members in ceremonies at the school this afternoon.

Boatswain's Mate Second Class Floyd F. Johnson, from Richmond, Va., will receive the Bronze Star "for meritorious service" while serving as an enlisted advisor to Vietnamese Coastal Groups 30 and 31 from June 3, 1965 to April 26, 1966. During that time he made numerous counter-infiltration patrols along the coast and rivers of Vietnam with his Vietnamese counterparts.

Corporal John R. Drea, a U. S. Marine with less than two and a half years of service, will receive the Bronze Star for "heroic achievement" with operations against insurgent communist forces while serving with Company F, Second Battalion, Ninth Marines in the Republic of Vietnam.

During a search and destroy operation in the vicinity of La Tho Bay on March 18, 1966 Corporal Drea's unit received intensive small arms, automatic weapons and mortar fire from an estimated battalion of Viet Cong. The machine gun team leader exposed himself to fire in order to select targets and to direct the fire of his gun. Noting that two of the platoon's squad leaders had been wounded, he ran two hundred meters through enemy fire to get reinforcements and report on the platoon's situation.

Other plays planned for the season are "Becket," drama by Jean Anouilh, Sept. 2-11; "La Ronde," comedy by Arthur Schnitzler, Jan. 27-Feb. 5; "Three Sisters," drama by Anton Chekhov, March 31-April 9; and "An, Wilderness," comedy by Eugene O'Neill, May 5-14.

In addition to its regular maintenance productions, the Norfolk Little Theatre will continue the work of its Experimental Wing, which plans performances for November, February and April. Other activities which will continue, all supported by the season ticket campaign proceeds, are the Chamber Opera Theatre, Instant Theatre, Playwrighting Contest and Dance Workshop.

The theatre box office will be open every afternoon to take season ticket reservations. Prices are $10.50 for a regular season ticket, with special price of $5.50 for students and enlisted service personnel.

Amphibious Exercise Begins

LITTLE CREEK — A two-phased amphibious exercise involving 12 Norfolk-based ships, two Marine battalions from Camp Lejeune, N. C., and a submarine from Charleston, S. C., began Monday.

The operation, MEDEX 1-66, consists of a submarine-supported convoy transit along the East Coast and an amphibious landing on September 19 at Vieques Island off Puerto Rico in the Caribbean. Rear Admiral William P. Mack, Commander Amphibious Group

Two and task force commander for MEDEX 1-66, left Norfolk today (Sept. 12) aboard his exercise flagship, the amphibious command ship USS Pocono (AGC 16). Other Naval commanders include Captain J. H. Rood, Commander Amphibious Squadron Ten, and Captain R. S. Selzer, Commander Amphibious Squadron Four.

Major General N. J. Anderson, Commanding General, Second Marine Aircraft Wing, will direct the Marine Expeditionary Brigade taking part in the exercise. Its units include Battalion Landing Team 3/2, commanded by Lieutenant Colonel R. L. Michael. Other Marine units will include Marine Helicopter Squadron 365 and 234, Regimental Landing Team 2, and Provisional Marine Air Group 40.

When the one-day amphibious assault on Vieques ends, Amphibious Squadron 10 with BLT 3/2 and HMM 365 will relieve Amphibious Squadron Four with BLT 3/6 and HMM 264 as the Caribbean Amphibious Task Force. The relieved forces will return to Norfolk, Va., and Camp Lejeune and Cherry Point, N. C.

Five ships of Amphibious Squadron 10, which will remain in the Caribbean for about three months, left Sept. 12. They are Captain Rood's flagship, the amphibious assault ship USS Boxer (LPH 4), the attack cargo ship USS Rankin (AKA 103), dock landing ship USS Plymouth Rock (LSD 29), tank landing ship USS Suffolk County (LST 1173), and the high speed amphibious transport USS Wachukin (APD 89).

Other Atlantic Fleet Amphibious Force commands sending units on the exercise include Tactical Air Control Squadrons 21 and 22, Assault Craft Unit Two, Amphibious Construction Battalion Two, Beach Juniper Unit Two, and Underwater Demolition Team 22.

Two other Norfolk-based ships also are deploying. They are the guided missile frigate USS Dahlgren (DLG 12) and the guided missile destroyer USS R. E. Byrd (DDG 23).

The submarine USS Amherst (SS-522), based at Charleston, S. C., also will take part in MEDEX 1-66.

Amphibious ships already in the Caribbean that will join in the exercise are the amphibious assault ship USS Okinawa (LPH 6)—with Commander Amphibious Squadron Four embarked, the attack cargo ship USS Mulholland (AKA 61), dock landing ship USS Fort Moultrie (LSD 21), and the tank landing ships USS Lorain County (LST 1177) and USS Wauhikukum County.

Virginia Beach Beautification Comm. Lists Accomplishments

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Beautification Commission, incorporated on May 18, 1965, has recently listed its accomplishments and thanked its members, businessmen and all residents of Virginia Beach for co-operation and encouragement.

strip on 29th Street. The Commission had excellent co-operation from City officials, according to Ruffin, as well as from City Council and individual garden and civic organizations.

A prime example was pointed out in the case of City Manager W. Russell Hatchett. Red and white petunias and red geraniums were planted at the junction of Atlantic and Pacific Avenues, at the south end of Atlantic Avenue, at City Hall and at the Courthouse.

Three plantings were designed and carried out under the direction of Mr. Hatchett," said Ruffin. "He also provided constant maintenance care during the difficult periods of heat and drought to keep the flowers in perfect condition."

Another community effort was the suggestion of the Commission that dwarf canna could be an ideal flower for the summer season. The City planted the canna in the Triangles near the entrances of the Cavalier and a number of businesses planted them along Shore Drive and Laskin Road.

The Commission also influenced a large number of business establishments, including several service stations, to initiate landscaping projects. Landscape projects using trees were carried out also.

Evergreens were planted on both sides of 32nd Street between the Post Office and Pacific Avenue to demonstrate how a modest outlay could beautify without sacrificing utility of area. Evergreens and shrubs were planted on the median

Mrs. Tucker is also chairman of the Anti-Litter committee of the Commission. She said that garden clubs had taken the lead in the campaign against litter with a poster and essay contest, and that the committee had been instrumental in getting the fine set at $5 for littering. A few arrests were made and convictions gained however Mrs. Tucker believes not enough arrests were made.

Investigation Into Murder Is Continuing

VIRGINIA BEACH — Intensive investigation was continuing Wednesday into the murder of Mrs. Sylvia I. Babcock, 59, found dead at her Sandiewood Road home last Friday morning.

A team of Virginia Beach detectives, headed by Lt. William Davis continued around the clock investigation since her body was discovered Friday morning, when she failed to open her Duck Sda Snack Bar at Long Creek.

Over the weekend, police interviewed "well over a hundred people" in the general area of Mrs. Babcock's home.

Detective Sgt. C. W. Simmons said that robbery had not been ruled out as the criminal's motive in entering the house in the first place. Mrs. Babcock died of

Virginia Wesleyan Opens In Virginia Beach And Norfolk

VIRGINIA BEACH — Norfolk Councilman Sam T. Barfield stood to read a letter from Norfolk Mayor Roy Martin concerning the formal opening day ceremonies of Virginia Wesleyan College. He read the first line, which included the college's address as Norfolk, Virginia.

There he stopped and said, "My friend, Mayor Dusch just said Virginia Beach, Virginia" in his resolution."

A good laugh emitted from the distinguished guests assembled in the dining hall for the ceremony, then Barfield finished reading the resolution.

Actually, Virginia Beach Mayor Frank Dusch did list the address of the new college as Virginia Beach. And he is just as right as Mayor Martin. The new school straddles the Norfolk - Virginia Beach city limits. Part of the new complex is in Virginia Beach and part is in Norfolk.

About 4,300 persons toured the first phase buildings of Virginia Wesleyan Sunday afternoon. Faculty members, trustees and students guided the tours.

In the opening ceremony, President Lambuth M. Clarke said the new educational institution will become "a vital part of the communities of Virginia Beach and Norfolk."

The freshman class is composed of 72 students. Eventually the student body is expected to number 1,300 in several "academic villages" patterned after the Jeffersonian concept of small groups living, studying and working together. The concept was used on the original grounds of the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

One of the members of the first freshman class is named Sandy Beach. But he is from Pennsylvania. It was not determined whether his dormitory is located in the Norfolk or Virginia Beach side of VW.

"I hope he lives on the Virginia Beach side," one observer quipped.

C&P Employment Hits New High

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia has a new high in employment this year. Currently, more than 12,200 men and women are on the payroll of the C&P. With this number of employees the telephone company ranks among the top three industrial "buyers" in the Commonwealth. Since January 1, the C&P has added some 900 employees. This year has seen C&P add more people to its organization than any other year since 1951 when 1,200 employees were added in twelve months.

According to the local manager, L. F. Patrick of C&P, women account for about 55 per cent and men 45 per cent of total number of employees.

Manager Patrick also stated that since 1951 the C&P has added more than 5,500 persons to its payroll.

The Dickerson Construction Co., Inc., is also 40 per cent complete for 35 per cent of the time. During A-944 they did $294,000 worth of work.

The second section of the road, under contract to two firms, Ames & Webb and Higgeson & Buchanan, is about 38 per cent completed for 55 per cent of the time. The two companies did $307,000 worth of work during the month of August.

E. H. Orange, district head of all toll facilities said Monday that the three construction projects along the route are moving ahead of schedule.

E. V. Williams Const. Co., who has the contract for the first section of roadway, did $153,000 worth of work in August as of the end of August the firm had completed 40 per cent of the work for 35 per cent of the time.

ALLEGED BANK ROBBER NABBED

Beach Policeman Shot At In High-Speed Boulevard Chase

VIRGINIA BEACH — Police

Patrolman Ernest E. Marrow assigned to Traffic out of Virginia Beach's Second Precinct was driving west on Virginia Beach Boulevard between Chinese Corner and Davis Corner when the call came in from the police dispatcher that the Davis Corner Branch of the Southern Bank just inside the Norfolk city limits, had just been robbed.

"I sped up a little and got to the sight of the bank at Davis Corner in a few seconds. There was a crowd gathered there. Rather than go to the bank I stopped to talk to them," said Marrow.

"About that time a red pickup truck driven by a man later identified as Melvin Boush began chasing a blue station wagon to and Norfolk on Virginia Beach Boulevard.

Persons in the crowd told Marrow that they had seen a short, stocky Negro running and firing a shot at a bystander who attempted to chase him, then jump into the back seat of the car holding a pistol to the head of the driver. It was later determined that the suspect, Earl William Batten, 24, allegedly commanded the car of William Peru Guy, 33, and forced him to drive toward Norfolk.

Marrow began chasing the station wagon, which he could see dodging in and out of traffic. He passed the pickup truck and fell in about a car length behind the station wagon.

"I never took my eyes off that car," he said. "I was watching that fellow in the back seat. I was told later that a Norfolk police car followed me at about Smith-Douglas, but I never saw him."

Marrow radioed the information in to his headquarters, and it was relayed to Norfolk Police. Apparently there was some mixup because at the first roadblock, Norfolk Police began shooting at the car. After it had run several roadblocks, the driver of the car crashed into a truck.

Guy was the only person injured, but his car was badly damaged both by the crash and by the barrage of bullet that struck the car.

Patrolman Marrow stayed in the six-mile, high-speed chase to the end and rushed up to the suspect, handcuffing him while he was held at bay by Norfolk Police.

During the course of the chase,

The change of venue was sought because publicity in the press and on radio and television would prevent a fair trial, according to the court-appointed attorney. No rulings were made on the motions.

Name Change

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation would like to inform all the citizens of the City that a "name change" affecting the Department has occurred.

The 4000 Nike Site Road address has been changed to 4433 Recreation Drive.

Within a week or two, the Athletics, Activities and Physical Education administrative offices will be relocated at 4700 Recreation Drive. The Maintenance Division of the Department will remain at the 4433 address.

We hope that this change will not be of any inconvenience to the public. With our remodeled administrative offices we will be better able to serve you.

Crosswhite added that Downing had been most influential in having the second one in the nation built in Virginia Beach.

Brizzi also addressed the audience. He said, "The Post Office Department is a service agency, and that's what we are here for."

The new drive-up unit is expected to do about $100,000 business annually.

The ribbon cutting ceremony was accomplished by Congressman Downing and Mrs. Gerald O. Verdon of Virginia Beach. Mrs. Verdon was chosen by Crosswhite to mail the first letter from the new post office to her son, SP4 William T. (Bilby) Verdon, serving in Viet Nam.

Crosswhite had asked Mrs. Verdon to assist in the ceremony after reading an article about her son in the Virginia Beach Sun, and that was included in the letter Mrs. and Mrs. Verdon mailed to Viet Nam. The clippings from the Virginia Beach Sun, of course, a post office employee was on hand to open the mail box take out the letter and speed it on its way.

The bank robbery came on the same day that attorneys for two men charged with robbing the Pembroke Branch of First National Bank in Virginia Beach sought to have the men tried elsewhere than Norfolk. Two others charged in the August 10 robbery did not seek a change of venue.

Harmony Is Still On Key

VIRGINIA BEACH — The announcement of committee chairmen and committee members appointed last week by R. R. McChesney and John Fontress, co-chairmen of the Virginia Beach Democratic Campaign Committee for this fall's election showed apparent attempts at harmony.

Members of the various committees were from once-opposing factions of the Democratic Party in Virginia Beach. Names appeared from the supporters of the unsuccessful candidacy of Armstrong Boothe and A. Willis Robert.

The Wigs The Thing

By DORIS PADDOCK

Women's Editor

To wig, or not to wig doesn't seem to be the question for today's modern woman. Now, it is only a matter of 'when' and then 'how'.

According to Kitty Rose, wig consultant at Seal's Pembroke store, more than $3,000 worth of wigs have been sold in less than 2 months! Since so many women are on the go and in the public eye-day and night, having a cash-tangle hair-do is a must. The wig is the only logical answer.

The wigs at Kitty's shop, which is in the cosmetic division, are all 100 percent human hair and carry a popular price tag for the quality. Machine-tied wigs carry a slightly less price tag than the hand-tied, and Eurasian hair

(which is coarser) is somewhat less expensive than the fine-textured European hair. Kitty has wigs on display ready to go on mid-lady's head immediately if Kitty thinks the wig suits the customer.

However, as the wig consultant and taking pride in having the proper wig fit both the personality and coloring of her customers, she may select an entirely different style from which the customer thought she wanted.

"Of course, I will sell a wig if a customer is adamant about wanting a particular style and shade, but if I feel it is wrong for her I will try to influence her towards something I am sure will make her happy." Kitty wants all her customers to have the right wig for the right occasion. She knows a satisfied wig-wearer will always come back when she wants to add to her wig-wardrobe. Many of her clients have purchased as many as three wigs—all in different shades and with various hairdos.

Kitty is a trained cosmetician, and she got into the business of wigs by accident. She said she was in California and applied for a job at the Seal's beauty parlor in Long Beach. There was an opening in the wig department so she decided to study that new phase.

She found she liked it and has been with wigs ever since. Kitty is originally from Florida but has now settled down in Tidewater to make it her home and to be at the half-way mark between her daughter who lives in New Jersey and her son who is in the service in South Carolina.

Working girls were one of the first to purchase the wigs. For convenience sake, because she doesn't have time for repeat visits to the beauty parlor, she will select a wig to match her natural hair and she has it set in her usual hair style. Then "only her wig consultant knows for sure when she is wearing a wig!"

After its convenience is realized, a wig no longer fits the luxury category. Customers come back and order another wig of the more glamour type for special occasions and more than likely in a different color than her natural shade.

Silver and auburn are the most popular changes for the brunettes while natural blondes often choose a dark wig for their natural change of pace.

Wigs of human hair can be treated the same way as the hair growing out of a head, they may be shampooed, combed, rolled, teased, and styled by anyone who has the knack of fixing her own hair. But it is best to send it to the wig consultant for a professional job of styling and setting when she doesn't know how to set her own hair. Kitty said. And she also cautions against cutting the hair on the wig—"It will not grow back if you do!"

Kitty invites all women who have been thinking about owning a wig to visit her at the Pembroke Sears store. It doesn't cost anything to look. Many are surprised how much a wig can do for a woman's looks and personality. "The right wig in the right shade with the proper style will take years off a woman's face," of moments.

She is also interested in introducing women to the convenience and glamour of owning a wig by presenting wig fashion shows.

There's so much talent in Virginia Beach that this reporter rarely goes to nearby Norfolk nor to New York for theatrical enjoyment, and when Elks Chorus rocker and Frank Ferrigno invited us to come to the benefit, "Fun-ny's Cavalcade of American Music from 1900 to 1935", held in their attractive Lodge in the Jefferson Hotel ballroom last Saturday and Sunday, we were delighted.

At this time the new Virginia Beach Concert Orchestra, organized by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ferrigno and Mr. and Mrs. William T. Robinson, made its debut. Members of the orchestra are Willard T. Robinson, Sr. and Jr., John F. Garrow, John Martin, Charlie Perino, Maurice Shemper, Henry Partin, Stuart Edwards, Odr. Clarence Derriksen and Olga Ferrigno. This orchestra is a vigorous group of musicians; they have a "good thing going."

"Showcase", written and directed by Sally Suter with Olga Ferrigno as accompanist, was the planned entertainment for the Deputy Clinic District Workshop of Tidewater, and more than 150 Elks and their ladies attended. On Sunday, the BPOE No. 2238 Auxiliary, served a catered luncheon. Mrs. Ethel Oettinger, president, was assisted by Reba Nixon, Sara Day, Gladys Shipp, Margaret Laddis, Edna West, Louise Carson, and Elia Grim.

"Fun-ettes" opened with Sally Suter, Frank Ferrigno and Oscar Nethers singing selections from "Riddigore"; Ray Ahles rendered "Harrigan". A soft shoe followed with Jean and Frank Chebelar warbling "Mary's a Grand Old Name". "Sweethearts" with Karla Beasley and Oscar Northern brought down the house with applause as did "Make Believe". Jim Kelly, Al Suter, and Jim Morrissey were stout-hearted Mounties—look-alikes of Nelson Eddy in scarlet tunics and the Mounties hats. The Barbershop Quartet Ahles, Chebelar, Ferrigno and Northern warranted tremendous applause, as did Theresa Worrell when she sang "Just My Bill" to a hushed audience. Her voice was husky sweet.

Sally Suter in pale pink ruffled chiffon with Ferrigno in white evening coat got "Deep in Our Hearts" with their blend of soprano and bass. Helen Ahles, Millie Morrissey, Dawn Northern and Randy Smith "carried on" as wildly as today's frug or monkey. Frankie Young, Theresa and Joan formed a Girls' Trio; there was a Jitterbug contest; Michael Kelly impersonated Elvis Presley; Dawn Northern in red sequin matador costume wowed a back-breaking baton; Paula Doyle, Julie Prudie and Mike Suter, children of Elks, staged a "Hullabaloo".

As the entire Ensemble sang "Grand Old Flag", the audience joined in the finale with whistles and cries of "More! More!"

The ingenious black and white stage setting was effective; Jack Keary was the haractor, and "sunshine Sally" directed a fine show. Charlie Tucker was a congenial host to all as he manned the ticket booth and also ushered.

Among the many guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hambrick, past Exalted Ruler of Lodge 2238.

YEAR OF THE SCARF — This is "that" year and this is one of the fabulous oblongs which Sally Gee has created to shine in the fashion spotlight. It's in wild color combos and an equally wild curlicue pattern. This 18" by 45" pure silk twill scarf drapes in subtle fashion to show off to best advantage. The fur hat topper is by Emmie.

This is the greatest-ever "year of the scarf" according to scarf designer Sally Gee. Important new shapes and sizes place this ubiquitous accessory high on the most-wanted list as an integral part of the Costume Look. Scarf's add dash and take on a blazing new spotlight role for every kind of neckline—romancing—as fill-ins, accents, costume-brighteners, and the soft finishing touch. There are glowing paisleys, chic foulards, kinetic geometrics and striking abstracts in pure silk twill, wool challis, blends of silk and wool with metallic embroidery and fluting, feminine chiffons.

Styles include fabulous squares, a whipping yard of sash appeal; new dimensional oblong ascots—skinny and long, a mere 12 inches versus an elongated 42 inches; tiny triangles—often reversible to a color coordinate; flingy rectangles, perennially popular smoke rings and stoles and the new 19 inch mini-ties in men's haberdasher squares.

It's magical what the right scarf achieves in giving a wardrobe a lift. Tie a minuscule triangle high and tight around your neck for new sash and match it with its double perched perkily on your handbag handle! "Anyone can buy a scarf wardrobe to color coordinate with Fall outfits," says Sally Gee, "but it takes thought and ingenuity to give it a fresh and original personal approach."

It should be "soft, youthful and lingering." She is active in the Red Cross, the Cancer Society, Multiple Sclerosis and Muscular Dystrophy and Heart Associations. Her subject was "There is no Substitute for Action."

Mrs. Giles C. Engleove, a stately brunet and a Hollins College alumna, complimented the club's many service accomplishments (more than $23,000) as being carried in past years to Mental Health, General Hospital of Virginia Beach, scholarships, etc.); and with a distinctive feminine sense of humor, interspersed her address with jokes and sly references to the inadequacy of the government as she predicted a woman U. S. President in the future.

Mrs. Sherman Bullis and Mrs. C. W. Jernigan (she created the colorful flower arrangements for the tables, using, among other ideas, green crysanthemums) were nominated as delegates to attend the Tidewater District Fall meeting to be held at the Chamberlain hotel on October 11. Mrs. Aubrey Holmes and Mrs. Erma Mott were selected as alternates.

The famous Antiques Show was discussed, and the dates October 27 through 30 were set. Honoring this occasion, those at the head table wore old-fashioned costumes, a charming contrast to the fashionably dressed, short-skirted members—one of whom was Mrs. Battlement S. Dickinson who wore an Autumn mauve knit suit trimmed in tobacco brown with matching hat. Her guest, Mrs. Walter Murk, could have stepped from the pages of Mademoiselle in iridescent aqua silk shift complete with hem-length aqua coat, aqua silk turban worn just over the eyebrows, and aqua wedges through which twinkled aqua tinted toe nails. An iridescent umbrella, trimmed with large attached false yellow dahlia was as functional for the Beach as for Fifth avenue.

After lunch, Mrs. George Aldridge, president, wearing a full-skirted blue-flowered gingham with bouquet tied under the chin, introduced Dr. James N. Williams, psychiatrist, Director of the Atlantic Mental Hygiene Center, who accepted a check for $30 which represented the Sears Roebuck Foundation Community Improvement Award. This honor came through the efforts of Mrs. Mabel Owen and her scrapbook committee, winning fourth place over 400 other Virginia clubs. Mrs. Owen was lovely in the more than 100-year old wedding gown of golden brocade trimmed in lace which the late John B. Dey's mother wore. The gown is now the property of Mrs. Furman Day.

The speaker, introduced by Mrs. Owen, "came all the way from Richmond, and is a former president of the Virginia Federation of the Lutheran Brotherhood. She is a member of Good Shepherd Lutheran church. A 1966 graduate of Frank W. Cox High School, she is a member of the national Quill and Scroll Society and participated as a varsity cheerleader and editor of the newspaper. She plans to study journalism.

The Lutheran Brotherhood award is one of 150 being granted to high school graduates enrolling at Lutheran colleges. Recipients are selected on the basis of outstanding achievement in school and church activities as well as scholastic and leadership accomplishments.

The youth awards are part of Lutheran Brotherhood's fraternal activities program for which one million dollars is allocated this year.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

Harmony And Unity

When the committees and their members and chairman of the Democratic campaign for this fall's General election were announced recently, we were glad to see that the factions of the Party in Virginia Beach were able to get back together.

On the numerous committees seeking the election of Harry F. Byrd, Jr., and William B. Spong, Jr., to the U. S. Senate and the election of Thomas N. Downing to the House of Representatives were persons who had been on opposite sides during the July Democratic primary.

We were happy to see that the vigorous campaigning during that primary race had not opened wounds too deep to heal for the good of their party. Names that appear on those committees include backers of not only the winners, Byrd and Spong, but also the backers of the losers, Robertson and Boothe. This is as it should be.

For the Robertson backers the unity was forthcoming immediately. The day after the primary election, most Virginia Beach Democrats who had supported Byrd and Robertson announced their support of the Democratic nominees. Some of the Spong and Boothe backers took a little longer coming around to endorsing the same two nominees, but most eventually did so. Only a few hangers on and diehards have refused to do so now.

Therefore it is pleasant to see that even those who had diverse opinions and supported different candidates can now rally 'round and support the party now.

The Democratic Committee of Virginia Beach has promised a hard campaign for its nominees. The Republicans have also promised a tough fight, as have the Conservatives. We look forward to a well-waged battle for the two seats Virginia has in the United States Senate.

There is solidarity in the Conservative and Republican parties. And there is also harmony in the Democrats here as well.

For Six Opinions

Where the economy of the country is at the moment, or where it is heading is the subject of many conversations these days. One hears a great deal about "tight money," high interest rates, "value of the dollar" and that old standby, the "cost of living."

Upon investigation, we find that few people who should know in Virginia Beach can agree on the current economic condition of the country. One says inc/say it's hard to come by. Another says there is plenty of money available to borrow, but the interest rates are too high to interest most people. A published report shows that construction is down this year in Virginia Beach, although the same report says it may not end up that way when the final contracts are in.

We grant that much of the building began before the present economic situation became what it is, but the way we see it, there is still plenty of building going on in Virginia Beach.

Newspapers Are Important

Every once in a while an unsolicited item comes along, telling of the importance of newspapers. We are always glad when such an item reaches us, mostly because it makes it all worthwhile.

Such an item has recently found its way to our desk. It tells of newspapers fast becoming an important teaching tool in the classrooms of public and parochial schools. Top educators have said teachers not using newspapers are missing a real opportunity to bring their textbook teaching down to a practical level of understanding and application for students.

Newspapers are called "living textbooks." They were first used by enterprising teachers in English and social studies classes. Students were asked to find and learn the spelling and meaning of new words. Various types of sentence structure and other language construction were given as homework assignments with newspapers as the source. In social studies classes the students were asked to acquaint themselves with names, places and events reported in newspapers from around the world.

From the beginning teachers and on P.6A is a story to back up that statement. Three automobile agencies are under construction. Two shopping centers, one of them quite large, are under construction, one department store is being built, a large doughnut company is building its new plant, a roller skating rink is going up, and plans have just been announced for a new shopping center at Pembroke. This does not take into account the tremendous 100 million dollar complex planned for the Shore Drive.

The economic climate of Virginia Beach would seem to be in fine shape with all that and much more going on. If money is so tight, perhaps the reason is that so much of it is tied up in Virginia Beach, not leaving enough for other places. Our city is still first in growth in Virginia regardless of a "sagging" economy nationwide.

So for six expert opinions on the current economy, ask six people and be prepared for diverse answers for all six.

Next weekend the Virginia Beach Little Theatre opens its new season with a fine musical, Brigadoon. Advance reports say it will be an excellent production, and no doubt it will.

The Virginia Beach Little Theatre is well-known and highly respected in Tidewater for the presentation of an outstanding theatrical fare over the years. We look forward to another exciting and successful season this year.

The only problem up to this point is the attendance. There are just not enough members of the audience, but for that matter if every seat was filled every night of every production there would be still something wrong. It would mean the theatre was too small.

This fine group of amateurs—amateur only in the respect that they are not paid for their efforts—present fine productions, as demanded by the more sophisticated audiences of today. They have given of their time and energy. We hope all citizens of Virginia Beach will take note of this and support them by attending each production.

There is still time to purchase a season ticket or even a ticket for the first production. We urge our readers to give Brigadoon and the Virginia Beach Little Theatre all the support it richly deserves for its contributions to our city.

It is also hoped that the Little Theatre can soon build its own modern and large building where its productions can be shown off to better advantage. Courtyard Theatre is quaint, but we feel that the Virginia Beach Little Theatre deserves more for its dedicated work. To build their own building, the members of VBLT need the help of everyone in Virginia Beach.

Jetties Should Be Built

With the expected approval of the construction of a new stone jetty at Rudee Inlet and the extension of the existing one there, a major move will have been made toward creating a first-class boating area and marina on Rudee Inlet at the south end of Virginia Beach.

A high-rise bridge will cross the Inlet soon and boat traffic will be able to move freely under it. This is another milestone for Virginia Beach.

Stone jetties have proved their worth everywhere they have been used in preventing erosion and in reclaiming sand for beach areas. As in the case of Rudee Inlet they have also been used to keep back the sea for a channel entrance.

Along areas of New Jersey and Long Island stretch wide areas of sandy beach protected by long jetties jutting out into the Atlantic. Most of them have been there for many years and have taken on a shimmering green cast, of moss and age. We wonder why the same was not done some years ago at Virginia Beach, when the cost was not as prohibitive as it would be today.

But with the continued erosion of land and beach area at Virginia Beach, even the sand pumpers are not really enough. With absolutely no knowledge of the cost or how it could be done today, we hope that a study can be made soon to determine the need for jetties here. Perhaps the money could be made available from this or that agency if the jetties would be helpful or feasible.

We have become increasingly aware of erosion here and want to see something done about it before it is too late in some places.

Students have developed many different newspaper uses for varied classes on all levels for all age groups.

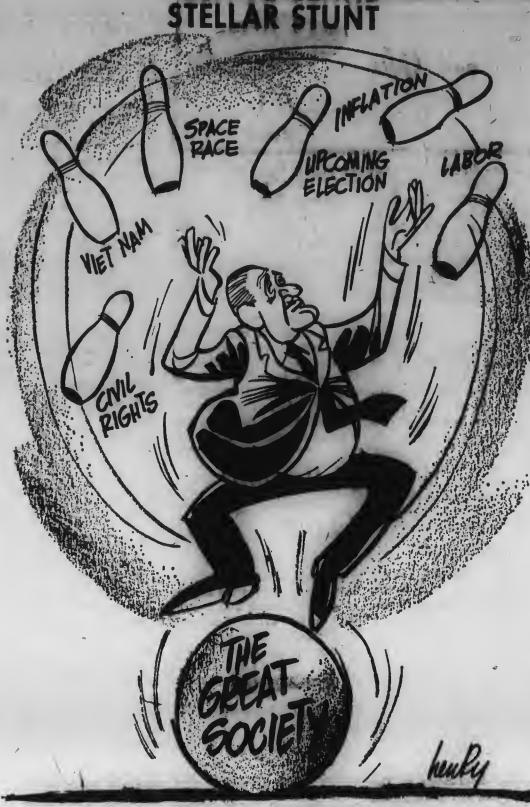

Students have learned how to figure budgets, study the stock market, look for a job, study merchandise offers, make sample menus, plan trips, read the business news, understand the editorial page, evaluate editorial cartoons, add figures, spell, write clear sentences, and learn about the many things a newspaper has to offer for readers not only to inform but also to assist.

Several newspapers, including the Virginia Beach Sun, are used in classrooms in Virginia Beach, and we are proud to be a part of the educational process. Teachers and students alike said when questioned that newspapers make the subject more interesting.

The place of the newspaper then in the educational fabric of the nation for students, adults and educators is undisputed. This added role of the newspaper will continue to expand for the benefit of education and the nation at-large.

A newspaper can carry with it no better recommendation than to be a part of the educational process of our youth.

A Virginia Beach man has been charged with arson in connection with a fire that inflicted heavy damage to a two-story frame house in the 200 block of Atlantic Avenue. Seven occupants of the building escaped injury in the early morning blaze. Police identified the man as Clinton Talmadge White, a former occupant of the house.

THE VIRGINIA BEACH OPEN FORUM

To The Editor:

I noticed with great interest the recent publication of a letter from Mr. Robert Portfield of Abingdon, Virginia, another attempt to give his Abingdon organization a Tidewater branch office. Mr. Portfield's letter is pleased to point out that Richmond could be provided with a performing arts center for considerably less than the going rate.

The Norfolk Little Theatre already is such a center and for approximately what Mr. Portfield's proposal to pay, could be housed in a plant that would allow it to act with a vitality considerably less than the going rate.

In my turn, I would like to offer a challenge to the good people of Tidewater to see it to that Virginia's most populous and most quickly developing geographical area, not be overlooked in the scramble for such a facility. The Norfolk Little Theatre is anxious to produce and possibly even The Barber.

The philosophy of the 40-year old Little Theatre is to provide a vital creative outlet for many of the varied talents of its community as well.

The theater offers a mainstage season of five productions, an Experimental Wing program, a touring group called Instant Theatre, a dance workshop, a playwrighting contest, a Teen Art Children's Theatre program and a Theatre Arts Academy.

Plans for the coming season also include a chamber opera program and Verse Theatre. All of these activities are performed by our neighbors, interested members of the community who appreciate the contribution that live theatre can provide.

Their efforts are guided and encouraged by a professional staff. Their aim is not simply to produce plays, but rather to fully utilize these talents in the hopes of providing the Tidewater community with a vital, consequential organ of communication, equivalent in motive, and someday, in accomplishment to the outstanding theatres of the nation.

Ninety percent of all these activities are offered to the Tidewater community free of charge. But the program is struggling in a highly inflationary plant.

For some time now, the Norfolk Little Theatre has contemplated expanding its present facilities. Certain considerations have shown it impossible to do so at present.

It is the considered opinion of the Little Theatre that its facilities will have to be improved before a sufficient plant will be available to house and encourage the ambitious program presently in operation and the even more ambitious ones contemplated. Dear Editor:

Your editorial on garbage collection is very pertinent. I wonder why Virginia Beach does not do most other communities and have the garbage men pick up the garbage from the yards.

Mrs. Wallace Boush

To The Editor:

Certainly one of the strongest, stimulating forces for the development of sturdy American manhood and womanhood is the strong, built-in desire, for ownership.

Kill this wholesome desire and the death blow would be struck to this powerful motivating stimulant, that has made the hard working American what he is.

We have all learned of the movement, on a national level, to curb the controls of the property owners of America. This movement has sinister vibrations, that has already affected our people adversely. Many are saying, "Why own, if others control?" It is entirely conceivable, that behind this movement we could find national economic manipulators.

We could all think of a national enemy, who would love to learn that America has taken its first step to kill individual ownership.

These days are days for defensive living, not only on our highways, but in all truly American concepts and principles.

Lace is an old standby comedy that has been around for a long time and it is such a delightful and thoroughly enteraining old comedy that it will be around for a long time to come. The Wedgewoodians have put together a well-balanced production, full of top acting jobs by veteran performers. Had the first five minutes of the performance been different, there would be nothing to criticize.

Program Started By F&M

A Family Money Management program that began September 19 at all offices of First & Merchants National Bank is designed to "add mileage to family spending money," according to Robert L. Gordon, Jr., president of the bank.

"Properly managed, earnings can be stretched to provide much more for families who plan properly," says Gordon. "We hope to help by providing to the public the tools and the facilities that will make proper financial planning easy."

The bank will offer informative booklets for the asking and will have a specially prepared book, "Family Money Management," available at $2.00 a copy. The book is a complete planning guide with details to help families attain financial goals.

Officials of First & Merchants who will be guiding the program say that there has been a great deal of interest and need for help by the public on this subject. It was pointed out that current relatively high incomes, often from multiple wage earners in a family, have created an affluent society but with paradoxically "well-to-do" needy people. The bank has noted that more and more families of substantial income are asking for financial help. Money problems are singled out to be increasingly apparent in families in the middle to upper income brackets.

Another factor increasing the need for better financial planning has been the increasing rise in per-family earnings. Statistics from the McGraw-Hill Economics Department show that the average Virginia family will earn over $30,000 during the next ten years.

First & Merchants program points out the need for proper planning in the management of this money so that there will be something to show for its use over years.

First & Merchants announced to the public one year ago that it was basing its services to provide a "better life" for its customers.

Gordon stated that the new Family Money Management program is part of the bank's long-range approach to help provide better living.

The Money Management section of the book being offered by the bank is keyed to help a family analyze expenditures and put actual spending habits in a clear perspective.

It explains how to set up and use a "reserve fund" to accumulate money needed for large expenses like insurance premiums, taxes, medical bills, long range improvements. It supplies all the forms necessary to set up simple procedures for proper management of family finances.

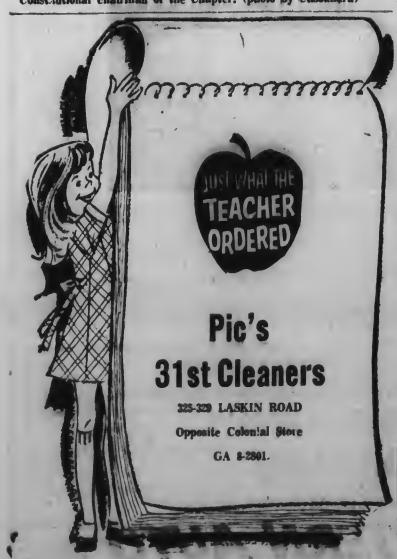

It advises on the proper use of checking and savings accounts and credit obligations.

Other sections of the book provide help in keeping comprehensive personal records, family assets and liabilities, and date for proper tax accounting.

what makes you think we'd stop now?

There's a story going around that mortgage money is very hard to get.

Well, maybe.

Here at Mutual Federal, though, we're making first mortgage loans on selected, improved property just like we did in 1965 . . . or 1949 . . . or 1889. We have, as a matter of fact, millions available for sound loans on acceptable property in our area. Next time somebody tells you "They just aren't lending anymore," ask them "Have you tried Mutual Federal?"

Miss Elizabeth Pittman Kouri, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kouri, 114 Crystal Lakes Drive, has registered for the fall semester at Peace College, Raleigh, N.C. Miss Kouri is president of the VIRGINIA BEACH — With the amount of construction being done in the resort city, it would seem that money is not as tight as was expected.

Many new sights are now under construction or are being planned for immediate construction. One such plan is the new $7.5 million addition to Pembroke Mall—Pembroke East. The plans for this new development at Pembroke were announced recently.

The Princess Anne Telephone Co. is building a new storage area and building on Indian River Road at Pungo. That has been planned for some time.

Automobile dealers are moving from the beach borrough to other parts of the cities and laying out large sums of money for new showrooms. Among those involved in the exodus are Emrhise Ford, R-K Chevrolet, Marshall-Royal Dodge.

Private business does not have the building market sewed up. The Federal Government is doing quite a large amount of construction.

Oceans Naval Air Station, the east coast's most strategic naval facility, is currently expanding its facilities with a building program of over five million dollars underway.

The program includes a new aircraft maintenance hangar, an additional enlisted man's barracks, and other support facilities for the almost five thousand men who work at the base.

Indicative of the spiraling importance of the Virginia Beach base is the new hangar, being built by the Security Construction Co. of Richmond. With a design that represents the latest advances in aviation structures, the $3,100,000 building will consolidate the maintenance divisions into one general area while it aids in the fast expansion of the overall maintenance department.

The addition of facilities for the service of aircraft, however, is only one facet of the overall construction going on at the master jet base. To house the aircraft support personnel in a better fashion, the station is constructing a new barracks according to the latest plans for Navy barracks construction.

Several beach businessmen are of the opinion that money is not tight. They feel that the sources of revenue are unlimited. They all added one thing, however. The interest rates are so high that nobody wants to pay them.

what is the definition of a private brand?

To some people, it is a retailer's own brand created with selling price first in importance and quality second.

To us at A&P, it's the opposite.

Quality comes first.

Value...the best for the least is the rule for our private brands.

If this wasn't true, how foolish we'd be to invest, as we have, literally millions of dollars.

in processing plants and testing laboratories.

If all we wanted were products we could sell cheaply without quality control, anybody could produce them for us.

The idea of quality private brands isn't new at A&P.

Are A&P Private Brands a good reason for shopping A&P? They're one of many.

THEY MADE IT! It took a year of happy effort for the 5th and 6th grade juniors of the Lynnhaven Colony United Church Sunday school class to complete their scale model of the biblical city. Among the children who created the miniature people, buildings, furnishings, and foodstuffs were Allen Anderson, Horace Hodges, Garland Layton, Bobby Midgett, Michael Noe, Skipper Schubert, Elmer Smith, Gregg Weber, Randy Wykle, Beverly Cockman, Charlene Allred, Carolyn Haase, Shirley Hattan, Joanne Kumber, Lyn Layton, James Lowman, Dale Melton, Becky Marcell, Lyn Reilly, Sandy Stellings, Lisa Stuart, Debbie Sykes, Ronne Myers, Gregg Trice, David Kellogg, Wayne Tankersley; and those who took an active part but were not members of the class were Sandy Milner, Bill Britton, Bill Whitlock, David Allison Stanton; and children of Mrs. Hudgins—James Jr., David and Lisa Mary Hudgins. SS Class Builds City

By DORIS PADRICK
Women's Editor

There wasn't enough paper, time or Sundays for the 5th and 6th grade juniors of Lynnhaven Colony United Church to complete their new interesting Sunday School lessons. So they came after school; they used hours of their vacation time. They saved milk and egg cartons, styrofoam packing, straws and popsicle sticks; they searched for fruit sacks, beaverboard, tile, interfacing, storm tops, florist tape, laminated paper. They used their time, their materials, and their even inquiring minds . . . and they built a city!

They heard about the city; they has studied about the city, but until they built the city themselves, it had been just another Sunday School lesson. Now the ancient city of Jerusalem lives. For they made it come alive by their own creativity and ever-available help of their devoted teachers.

Mrs. James M. Hudgins, Sr. was in charge of the activity part of the Sunday lessons while Mrs. George J. Seals presented the stories. To stimulate interest in the ancient city they were studying, Mrs. Hudgins had the children paint the scenery of the hills, and that became the beginning of a year-long project.

Having made doll furniture for her own little girls and having woodworking tools in her home, Mrs. Hudgins was familiar with building according to scale. But she had no particular plan regarding their model of Jerusalem. The city just "kind of grew" from the accumulation of ideas of the entire class and their friends. Though each step in the creation of the scale model of Jerusalem was not pre-planned in detail, the various phases became a joint effort with research for authenticity of costume, buildings, foods etc. before the work was begun.

And sections of the city would be made by groups meeting and working together in the Hudgins home. Sometimes they would be making the clothes pin figures of the people and while one might be painting faces, others would be dressing the dolls in the stretched crepe paper. Or if they were making the foodstuffs, some would be molding the fruits, vegetables, fish and chickens from playdough while others would be painting the right colors, adding the florist tape, or shellacking the finished miniatures.

While much of the preliminary work would be done by Mrs. Hudgins to save time, all the people, landscape, buildings and furnishings were actually made by the children.

Not only did interest remain high during the construction of the model city, but the work the children were doing stimulated other members of the church and friends who belonged to different churches to have a clearer understanding of biblical times and to make them aware of the fascinating studies that can be found in a simple Sunday School lesson.

The finished table top model is over six feet wide, and is authentic almost to the smallest detail. Plans are to have a plastic bubble top over the city so that it may be displayed to the general public in the near future.

Orange said the toll commission had many inquiries into a rumor that tolls for the Expressway would be raised from $2.25 to $3. "Such a toll increase is not the case," Orange said. "The toll will remain $2.25 for all two-axle vehicles," he pointed out. A three-axle truck will pay $3.00, a four-axle truck $4.00 and a five-axle truck $5.00.

Orange noted that prices of the ramps will not be changed either. They will remain $1.00 for each two-axle vehicle with a $0.05 charge for each additional axle.

Vakos Attends Court Conf.

ATLANTA, GA.—Judge George W. Vakos, of the Virginia Beach Municipal Court, attended the twentieth annual Southern Regional Traffic Court Conference at Emory University School of Law here last week. This Conference was held in co-operation with the American Bar Association Traffic Court Program and the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University.

The Conference is one of five regional sessions held annually at leading law schools in the nation. Robert L. Dungan, Evanston, Ill., is counsel for the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University.

James P. Economos, director of the ABA Traffic Court Program, said the regional traffic court conferences are designed to help traffic court officials and others learn more about improved court procedures.

He pointed out that other major goals of the conferences include fostering citizen participation in traffic courts, molding public attitude of respect for law, and upgrading traffic courts in accordance with national standards.

Certificates of participation were awarded to conferencees on September 16 by Ben F. Johnson, dean of Emory University School of Law.

son, as well as from the supporters of the successful candidates in the July primary. Harry F. Byrd, Jr., and William B. Spong, Jr.

The formation of an additional committee was announced Wednesday by McChesney and Fenstress. Joe Canada and Robert M. (Bob) Stanton were named co-chairmen of the Campaign Materials Committee. Additional members of that committee will be named at a later date, according to McChesney.

Two additional members have been added to the Dinner and Breakfast Committee. They are Owen Pickett and Kenneth Whitehurst, Jr.

All four persons whose names were announced Wednesday have agreed to serve on the respective committees, according to Fenstress and McChesney.

A published report in a Norfolk newspaper stated that three appointees were "unhappy about not being consulted in advance." The same report went on to say that "whether they will serve seems debatable." The report was published a short time after the committees were announced a week ago.

The three appointees mentioned were Cornelius Scully, who was one of Booth's co-campaign managers, Victor Ashe and V. A. Etheridge.

"I have not been informed to this time that they will not serve on the committees to which they were appointed, therefore I assume they will serve," said McChesney Wednesday.

McChesney added that since they had all worked in the primary campaign he thought they would like to be active in the November campaign as Democrats.

MRS. MABEL TWIFORD in her instruction room with the tools of her trade — sewing machine, scissors, tape measure, pins. She will teach you how to use them all in the professional Bishop Method of dressmaking.

"I've sewed for people all my life; now I want to teach them how to sew for themselves" says Mrs. Mabel E. Twiford as she sat at her little portable sewing machine in her soon to be opened sewing instruction shop in the lower lobby of the Cavalier hotel.

Curly white hair shining and bright eyes twinkling, Mrs. Twiford is as excited "as a teenager" at the challenge of her new venture.

"Custom-made clothing is 'in' now as it was back when I was a youngster. For a long while ready-made clothing was more fashionable, but now more and more women are discovering that making their own clothing gives them better fit, more style, and a very satisfied feeling of having created their own wardrobe."

Mabel Twiford's skill with the needle is well-known throughout Tidewater and all over the country as she has made fashionable outfit for the famous as well as the unknown.

Barely out of her teens, "back when going to New York was thought of as going to the ends of the earth," she began to make her mark in the fashion center. Armed with letters of introduction from Arthur Morris of Norfolk with whom she had worked, she was hired right away and was associated with many of the fashion greats and spent 15 years working in New York for such top designers as: Hattie Carnegie and Bonwit and others.

She came back to Norfolk, and had a very successful dressmaking business with her sister Eile Edwards (now Mrs. Richard Ginter) for more than 20 years operating as "Twiford and Edwards, Designers and Dressmakers."

In the meantime she had married, had two children and became widowed. She retired a few years back and had looked forward to "not having to get up so early," but she soon found that boring. Mabel was head of a baby-sitting agency for a while which she sold and then she did a lot of traveling. She wintered in Florida and summered at Cape Cod.

But it still wasn't enough. On the suggestion of a friend, she decided to go back to her first love, but with a different approach.

"Sewing is not difficult," she emphasizes, "but it must be done in a professional way to have satisfactory results." So that her years of experience and knowledge is not wasted, she will teach those interested in having well-made clothing "how to make their own."

Many ladies would like to sew for themselves. Mabel knows, but they try to "get it done in a hurry" and the results have a home-made look instead of the professional look and they become discouraged.

She will teach the "Bishop Method" which is easy as well as professional. The basic ingredient in all professional-looking sewing is the proper selection of fabric for the pattern and fitting the pattern to the figure before sewing. "This is the part so many amateurs neglect," she said. She also wants all prospective home sewers to know it is not expensive to make your own clothing. "All you need is a sewing machine, pins, and an iron." She emphasizes that the iron is most important as "pressing as you go assures a better fit."

Mabel is now taking registrations for her first classes which will begin on October 3. She may be reached by calling at her home at 423-5262, or at her studio in the Cavalier, 428-6011. There will be daytime and nighttime classes, and each student will receive individual-type instruction.

Only one sewing machine is in her instruction room, and Mabel will be the one using it. She will demonstrate all the phases of professional sewing to her students, then the students will do their own sewing in the quiet of their own homes.

Mabel couldn't stay retired. She has too much interest in the world around her and in all the "big happenings in Virginia Beach." She has got to a part of it...

Not only are her many friends happy that she has decided to stay and teach them how to sew the "professional way," but her daughter and son and grandchildren are delighted. Her daughter is Mrs. R. Milton Warren who lives in Alanton, and her son is Elwood Borden, who has a business in Washington, D. C. She has seven grandchildren.

And the happiest person of all is Mabel herself. She figures she "has a few good years left" and she is giving them to all who are interested in learning to make their own wardrobe the professional way. All ages are invited to meet Mabel in her instruction studio. You will be glad you did...

Eagles Set Up Scholarships

Children of full-time policemen or firemen, who are Eagle members, killed in line of duty will have a college scholarship guaranteed them by the Fraternal Order of Eagles.

The Eagles unanimously passed a resolution at the 1966 International Convention in Cleveland on Aug. 3-6 to extend the educational aids of its Memorial Foundation to include these children. Robert N. Smith, Worthy President of Virginia Beach Aerie announced.

Thus, the Eagles, who already care for children of members killed in military service in World War II, Korea and Vietnam, would assure similar educational benefits for youngsters of its members in police or fire fighting services who meet death performing their duties.

The fraternal group established its Memorial Foundation in 1944 from voluntary contributions. Since then it has made available more than a million dollars in various benefits, putting approximately 1,200 children in college. The Fund is administered by a board of trustees.

Eagles action in expanding the Fund to include children of Eagle policemen and firefighters is a logical step for two reasons, according to Smith.

"First, we recognize these men as performing a service second only to combat soldiers in potential hazards encountered," he said. "Secondly, the Eagles, in its 'Liberator Under Law' Program, has taken the lead in promoting recognition and support for all law enforcement and public protection agencies."

The Chesapeake City Planning Department, under the supervision of John A. Randall, is in the process of developing a correlated street numbering system for the entire city. The changeover of street names, already approved by City Council, will be completed by January first. ESSA Opens 22nd Class

NORFOLK—The Environmental Science Services Administration (ESSA) of the U. S. Department of Commerce opened its 22nd officers training class today in Norfolk.

The 13-week course began for 32 college graduates, holding science and engineering degrees. Twenty-eight of the graduates will be commissioned ensign upon graduation, having been commissioned earlier this year.

The indoctrination course, designed to instruct future officers of ESSA in the agency's responsibilities and objectives and the scope of its varied operations, will be conducted by LCDR Ronald M. Buffington, of 521 Buffer Dr., Virginia Beach. This month Buffington succeeded CDR Edwin K. McCaffrey, also of Virginia Beach, as officer-in-charge of the training section.

The training is being given at the Atlantic Marine Center of ESSA's Coast and Geodetic Survey. The course covers the work done by ESSA in tides, currents, geodesy, oceanography, photogrammetry, seismology, geomagnetism, cartography, meteorology and astronomy.

The new class is the third and last for 1966. When completed, it will bring to 85 the number of officers commissioned this year through the training classes. In addition, there were 12 other trainees who were appointed to commissioned status before entering class.

Most of this year's graduates were assigned sea duty on the hydrographic and oceanographic survey and research ships of the fleet of 14 vessels operated by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. The fleet charts coastal waters, searches for underwater navigational hazards, makes gravity and magnetic measurements, conducts tidal and tidal current surveys, and engages in deep sea oceanographic surveys and research.

Approval Of Rudee Inlet Work Asked

VIRGINIA BEACH—The City of Virginia Beach and the Rudee Inlet Authority have requested Army Department approval of plans of channel protective works to be constructed in the Atlantic Ocean at Rudee Inlet, according to a public notice sent out by the Army Corps of Engineers in Norfolk.

The notice stated that work would consist of constructing an extension to an existing rubble mound stone jetty and a new combination jetty consisting of a timber grain sand trap and a rubble stone mound. A plan of the proposed work was drawn on the back of the public notice.

The notice was intended to inform all interested parties, since no public hearing is contemplated on the matter. The notice was sent to those having direct interests in the waterway affected, including vessel owners and operators, waterfront property owners and tenants, civic and commercial organizations and public agencies concerned with navigation and to news media.

"The decision as to whether a permit will be issued must rest primarily upon the effect of the proposed work in navigation," stated E. K. Jackson, Chief of the Operations Division of the Army Corps of Engineers. "However, communications dealing with other aspects of the work will be recorded and given appropriate consideration.

Jackson said comments or objections should be submitted in writing before October 3, 1966.

Approval of the Corps of Engineers is the first step toward construction of the jetty at Rudee Inlet, and according to sources of the Rudee Inlet Authority, the construction of the new jetty and the extension to the existing one is a must if Rudee Inlet is to be opened as a major boating and marine area as planned.

Old Churches And Silver Featured On Tour

Six Colonial churches in parishes that antedated the Revolution will be included in the 6th Annual Pilgrimage, October 7, 8 and 9, and October 14, 15 and 16. Proceeds from the event go to the restoration of the participating churches and visitors to the Old Dominion will be provided with a memorable experience as they sit homes and estates not always open to the public.

Virginia's old churches, sleeping way the centuries in the groves of pines, oaks and elms, are cross-roads churches that have played an important role in the founding of our nation. Members of their vestries were as active in community affairs as they were in those of their churches, and when the time came for them to serve as patriots in the new country, they did this with the same devotion shown their religious duties.

At the beginning of the Revolution there were 250 churches in Virginia, all in parishes of the Church of England. Ministers were sent to the New World to serve as preachers and teachers, to be paid in tobacco and to live in the glebes provided for them by Royal decree. These men were not always the most consecrated, and more often than not the communicants of the church were the spiritual backbone of the neighborhood. As a result, Virginians of past generations developed a moral fiber that stood them in good stead through adversity.

After the Revolution when complete separation between church and state was law of the land, the old churches at the cross-roads went into a decline. Anglican rectors, deprived of their salaries, went home to England or retired from their pulpits, and the congregations dispersed or joined other denominations since there was no clergyman qualified to administer the sacraments. It was during this period that many old churches were sacked by vandals. Not until 1764 when the General Assembly consented to the request of the former Anglican clergy was the Diocese of Virginia of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States of America given its proper name and accreditation.

Their expect to leave Buenos Aires on October 16, returning via Santos and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; the Barbados in the Windward Islands; and San Juan, Puerto Rico, arriving in New York City on October 25.

At Vauter's Church in Essex County there is old church silver for many years thought to have been given by Queen Anne herself, since the name of the parish is St. Anne's. However, more thorough research dates this as London, early 16th century. Vauter's Church named after a family long gone on whose land the church was built was saved from destruction right after the Revolution. Mrs. Muscoe Garnett drove away the trespassers who were sacking it without conscience, by saying the church was on her property. Actually this was not really true but the rust sufficed and Vauter's was saved.

In Fredericksburg, St. George's church tower points skyward like a forefinger, but though St. George's is a Colonial parish the church itself is 19th century. George Washington coming in from Ferry Farm attended an older St. George's where visitors today delight in the 17th century graveyard, called God's Acre, and its tombstones carved with verses that seem amusing to our generation.

Grace Church in Yorktown is built of marl from the York River. This material said to be remains of prehistoric shellfish, is so durable that the church walls have withstood several fires. Constructed in 1700 Grace Church, like St. John's occupies the spot designated for it in the original survey of Yorktown in 1691.

No one knows what the first church looked like, but drawing by a French soldier during the Revolution show that it had a steeple. Now there is a bell found in Philadelphia and recast in 1800 to be returned to Yorktown for it was engraved, "York, Virginia 1725". Many historians believe the bell belonged on the courthouse, however, not the church belfry.

Cornwallis used Grace Church as a powder magazine during the Revolutionary War, and its history since that time has been turbulent. The old Communion silver has survived the years as the second oldest Communion silver in the country. Made in London in 1690, the chalice and flagon or hammered silver were originally in Hampton parish but when the two parishes combined as York-Hampton in 1706, the silver was brought to what is now called, Grace Church.

G. Hunter Fletcher, State Chairman, 1966, of Virginia's Annual Autumn Pilgrimage is a communicant of Grace Church, and his mother's house is one of the nine in Yorktown to be opened. This early 18th century dwelling was built by a Fletcher ancestor on the Eastern Shore and brought to Yorktown about 30 years ago.

In addition to the old churches, more than forty properties will be seen and enjoyed during the 1966 Pilgrimage. These include magnificent homes and plantations, as well as charming 17th and 18th century houses with delightful gardens.

GRACE EPISCOPAL CHURCH — Construction of this Church started in 1897. Built of marl slabs taken from the York River. It was rectangular in shape, but enlarged in colonial times by addition of wing. During the Revolution, Lord Cornwallis used it as a powder magazine. Damaged again during Civil War. Its Communion Silver, a chalice and a flagon, made in London in 1549, believed to be among the earliest pieces still in continuous use in this country. (Photo by Men Lemay).

Choreography Just One Of Her Many Talents

By DORIS PADRICK
Women's Editor

Nancy McCless has big brown eyes, long dark hair, a slim figure and very pretty legs. She is a dancer. She is also a wife, a mother of three, a college graduate, a choreographer and a "great organizer." These last two qualifications are called upon for the Virginia Beach Little Theatre's first production of the season, "Brigadoon."

"Brigadoon" will feature a lot of gay dancing with a great many dancers. Nancy enjoyed the challenge of adapting the Scottish dances to the Courtyard Theatre's limited space, and she is certain the audiences will enjoy the many fine dances in the colorful costumes as they present the production numbers. She decided not to dance herself in "Brigadoon" as it is rather difficult to be the choreographer and dance at the same time. "You can't get the right perspective as the audience will see it if you are on the stage yourself." Nancy says.

Having danced most of her life (I started when I was 3 or 4) Nancy has found the creative expression and physical effort of dancing to be most beneficial, both for health and happiness.

"As well as dancing, I play a lot of tennis and enjoy swimming. And I can write and sketch which are my hobbies."

She has found that being a dancer and being associated with other people in show business is very educational and broadening in scope of understanding all types of personalities. "In the theatre, we learn also to sing and act as well as dance."

Carrying herself tall and straight, Nancy revealed that she has done some professional fashion modeling in Richmond and on a volunteer basis here at the Beach.

As the coordinator of the Tide-water Dance Guild, Inc., she is kept busy with the various presentations given by the group throughout Tidewater. She was seen in "Showboat '65," "Stop the World," and the recent "Music in Motion" Summer '66" to name just a few.

She is the mother of David 13.

NANCY McCLESS

Martha 11, and Melinda 8, and when she is not concerned with the welfare of her family or busy with the TDG, or choreographing "Brigadoon," or modeling, she carries on the duties as president of Orchestra, the modern dance association. She is well organized. She has to be!

"Brigadoon" opens Friday night, Sept. 30. Chrlain time is 8:30 p.m.

Questions Put To Witnesses

VIRGINIA BEACH—Is religion lively and practical in this 20th century? Can spiritual mindedness be exercised in everyday life?

Answers to these and other important questions will be given by Jehovah's Witnesses and their friends when they assemble September 23-25 at the Hayden High School in Franklin, Va.

Richard Broadnax of 907 Gardner Street, Franklin, Va., presiding minister of the host congregation at Franklin is making final preparations to feed and house over 1500 delegates expected from the southeastern part of the state. Many from nearby cities, however will commute by private transportation. A large delegation will come from Virginia Beach, Va.

"As the younger people play an ever increasing role in current matters," Broadnax said, "the principles of Christianity become more and more important to everyone living." The assembly will emphasize this through its theme, "Become Spiritual Men With Everlasting Life in View." (Romans 8:6)

The activity of the 17 congregations of Circuit No. 25 for the past six months will be reviewed. Better teaching methods through discussions, demonstrations and "work in the field" will be studied by those attending. On two occasions attention will be focused on the films "Heritage" and "God Can't Lie" which will show the part the Bible plays in modern day life.

All delegates and their friends will endeavor to attend the special talk on Sunday given by the district representative of the Watchtower Bible and Tract Society, J. A. Thomson, Jr. His subject "Satisfying Mankind's Greatest Need" will offer a Bible solution to many of the problems plaguing the world today.

Speech Contest

Plans Finalized

RICHMOND—Plans for a fourth annual statewide youth speaking contest—open to Virginia farm boys and girls not over 18 years of age on November 1—has been announced by L. E. Raper, executive secretary of the Virginia Council of Farmer Cooperatives.

The contest is open to all farm youth that meet the age requirements in any area of the state served by a farmer's cooperative or branch, Raper said.

Contestants—who will talk for a maximum of 8 minutes on "Co-operators—Democracy in Action"—may enter by contacting any local farmer cooperative or branch, 4-H Club Agents, vocational agriculture Teachers, home economics instructors or public speaking teachers at vo-ag schools.

Local community winners will participate in a district contest held as part of the Council's five District workshops for cooperative managers and directors set for late November and early December.

The District winners will then be eligible to participate in the state finals, which will be held at Natural Bridge, Virginia, as a feature of the Council's Annual Meeting on March 19, 1967.

The winning contestants in each of the five District contests will receive a $25 U. S. Savings bond. The second place winner will receive $10 while the third place award will be $5.

The winner in the state finals will receive a $100 U. S. Savings bond and an all expense paid trip to the 1967 meeting of the American Institute of Cooperation meeting at Purdue University, Lafayette, Indiana. The second place winner in the finals will receive a $50 Savings bond.

"Brigadoon" will have 12 performances—September 30, October 1, 2, 7, 8, 9, 14, 15, 16, 21, 22, and 23.

"The Mousetrap," an Agatha Christie mystery, will play December 2, 3, 4, 9, and 10.

"Look Homeward Angel," a drama, will be presented February 3, 4, 5, 10, and 11.

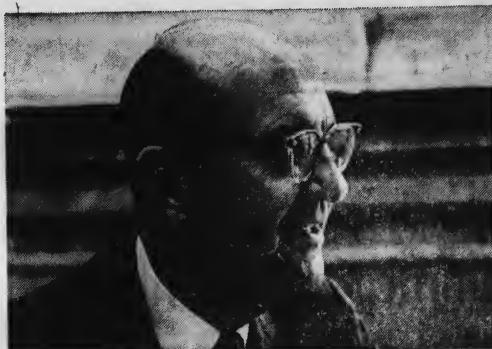

"Twelfth Night" by Shakespeare comes March 31, April 1, 2, 7, and 8.

Payments Are On Schedule

NORFOLK — First premium payments for the doctor bill insurance part of medicare are being received on schedule.

Of the 2.5 million persons who were sent premium notices, more than 9 out of 10 have already sent in their payments.

Most of the 17.3 million elderly people who have signed up for the voluntary medical insurance part of medicare are having their premium payments deducted from their monthly social security, railroad, or civil service retirement benefits. Timely premium payments are therefore made automatically for them. State public assistance programs are paying the premiums for an additional 640,000 older people. The remaining 2½ million elderly people are billed directly by the Social Security Administration.

Those who have not yet sent in their premiums will lose their doctor bill insurance protection if they delay beyond September 30. Premium reminder notices that time is running out were mailed out last week notifying those who have not yet sent in their payments.

Those who are having difficulty making their doctor bill insurance premium payments or who have questions, are urged to get in touch with their social security offices without delay.

In Norfolk the social security office is located at 220 West Brambleton Avenue and is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Saturday. For information call 622-6261.

AS WE WALKED toward the Civic Center on a rainy windy morning recently, we noted the beauty of bushes of purple crepe myrtle and the fragrance of white oleanders seemed to be waving a fond farewell to summer. Judy Lambert, Saint Scott's secretary said W. H. Hampton, the building superintendent, took pride in the Civic Centers' grounds and worked constantly to have it one of Virginia Beach's beauty spots. Judy pretties up the grounds too, don't you think? (photo by Cassandra)

Jewish Holy Days Celebrated

Yom Kippur (Day of Atonement), the holiest day in the Jewish calendar, will be celebrated at Temple Emanuel tomorrow evening at 7:00 p.m. and all day Saturday beginning at 9:00 a.m. It was announced by Rabbi Philip Ponca, spiritual leader of the Temple.

Yom Kippur is the climax of the ten-day period of penitence which began with Rosh Hashanah (Jewish New Year) on Wednesday evening, September 14. These ten days of reflection and self-examination are dedicated to the spiritual improvement of mankind. They bring a message of ethical consciousness, moral responsibility and spiritual regeneration.

A day of Grand Reconciliation, Yom Kippur is observed by a twenty-four hour fast, honest self-appraisal and prayers for forgiveness and reconciliation with God and man. The Holy Day begins with the chanting of the solemn Kol Nidre Service, the melody of which is probably the best known of all synagogue music. The prayer stresses the sanctity of the pledged word and creates a mood relevant to the opening of the sacred day.

Throughout the day prayers for forgiveness and confession of sins, personal as well as communal, are repeatedly recited. According to Jewish tradition, Yom Kippur brings penance only for sins committed against God, but it cannot bring forgiveness for offenses against fellowmen unless reparation has been made by the individual to the person he had wronged.

Yom Kippur concludes at sunset with the Neilah Service, when the Heavenly Gates are symbolically described as closing with the setting of the sun. The sounding of the shofar, a ram's horn, signals the end of the Holy Day.

Feldman Chamber Music Society Begins 20th Season

NORFOLK — The 1933-37 season marks the twentieth anniversary of Tidewater's distinguished musical group — The Feldman Chamber Music Society. This group was formed in 1917 under the direction of I. E. Feldman, one of America's outstanding chamber music authorities and a gifted violinist. Immediately successful, the society was incorporated as a non-profit organization, and the concert series became an established feature of Tidewater's cultural life.

The director of the present quartet is Ronald Marshall who is also violinist with the group. Dora Marshall Short is first violinist. Lawrence Mednick, second violinist, and Janet McClarnon Kriner, cellist. Three of the members have been with the quartet since its formation in 1917 — Mrs. Kriner joined the group in 1937.

One of the factors leading to the continuing success of this Quartet is the long and continuous association of the same players and director. Chamber music, composed as it is for smaller groupings, is warm and friendly — easily understood and appreciated by everyone.

The members of the Quartet provide for Tidewater something of which few such areas its size can boast — its own professional string quartet and ensemble.

The Nord's annual series consists of five concerts combining duos, trios, quintets and compositions for augmented groups of players, as well as those for quartet only.

In addition to its local series the Quartet gives concerts throughout Virginia, Washington, D. C., and in neighboring states. The Quartet will be heard in concert on Wednesday evenings at 8:30 P.M. on October 19, December 7, January 11, February 21, and March 28 at Myers Hall, 19th St. east of Colonial Ave., Norfolk. Mrs. Hyman Silverman, president of the Feldman Chamber Music Society announces that the membership drive is now in progress and that Virginia Beach residents may obtain season tickets by contacting Mrs. John M. Cochran, Jr., 340-1158. Adults $9.00, students $4.50 and members of the armed forces unable to attend the whole series may secure tickets for $2.00 a performance.

One of the important factors of the Feldman Quartet is its contribution to the enrichment of the musical life of the thousands of Tidewater children in the elementary schools, with performances in the schools of Tidewater under the auspices of YOUNG AUDIENCES.

This group was first presented to the elementary schools of Virginia Beach by two of its residents — Mrs. Maurice W. Nordlinger, an active musician and piano teacher — and Mrs. Arthur Winder, a beach resident well known in civic and art activities. Mrs. Nordlinger and Mrs. Winder are now in the process of arranging with many Virginia Beach schools for the presentation of the Feldman String Quartet during the 1965-67 school year.

Moore also announced that six promotions were made in the bank's western region.

Right in our own backyard

We've got Smithfield hams fit for a Queen. Just ask Queen Elizabeth. She's a regular mail-order customer.

We've got peanuts enough to tempt everyone for a lifetime, raised in Suffolk-Peanut Capital of the world.

We've got the kind of apples that Queen Victoria used to demand regularly. And we've got enough so that Virginia stands fourth in the nation in apple production.

We've got an equipment manufacturer in Richmond, Virginia, turning out the machines that produce 98% of the nation's hot dog buns. Think about that at your next cook-out.

Virginia's menu is mighty tempting. Chances are your Thanksgiving turkey comes from Rockingham County — the nation's largest producer of turkeys. As for the rest of the things you like best, Virginia ranks first as producer of early summer potatoes and kale. Second for late spring cabbage. Third for early summer sweet corn, tomatoes, and cucumbers.

Save room for some good sea food — specifically the oysters and crabs offered by Virginia's coastline.

watermelons produced. And the popularity of Virginia-raised food doesn't end at the nation's boundaries. Italians have been enjoying Virginia beef since the first shipment from Southwest Virginia two years ago.

And there's a new twist to the selling of Virginia foods — by Long Distance telephone auction to such locations as Baltimore, Buffalo, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. This idea, incidentally, originated in our state. And there's more, much more, being raised, produced and sold all around us. Right in our own backyard, as a matter of fact.

Men of Galilee, the sturdy, thought-provoking men's club for Galilee Episcopal church's men's club, staged a "Getting to Know You" oyster Roast for their aides last week. (Children were kept in bed at home so there are no lost little ones snatching food and drinks in the manner of the very young).

The setting was in the extreme rear of the church grounds facing a rocky road. We climbed the hill and joined Dan and Ann Jordan, uniformly dressed in attractive oxford clothes as they parked their car. The night was pure "harvest moon" weather. Looking down the valley, we beheld Colonel Ed Dillon attired in brown shorts and a short shirt seated at a bridge table graciously collecting a minimum donation from the approximately 250 Galileans and their guests who attended.

Mrs. DeWitt, Naomi pretty in colorful gort socks, the Peter Scotts, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Gregg, Mrs. Wilbers, the Pierre Cromerbergs, Mrs. Vernay, the Frank Braggs, the Hugh Merdeths, the Robert Taylors, the Richard Taylors, the Fielding Jeters, the George Aldridges, the Scott Taylors, John Tuck, Mrs. Kathy Hall, the Edgar Tugmans, the Robert Peabodys, Colonel John R. Riley (USA ret) and Mrs. Riley, and their guests, Captain (UBN ret) and Mrs. Jack Eddy, and Miss Sue Brooks were a few of those enjoying the conviviality and hospitality of the spicy Autumn evening.

Cleverly constructed lanterns made of candles placed in sand with shades of brown paper bags, surrounded the entire area. Members of the Youth Fellowship group, Jill Siverica, James Kitchener, Jr. and Ricky Hanger, made them.

Deck chairs were available for those who wished to sit, and young people perched on car hoods, chatting and laughing as they planned winter church activities. Ger Wood was asking Kathy Hall to "have another chicken leg" . . . Mrs. Dorothy Murray and her daughter, Mrs. Westfield Locke and Mrs. Leslie Blood, with Mrs. Henry Boykin and Thelma Forrest sat in a circle, old friends getting reacquainted after summer. Mrs. Altheide received the best in show award, and blue ribbons were won by Mrs. Jennings, Mrs. Margaret Camp, Mrs. D. B. Boykin, Mrs. J. N. Albre, Mrs. E. H. Overbay, Mrs. J. M. Wood, Mrs. Deary and Mrs. Altheide.

Davis, vice president; Mrs. C. W. Jernigan, second vice president; Mrs. R. M. Warren, treasurer; and Mrs. A. Donnan, historian.

LET'S TALK FASHION

SNIPPY TOE — A short, square toe in glossy black calf has the fine good looks of the whole pretty little pump story for fall. It's topped with a bow and has a two colour heel. The shoe is by Herbert Levine and is a National Shoe Institute Selection.

The vitality of the young has brought a spirited freshness to the world of fashion and has made it fun and practical for women of all ages. The whole key to today's fashion is balance. The shortened hemlines (that are here to stay, by the way) bring legs into focus. With legs dominating the picture, a footwear wardrobe becomes a necessity. You collect shoes now as you collect stockings—because they balance your costume—because the wrong shoe can ruin the best of fashion's new ideas.

For Fall, designers offer shoes that have never been more shapey, more colorful, more comfortable, or more irresistible. Accord-

Cavalier Jrs.
VIRGINIA BEACH — The Cavalier Junior Women's Club opened its 1966-67 club year with a most informative program on "Child Molesting". Detective Lt. George Bryant from the Youth Bureau of the City of Virginia Beach presented a film which was followed by a question and answer period.

The program was arranged by the Club's Public Welfare department to promote the project with which Junior Clubwomen throughout the state of Virginia will concern themselves for the next two years—"Youth of Our Time".

Cavalier Juniors will continue to work diligently in the field of public welfare again this year, and have selected to benefit the Virginia Beach Welfare Department with their monthly "shower gifts".

Each month throughout the club year club members will contribute a particular item of need to this organization.

Traveling extensively in Europe for several weeks are Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Moir of King's Grant and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Smith of Lakewood, Norfolk.

Cavalier Garden Club Of VB

VIRGINIA BEACH — The Cavalier Garden Club of Virginia Beach is undertaking another project to aid in the beautification of this city. Under the leadership of Mrs. W. H. Brown, president; Mrs. Arthur J. Winder, general chairman; and Mrs. E. A. Hoffmeister, co-chairman, the club is entering the HANOS Awards contest of the local Council of Garden Clubs.

HANOS, meaning "Home And Neighborhood Development Sponsors", was initiated and is being sponsored by the Sears Community Improvement Fund of Sears, Roebuck and Company. The program was started as an experiment in 1955 when the Sears-Roebuck Foundation made modest grants to selected cities. The program continued to expand, and at present numerous Southern garden clubs are enthusiastically participating, to the tremendous benefit of their cities.

When the Cavalier Garden Club decided to enter this contest, a committee was formed to select a site which was badly in need of landscaping and beautifying. This committee probably had the easiest task in the history of the club. One look at the Seapines Post Office, and with gentle, but constant, urging by Postmaster Joseph T. Crosswhite, made the site a unanimous selection.

The Steering Committee, appointed to carry out the details of the landscaping plans, met recently with Elgin L. Easter, Ornamental Horticulturist of the City of Virginia Beach, who designed the plans. Serving on this committee are Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Winder, Mrs. Hoffmeister, Mrs. L. Gilmore L. Tilbrook, Mrs. L. O. Clark, Jr. and Mrs. Kenneth Treschow.

Some of the planting will consist of climbing Euonymus, native Wax Myrtle, ivy petunias, and other flowering plants seasonally. It is hoped the project will be completed by late fall.

Expenditures by the club are expected to be nominal, as many services and materials are being donated by companies and individuals.

Other committee chairman appointed were Mrs. S. R. Brockington, fiance; Mrs. James A. Murphy, Jr., photography; Mrs. Mitchell L. Shipman, maintenance, and Mrs. T. Roy Grubbs and Mrs. D. W. Cassada, publicity.

Mrs. R. H. Owen of Oceanus has as her guests Dr. and Mrs. Everett Hemphill of Hadenfield, New Jersey. Dr. Hemphill is delighted with the fishing at Virginia Beach and comes annually "after the tourist rush is over." The Hemphills are relatives of Mr. Owen.

With little help from her volunteer League committee (most of whom were "out of town" when needed) but with tremendous help from all city officials and their staffs, Mrs. Tate announced that The Guide to Virginia Beach City Government will go on sale Monday all over the city.

One strategic spot will be at the Greater Tidewater Fair.

District 'L' Teachers Meet

Va. Autumn Rose Show

As has been its custom, the Garden Club of Virginia will again spotlight the beauty of October roses in a Rose Show sponsored by one of its member clubs. The 30th Annual Rose Show will be held at the Mariners Museum in Newport News under the auspices of The Hampton Roads Garden Club, Wednesday, Oct. 5 and Thursday, Oct. 6.

The Show will be open on Wednesday from 3:00 p.m. until 9:00 p.m., and on Thursday from 10:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m.

A Special Educational Division will be entitled "Nautical Roses" and will be a compilation of exhibits from collections of the Mariners Museum depicting the use of roses in various works of art.

In the early days of sailing vessels, many sailors brought the romantic image of the rose to life with cord. The Rose Knot and its motif have been used through the years in ornamental rope work and in elaborate picture frames knotted cord.

Inspiration for the theme of the show was the book, "This Was Chesapeake Bay" by Robert H. Burgess, Curator of Exhibits at the Museum. Chapter titles from the book have been chosen for Artistic Division in which roses are featured.

EDITORIALLY SPEAKING

A Junior College For Us

The initial suggestion of a junior college in Virginia Beach recently pleased us greatly. The great number of endorsements with which the suggestion of the school board was met was even more pleasing to us. And now City Council's appointment of three of its members to look into possible sites for such a facility pleases us most of all.

These three events have followed so closely on the heels of each other that it would appear a junior college for Virginia Beach in the not too distant future could be a reality. We hope so, and offer our full cooperation and endorsement to those working diligently toward that end.

There are many reasons for a junior college in Virginia Beach. Probably the most important reason is that our colleges all over the country are becoming so overcrowded with good students that it is difficult for many to be accepted, regardless of their academic standing. There is one college in Virginia that will accept only the top two students from Virginia High Schools, and some of those are not acceptable because of non-academic standards.

We believe that every qualified high school graduate who wishes to get a college education has the right to do so, and a junior college in many cases is the answer. Furthermore there are many students, mature or immature,

A New Shipyards

The Tidewater Virginia Development Council, composed of many of this area's most distinguished citizens, is leading the fight to locate a new and large shipyard in Tidewater. Obviously we agree with TVDC's members. There is no better place to locate a shipyard than right here in Tidewater, the world's most outstanding harbor.

There has been much written and spoken publicly recently by several persons indicating or implying that this person or that is not doing all he can to bring the shipyard here. It would seem to us that the time has come when these self-appointed critics and others who believe they have an honest contribution to make toward helping to locate the new industry in Tidewater should cooperate fully with TVDC. It seems wrong to us that they issue statements about someone else whom they may believe should be doing more.

If all of those influential persons in this area work closely together now and present a united front instead of trying to stir controversy, we feel certain that all the assistance and technical advice possible will be forthcoming from our state government.

This is definitely not a time in the history of Virginia when an important industry is at stake for anyone to be criticizing anyone else. This is the time for everyone to work together to bring the matter to a successful conclusion. And the only successful conclusion is the location of the new shipyard in Tidewater.

The facility is needed in this area. It would be good for all of Tidewater. We hope this is the location chosen in the final analysis. But most of all, we feel that all of us should unite behind the Tidewater Virginia Development Council and offer all manner of support possible in order to bring the new shipyard to Tidewater.

The Virginia General Assembly has endorsed a system of junior colleges across the Old Dominion. These institutions will be of great value to the educational system of our state. And the location of one of these junior colleges in Virginia Beach is a fine idea. There is plenty of land available and plenty of potential students to fill it.

Revise The Law, Please

We have noted with pleasure that Virginia's entirely controversial drunk driving laws will come under close scrutiny by a special General Assembly Subcommittee. Virginia Beach Delegate Edward T. Caton, III, is a member of that group created to review the laws and possibly recommend changes in the 1968 session of the legislature.

If any Virginia Beach residents have any valid suggestions on the matter we hope they will contact Caton in order that he may pass them on to the subcommittee. The so-called "implied consent" drunk driving law has been called virtually unworkable by a large number of responsible lawmakers and law enforcement officials across Virginia. The procedure of arresting a drunk driver is so precise, tedious, lengthy and involved that many lawyers have made a mockery of the law in open court.

Convictions have been few. In fact there have been proportionately less convictions under this law than before it was passed. Virginia Beach police have done a magnificent job in carrying out the law, but several officers have told us privately that they dislike having to arrest a drunk driver because of the complicated procedure.

It is our hope that this subcommittee can come up with a workable law designed to deter drunk drivers and to do away with the one that now almost tends to protect the drunk driver.

All we are looking for is safety on our roads and highways. This subcommittee can be an important part of that program. But they must spell out a good law, not one full of loopholes. We suggest a strong new law as we support the work of this subcommittee.

Please Not Another Tax

We certainly agree with Virginia Beach city officials who are against a one-percent payroll tax as recommended to the Virginia Municipal League by Norfolk Mayor Roy Martin.

First of all Virginia Beach is getting along just fine under its current tax setup and is growing nicely, thank you. But more important, we do not need another source of revenue yet. The time may come in the distant future, but right now it looks like that there is plenty of room for expansion in the present revenue-producing program.

In addition we do not think it would be at all fair for residents of Virginia Beach working in Norfolk to be taxed and not to receive any of the Norfolk services provided by the revenue. The fact that Virginia Beach would gain one-half of the money from the tax paid by its residents is absolutely immaterial. Please not another tax, especially any time soon. And please not on our paychecks. It is nothing sacred!

UNCERTAIN FOOTING

Registration Deadline

The time is rapidly approaching for the registration books to be closed to new voters prior to the November General Election. By law the books must be closed thirty days before an election. October 8 is the deadline this year for registering to vote in the all-important election a month later.

A sampling in our own neighborhood showed that there are very few registered voters. This is shameful, particularly when there is no expense and very little trouble in getting registered to vote.

There are precinct registrars in every voting precinct in Virginia Beach. Any one not knowing who his registrar is or how to reach him may find out easily by calling the General Registrar at City Hall. New residents in a precinct should immediately begin the easy process of transferring his voting rights or of registering for the first time.

For those who have never registered before the registration process is short and painless. It can be accomplished quickly. All it takes is a little initiative and a little interest in one's community, state and nation.

For those who must transfer from

See The Water Battle

On October 1, the Plaza Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad will hold a one-day event on the parking area of Princess Anne Plaza Shopping Center. The event is a carnival being staged for a mighty worthy cause.

Just a little over a year ago, the Plaza Fire and Rescue boys got their first ambulance. It was sorely needed to serve the needs of that vast area. The ambulance they were able to buy after a fund-raising campaign was far from being a new one, but the men have nursed it along over many miles on many important cases since that time. The trouble is that "Old No. 1" should be retired, and the carnival Saturday will raise money for a new ambulance. We urge all residents of Virginia Beach to be on hand for a grand time.

There will be rides for the kids on the fire engines and on ponies. But the highlight will be a water battle between volunteer firemen. Anyone who has not seen one of these has a treat in store.

The Plaza Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squads do a terrific job for us. Now is the time to show our appreciation by attending this event and supporting their efforts to buy a new ambulance.

THE BEACH THIS WEEK

The U. S. Coast Guard has awarded $381,700 contract to a Virginia Beach firm for the construction of an engineer's laboratory building at Yorktown. Sen. A. Willis Robertson said the contract was awarded to Fox-Well Co. of Virginia Beach.

City Council has authorized city Manager W. Russell Hatchett to apply for an estimated $32,500 in federal funds from the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development for the purchase of Green Run Farm as a recreation area. The city of Norfolk is the present owner of the farm, but a sale has been agreed on.

Virginia Beach police have under investigation the theft of more than $700 from the Aragona Community Center, Inc. during the weekend. The center is located at 565 De La Rue Lane.

Mayor Frank A. Dusch has resigned as director of civil defense, effective Oct. 1. Commissioner of Revenue, Ivan D. Macp has been selected to head the department.

A man who escaped from Virginia Beach Municipal Court Aug. 10 while awaiting an extradition hearing has been arrested in Atlanta, Ga., reportedly during a burglary. George M. Luka, 22, was sought by Georgia authorities for four previous burglaries when he appeared in court here. He faces two charges of burglary and one of escape here besides the charges in Georgia. His wife, who allegedly helped him escape, is presently free on bond in Virginia Beach.

Navy authorities are continuing their search for the body of LCDR. Dwight C. Owings, of Virginia Beach, the pilot of an AGA intruder that crashed Tuesday near Smith Island at the mouth of the Potomac River. The crash occurred while the plane was on a routine training mission at the Tangier bombing range. The body of the bombardier-navigator, Lt. Douglas R. Bibler was recovered shortly after the crash. Salvage operators and investigation into the cause of the crash are underway.

Parks & Rec. Commission For Bond Issue

By DOUGLAS BARNES, V. B. Correspondent

VIRGINIA BEACH—It is regular monthly meeting Tuesday, the Parks and Recreation Commission urged the passage of Virginia Beach's Bond Issue, allegedly to be voted on Nov. 8, since the Commission's estimated Bond Issue Expenditures are $700,000. The statistics are: Capital Improvements, $139,000; Green Run Farm, (Purchase) $400,000; Nike Site, $75,000;

Construction and Development of Marina Facilities $22,240; Little Island Beach, $25,000; (restrooms, picnic facilities, fill, improvements to area).

The Commission also presented the operating expenditures for 1968 for Sandbridge Beach, Little Island and Beach, and the Steel Pier Surfing Area. The total for these is $1,574,60.

In June, July, and August, 104,294 persons used these areas. At Little Island Beach, the Surfing totaled 31,519 persons; there were 15,475 swimmers; visitors were 23,495. In the Surfing Pier Area there were 43,720 spectators and 20,856 surfers. Picnickers numbered 22,369.

Mariann Renn, commission member and chaplain, suggested that the Commission meet at the Nike Site, where the Administrative Staff has moved from its offices in Ocean City, for its October meeting. It was moved, seconded and carried to do so.

There will be a Commission Tour and Safari to visit and evaluate the various park, picnic, camp and recreation sites on Oct. 25 at 10 a.m. The Tour will be by bus; those going will bring a box lunch, and further information may be attained from the Parks and Recreation Office. Mary Rigan, Commission chairman, announced that George Linsberry, had offered the city 3 acres of land, behind St. Francis Church to set aside for a park and meditation spot for the public. Mason Gamage asked that the Commission work to improve the park in landscaping, benches, etc. Gamage is chairman of Planning Commission, and a member of the Recreation Commission also.

Mrs. Robert Goodman, Jr., asked that more space be given to swimmers, since surfing had become so popular, and the hours were not limited.

Mrs. J. Douglas Wilson, League of Women Voters, attended the meeting.

P.A.'s Season Looks Good

VIRGINIA BEACH — It looks as if Princess Anne High School will have the best season of the Beach high schools this year.

Tigers Trounce Barons 32-13

VIRGINIA BEACH — In Community League football play, sponsored by the Virginia Beach Department of Parks and Recreation, the American Division of the 6-man midgets saw the Tigers trouncing the Barons 32-13. The Rams and the Vikings played to a 13-13 tie. The Thorobreds downed the Chargers 13-6 on the strength of a 22 yard run by Bil Newell and a 5 yard plunge by Robert Manning. The Plaza Colts blanked the Diamond Spring Wildcats 13-0.

The Cavaliers were the lucky ones in the boundary changes in beach school districts helped strengthen the squad. Transfers swelled ranks with some of the other high school's most capable players.

This weekend, Princess Anne

Eleven Beach Students At VWC

VIRGINIA BEACH — Eleven Virginia Beach Students are among seventy-five pioneer students who began the first year of classes at newly established Virginia Wesleyan College here this month.

Virginia Wesleyan, a coeducational, Methodist-related, liberal arts college, offers a unique approach in higher education with the academic village concept emphasizing close association among students and faculty in a compact $1.5 million college complex.

Construction on the new college began in July 1965 and workers are putting the finishing touches on the eight buildings this month. The academic village has seven units connected by galleries and an eighth unit adjacent to the unified complex. The academic village has four dormitory units (one which is being used for administration and faculty offices) this year, two lounge-classroom units and a dining hall. The eighth unit, adjacent to the complex, houses the library and science laboratories.

Fifty of the 75 students are residents in the academic village. The remaining are commuters from the Tidewater area. The students come from eight states and some 40 high schools. The first year class is almost equally divided between men and women.

15 full-time students at Virginia Wesleyan are taking a normal first-year liberal arts program with English, mathematics, history, a science (chemistry or biology), and a foreign language (Spanish, French or German). The new college has ten teaching faculty members, a graduate librarian and four administrative officers.

College officials indicate that Wesleyan's enrollment will be increased by 100 students next fall (1967) for a projected enrollment of 150 to 175. The projected long range enrollment for the college, when three more academic villages are completed, will be 1200 students.

Joseph Appointed VWC Bus. Manager

VIRGINIA BEACH — Virginia Wesleyan College has announced the appointment of William T. Joseph business manager. His duties began on Monday.

Joseph, 29, has been with the U.S. General Accounting Office as an auditor for two and one-half years. He is a graduate of East Carolina College in business administration and served for two years in the Armed Forces with the Army Security Agency.

A native of Lewes, Delaware, Joseph attended high school in Delaware and took two years of business training at the Godby-Brown School of Business in Wilmington, Delaware.

Joseph is married to the former Norma Fay Bright of Elizabeth City, North Carolina. Mrs. Joseph is a teacher at Plaza Elementary School in Virginia Beach.

Thus far the ratio of women to men participating in the twice a week program has been about 10:1. These women are enjoying an hour of supervised exercise which is followed by another hour of free play in which they enjoy using any and all of the equipment available in the gym attend.

One of the newest and most interesting pieces of equipment now available for us is the Universal Gym Set. With this item anyone can get a complete work out without the old chore of removing and placing weights to get the desired working load. By simply moving a pin to the desired weight, one can adjust the machine to his capacities. This gym set is available at all of the Fitness Centers.

The gyms mentioned above will be open each Monday and Thursday night, 7:30-9:30 P.M., through November 24.

More ladies are invited to come, and all of those women participating now are urged to bring along the "old man" — for his own good.

Extension Services — Part I

HOME ECONOMICS:

Do you think that being "just a housewife" labels you as an unimportant factor in today's fast-paced society? Though the world is changing around you, the basic for a good family life still rests on the shoulders of the homemaker. Some of you are just housewives, others strive to be real homemakers, and many of you fit the category of family executives.

Molding the lives of those you love is a full-time job and a time-honored profession. And though times change, basic needs remain. Women must have a mate to establish a home . . . it still takes nine months to produce a baby . . . and children must be raised in an atmosphere of love to become responsible human beings. The "what hasn't changed, but the 'how' is vastly different.

To be a happy housewife, you must be an educated housewife, but that doesn't necessarily mean one with a college degree! You become an educated housewife first by realizing how important each facet of your many jobs are, and then by calling on the experts for specific fields in which you may be inadequate.

The Virginia Agriculture and Home Economics Extension program is available FREE to the new-comer, the new homemaker and also to acquaint the older family manager with information on a vast variety of subjects pertaining to having "the good life" . . .

From time immemorial the female has had the awesome task of being responsible for the home. But never before has she had so much help just for the asking. Extension home economists supply sound facts based on scientific research from university and government sources.

Your constant decisions as to what to buy, how to manage the family income, care for the children and the home, and the wise use of your time and energy so you may also understand the problems of your community, the nation and the world all contribute to overwhelming you with unending tasks that you can't complete.

In Virginia Beach, Mrs. Cleopatra Robinson is the Home Economist in the Extension office at City Hall in Princess Anne borough. She also serves from the annex on Birchtree road. Mrs. Robinson is helping Virginia Beach housewives for about nine years, and every phase of family life is covered by her office.

Income, time and energy, family improvement and health, art appreciation and application, family relationships and child development are all included in the categories of Consumer Education, Management, Housing and Home Furnishings, Child Development and Human Relations, Clothing, and Nutrition Education.

You may take advantage of any of these services either through workshops, forums, discussion groups, meeting with organized homemakers' groups as well as occasional home visits by the home economist. You may even become a leader for your community and teach other interested homemakers how to make home a happy place.

Extension home economics is a part of the Cooperative Extension Service, established by Act of Congress in 1914 to help "the people of the United States" improve their farms, homes, and communities.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the State and City governments make up a three-way partnership to share in financing this national out-of-school education program but it takes YOU, the homemaker, to finish the picture of a happy, harmonious and healthy home.

There is no need for you to feel like a "trapped housewife." You do have the most difficult job there is, but also the one which you can control to the greatest extent. It is up to you if your family is going to be happy and healthy. It is silly to moan about being stuck within four dreary walls with demanding children because you don't have the money to buy the clothes or the time to meet other people.

Your home economist can introduce you to ways of making your money stretch further, how to understand your children's needs, how to brighten the furnishings of your home, how to sew fashionable outfits, and, perhaps, most important of all, she lets you know you are not alone. You can meet other housewives facing your same problems, and you can get the same expert advice as your neighbor.

Get in touch with the Extension Office at City Hall. You, too, can be an executive . . . and where it counts the most, in your own home.

Oceana Pilot Awarded Medal

OCEANA — Lieutenant Kenneth A. Rose, U.S.N.R., has been cited for "... meritorious achievement in aerial flight in combat with the enemy . . ." while serving with Attack Squadron 43, embarked in the nuclear attack aircraft carrier USS Enterprise, operating in waters off the coast of Vietnam. Rose's action earned him the Navy Commendation Medal.

In a ceremony recently, Commander Russell D. Kaubick, Executive Officer of Oceana-based Attack Squadron 43 presented Lieutenant Rose with the Navy Commendation Medal on behalf of the Secretary of the Navy.

The citation read, in part, "... Lieutenant Rose, flying as number four in a flight of eight A-6 aircraft, successfully attacked the Enterprise supply complex far inland in central North Vietnam. After a precisely executed, coordinated attack accurately delivering all bombs on target, he successfully evaded a surface-to-air missile launched into the retiring aircraft. Subject to intense anti-aircraft fire, he continued to calmly advise his flight leader of the close proximity of flak bursts. The exemplary skill, single-mindedness and courageous conduct displayed by Lieutenant Rose in the face of extreme danger were in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

Martinette Expands Interests

By DORIS PADRICK
Women's Editor

To the residents of Tidewater, the name Martinette is automatically associated with the beauty queen. Michael A. Martinette, Jr. and his wife, Cleo, are two very active members of the clan who have recently branched out in their own to establish Martinette Beauty Supply, Inc., located at 1737 3 Virginia Beach Blvd. in Virginia.

Martinette Beauty Supply, Inc., is in addition to their already successful Japant and Oceana Beauty Academies and the Oceana Barber College.

Martinette has been in beauty work all his adult life and sold beauty supplies to shops in Virginia and North Carolina from 1959 to 1962. Mr. and Mrs. Martinette operated three beauty shops—Fashion Flair, Oakridge and Foundation Park—for a number of years, and formerly ran the Wards Corner Beauty Academy.

Their newest venture has Martinette as president; Cleo, vice president; and Howard Seymour, secretary-treasurer. Seymour is a licensed beautician and the former owner of three beauty salons.

The new warehouse and modern show room has more than 1300 feet of storage space. Seymour with George Gibbs and Bill Powers are the three salesmen and they have three new trucks equipped with supplies and two-way radios to serve the surrounding areas. Mrs. Mary Ford is the office secretary.

Specialists in finding locations for prospective beauty shops, they have a list of several choice spots available and ready to be set up.

Mrs. Ze'da Seymour, Howard's wife, also had an integral part in the Martinette enterprises. She is the head instructor at the Oceana Beauty Academy. Her assistants are Blanche Maron and Josephine McDougle. The beauty school has been graduating skilled beauty operators for quite some time; and the related business, Oceana Barber College, was established just this past year.

Wilson Trayer is the certified barber instructor who is in charge of turning out qualified tonorial artists. Both men and women (and teen-age boys and girls) interested in learning the barbershop trade soon become expert in all phases, of modern hair cutting, giving shaves, hot towelling, etc.

Both schools are open to the general public for hair cuts or hair-dos and related services by the practicing students, at a nominal charge, on Mondays through Fridays from 1 to 10 p.m., and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

THE FOUNTAIN AREA of Penobscot Mall is patterned after the famous "Old Faithful" in Yellowstone Park which erupts every hour. This spray of sparkling water rises automatically every few minutes to the heights of the multi-colored triple lights suspended on black iron poles. There are cedars and evergreens all around the aqua fountain pool. Another "beauty spot" in the modern setting of the shopping center caught by the candid camera of Casandra.

free!

On the contrary. We've been doing it for years—and have satisfied customers to prove it.

It's just part of Sinclair's 3-Year Heating Service Plan to give you reliable and constant home heat. Here's how it works: if your present oil burner is old or obsolete, it may cost us more to keep it running than to give you a new burner free. That's not so crazy, is it? Here's what you get:

• New, top-quality residential-type oil burner free if your

• Year-round burner service plus replacement of defective parts, including 275-gallon above-ground tank.

• Automatic delivery of Sinclair Super-Flame Heating Oil.

Old Princess Anne Houses

VB Correspondent

of this home is a brick which bears the inscription "W. W. P. 1780".

The Dutch gambrel house contains 14-inch thick walls of Flemish bond brick. Ivy climbs halfway up the outside walls; its windows are sunken or recessed. Mammoth oaks shadow the house and front door is elegant and sturdy. White attached house of wood adds to its modernity to the setting.

In search of Old Princess Anne houses for homes, as we prefer to say we learn from Miss Jan Doel of the city's Planning Commission that in redistricting the rapidly growing city, there arose a need to locate and to help restore historical houses, particularly those which are not occupied. Jan, in her search, has taken snapshots and drawn marvelous sketches or etchings of many of these houses.

One of these, the Jonathan Woodhouse Plantation Home, built in 1760, is now owned by Willie Butt. To reach it one drives down a long country road. The Woodhouse name represents a family which has lent its distinguished history and civic service to this area for ten generations. At least three generations of Jonathan Woodhouses have made their home here. On each side of the front

There is no hallway, and the two first-door rooms are about ten feet high. As we observed narrow shelves on high mantles, wide pine floor planks, antique doors with wrought iron hinges, we were forcibly reminded of our childhood summer skyline cottage where the Blue Ridge Mountains rose in majesty at our back door. As a child we paddled around Goose Creek, the bubbling mountain brook which each August rose to exciting heights, and crept into the yard and down into the cellar flooding our mother's ingenious "icebox."

The Woodhouse home faces the rising sun, and a lane leads southward to the main road. On the north side is a blind stairway leading in secret to a small room under the gambrel.

September Sailor Chosen At Oceana

OCEANA—Norman L. Barrickman, a constructionman in Oceana Naval Air Station's Public Works Department, was selected as sailor of the month for September at the master jet base.

Barrickman was selected for the month from a field of men from most of the Oceana departments. He was also recommended by his division officer in conference with the Oceana Public Works Officer.

Working in the transportation division of his department, Barrickman was noted for his conscientious effort in handling the jobs assigned to him. According to his division officer, Ensign W. A. Huey, he is a man from whom other sailors may well accept an example.

EVERYBODY'S TALKING about the grand opening of "Brigadoon" on Friday night. It is the Little Theatre's first play of the season and black ties, formal gowns and furs will be as popular as the jewels at the Met's opening in New York last week. A gay bachelor, always interested in community affairs, and the calm voice who answers the Rescue Squad and Police calls in the wee small hours of the night, William (Bill) Rice has his two tickets ready. Wonder who's his lucky date? (photo by Cassandra)

'Brigadoon' Opens Friday

VIRGINIA BEACH—When the Virginia Beach Little Theatre opens its production of "Brigadoon" at the Courtland Playhouse on September 30, the audiences will have the opportunity to enjoy the talents of fellow members of the community.

Shakespeare's contention that "All the world's a stage" would seem to be borne out by glancing at the varied background of the cast and crew of this colorful musical.

Among the younger members of the cast are two students from Hermitage Elementary school—Beth Anne and Chris Owens, while lead dancer in the show, Cam Justice, is a Princess Anne High sophomore. Also from PA comes pianist Gary Meredith who is a member of the junior class.

The teaching profession is represented by Faye McKinnon, a music instructor from Bayside High; and fifth grade teacher, Bruce Montgomery, from Hermitage Elementary.

The medical world has given us leading man, Bob Koch, a Navy dentist at Little Creek; and registered nurse Anna Parkin who works at the General Hospital of Virginia Beach.

The military contributes retired Navy men Norrie Martin and John Mac Arthur; and Navy wife, Rita Keating, who was formerly a teacher of dancing in the Kansas City area.

Housewives, businessmen, artists and craftsmen help to fill out the large cast of this community theatre venture which will provide entertainment for area residents the first four weeks in October at the Courtland Playhouse on 17th street between Atlantic and Pacific avenues.

Tickets may be obtained by phone 428-8500 daytime, or 428-8832, on evenings of performances.

Old Virginia Recipes For Autumn Pilgrimage

Virginia's traditional recipes will be used for menus at lunch and tea on the two week ends in October when the 6th Virginia's Annual Autumn Pilgrimage takes place, October 7, 8 and 9 and October 14, 15 and 16. Tourists will have an opportunity not only to see Colonial homes and churches but also to taste those culinary treats that have given Virginia her reputation for fine cooking.

Pecan pies, chess tarts, country ham, home-made rolls and Brunswick Stew will have mouth-watering memories, for the Women of the Church in the various areas have planned menus that are unusually delicious though their preparation may be simpler than it was in the 18th century.

At St. John's Church in Richmond, participating in the Pilgrimage for the first time, "Chicken Salad" will be served as well as a specialty of St. John's with Garden Week visitors, "Old Fashioned Sheet Cake with Hot Lemon Sauce." When Historic Richmond's Foundation serves High Tea at the 2000 Club on Sunday afternoon, visitors will find the kind of refreshments that graced the tables of the early 19th century when the elite of Richmond lived on old Church Hill. Not usually opened to the public, the 2000 Club is a private club noted for its cuisine, for its members are gourmets in the best sense of the word. October 7 and 8 with lunches at St. John's Parish House and October 9 with High Tea at the 2000 Club should be a gustatory adventure for guests.

Brandon Church women are real pros when it comes to serving luncheons for Virginia's Annual Autumn Pilgrimage. This will be the sixth year they have participated. Proceeds from the luncheons go directly to the separate church guilds; proceeds from the Pilgrimage are divided between the churches and are used for their restoration.

"Pecan Pie is one of the great favorites at Brandon Church and is always popular with luncheon guests at Brandon. Since this church is in one of the oldest parishes in Virginia, recipes are real heirlooms from manuscript cook-

Vauter's Church in Essex will have guest cooks from two other Episcopal churches in the area, on Friday, the Women of the Church from St. Asaph's in Bowling Green will officiate in the Parish House Kitchen, on Saturday, those from St. Peter's Church in Port Royal will be in charge. A favorite recipe in Essex County is "Layer Cakes with Orange-Coconut Filling", and no doubt this will be one of the desserts on the menus there. Today's recipe is from Blandfield, home of the Beverleys, one of the 18th century estates that will be open this year for the visitors to Yorktown will find that the Grace Church women have prepared a delicious spread, the famous ham of the area and "Potato Rolls," also called Madisons. Friday's menu will doubtless include "Deviled Crab" for Yorktown is famous for its seafood.

At the present time, the Women of the church in all areas are playing it cagey, with a warning that changes might occur, but whatever is served will be well worth waiting for.

Recipes from Virginia's Famous Tidewater, "Published by Virginia's Autumn Pilgrimage includes many old recipes from the areas. The booklet is almost a collector's item, but will be sent to those who wish it, $1.25 postage prepaid. Address the Pilgrimage, 5 Westham Parkway, Richmond.

VIRGINIA CHICKEN SALAD
(For 4)

4 chicken breasts
½ onion, chopped
1 strip of celery, cut up Few peppercorns

Cook the chicken in water containing the celery, onion and peppercorns, with a little salt. When tender, let it cool in the water. Remove skin and bones, reserving the skin for later. Cut up with scissors into bite sized pieces.

To the chicken which will be about 2 cups, add 1 cup of chopped celery, the whites of hard cooked eggs, sliced, 1/4 cup of pickle relish, and ½ cup of good mayonnaise to which has been added the mashed yolks of the hard cooked eggs and 1/4 cup of the strained broth in which the chicken was cooked. Check seasoning, adding more salt, if necessary.

Chicken Salad is best when more pepper is added, sprinkled with additional pepper, the salad covered with chicken skin should "melt" in the refrigerator a few hours before serving. (St. John's Episcopal Church, Richmond.)

PECAN PIE

3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 cup of sugar
1 cup of light corn syrup
Pinch of cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon of salt
1 cup of pecan pieces, or less
1 teaspoon of vanilla
8 inch unbaked pie shell

Mix the ingredients, adding the pecans last. Pour into an 8 inch square shallow pan, lined with pastry or into a pie plate lined with pastry. Bake at 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce the heat and bake at 325 until firm. When done, the top will be crusty with the pecans showing. (Brandon Episcopal Church, Prince George County.)

ORANGE COCONUT LAYER CAKE

2 cups of sugar
1 cup of butter
6 egg yolks
6 egg whites

1 1/2 teaspoons of vanilla
2 2/3 cups of sifted flour
2 teaspoons of baking powder
1 cup of milk

Beat the butter until soft and add the sugar gradually. When light and creamy add the eggs, one yolk at a time, beating well after each. Add the vanilla.

Sift the dry ingredients together, having sifted the flour before measuring. Add to the butter mixture, alternately with the milk, pouring in one third of a cup each time, beating until smooth after each addition.

Fold in the 6 egg whites, beaten stiff but not dry. Bake in 3 layer cake pans, greased and lined with waxed paper, at 350 degrees for 35 minutes.

Orange-Coconut Frosting and Filling:

In the top of a double boiler, put 2 unbeaten egg whites, 1 1/2 cups of sugar, 5 tablespoons of orange juice, and 1 1/2 teaspoons of light corn syrup. Beat over rapidly boiling water, using a wire whisk, rotary beater or electric mixer for 7 minutes. Remove from the fire and continue beating until the icing is thick enough to spread. Use as filling and frosting for the cake, topping filling and frosting with grated coconut and orange slices. (Vauter's Episcopal Church, Essex)

POTATO ROLLS OR MADISONS

1 1/2 cups of lukewarm water or potato water

1 package of dry yeast

1/3 cup of sugar

VB Golden Years Club Growing

VIRGINIA BEACH—The Golden Years Club of Virginia Beach is growing fast due to the young out-look of its "over 60" members (and publicity in the Virginia Beach Sun, according to president Haskett).

It was a joyous occasion when the club assembled for its first meeting after the long summer interlude. Several new officers were installed and a number of potential new members attended.

Plans to move into larger quarters in the near future were discussed, and suggestions were made for trips and activities to come.

Refreshments followed by a game session concluded the meeting.

Highlight of the second meeting was a luncheon at the Shore Drive Inn where everyone enjoyed delicious seafood and golden brown hush-puppies.

The Golden Years Club meets every second and fourth Thursday at 11 a.m. in the First Presbyterian Church. There are no dues and no admission fees and the club is non denominational. Everyone over 60 years of age is welcome to come and have fun.

For further information, call 428-4757.

Next meeting will be held October 13.
